Probers Reject McCarthy's Challenge Against Legal Staff

Committee Sets Oct. 1 As Target Date For Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Senators weighing censure charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) late today unanimously turned down McCarthy's challenge of the fairness of the investigating committee's legal staff.

The special committee said it had "absolute confidence" in the fairness of its aids.

McCarthy and his lawyer had said that chief counsel E. Wallace Chadwick and his assistants, Guy G. De Furia among them, had acted as prosecutors in the hearings and hence should not help write the report on the committee's eventual findings.

The committee's report will serve as a guide to the Senate when it returns this fall or early winter to act on the censure charges fired at McCarthy by Senators Flanders (R-Vt), Fulbright (D-Ark) and Morse (Ind-Ore).

Chairman Watkins (R-Utah) read a statement rejecting the challenge against Chadwick and De Furia. He said there is an additional objection too—that "if the motion were granted it would, in effect, probably delay for several weeks the final report to the Senate" because of the difficulty of finding unprejudiced men willing to serve, and the time it would take newcomers to familiarize themselves with the testimony.

McCarthy's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, told a reporter he was "disappointed" with the ruling.

There was no comment from McCarthy.

Watkins, in the statement said "members of the committee will make all of the decisions and that they do not need to rely on counsel in the making of those decisions.

"The committee has absolute confidence in the fairness of Mr. Chadwick, Mr. De Furia and all other members of the legal staff. They will act under committee direction and will satisfy the committee requirements in the matter of the information required by the committee."

Watkins said the committee will meet again tomorrow morning and probably will be in session all day. He was asked if the committee's report would be made public before it is submitted to the Senate on its return.

"That I can't answer," Watkins said. "I don't know whether we would have any right to make it public."

Watkins told reporters at midday there is "a possibility" the committee will complete its report before Oct. 1.

That would give the Senate a little over a month to interrupt its recess and come back to Washington to decide whether McCarthy should be formally reprimanded for "conduct unbecoming a senator." The Senate recessed in mid-August with the understanding it would act on the censure move before the Nov. 2 election.

Police Capture Two Desperate Escaped Killers

CARTHAGE, Miss., Sept. 14 (AP)—Two desperate escaped killers were recaptured today by grim-faced police acting on orders to take them dead or alive.

Gerald Gallego, ring leader of a jail break from the Hinds County jail in Jackson last Friday, was captured at 4:01 p.m. after he had told his companion, slayer Minor Sorber, that he intended to capture and hold a family hostage as the hunt closed in.

Spotted By Helicopter

Sorber was captured two and a half hours before Gallego was taken, after a helicopter spotted him lying beneath a tree in a wooded area near a highway.

Minutes after the two desperadoes were captured, jailer J.C. Landrum, clubbed by Gallego during the escape, died in a Jackson hospital.

Sorber, barefoot and unshaven, said he and Gallego had separated about 30 minutes before Sorber was captured.

Boasted Of Cop Slayings

Gallego's threat placed a nerve-breaking premium on time. During his stay in jail he boasted that he had killed two policemen.

Roadblocks were thrown up in a 20-mile circle around a highway intersection five miles west of Carthage. Sorber was captured within a mile of the intersection.

A patrol screamed into Jackson at 2:30 p.m. with Sorber, one hour after the first report of his capture.

The escapee convicted of helping slash a fellow convict's throat at the state penitentiary, was scratched around the back and shoulders, apparently from bushes and underbrush.

Body Of Wealthy Woman Found In Hotel Corridor

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14 (AP)—Police launched a full-scale investigation today into the mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of a wealthy New Orleans woman whose body was found in a corridor of a leading hotel.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Helen Rizan, 47, a wealthy real estate operator. Clothing on the woman's short, plump body was disheveled.

The Orleans Parish (county) coroner's office attributed the death to natural causes, but police homicide chief, Capt. William J. Dowie said "we want to find out what happened, how it happened and who saw it happen."

Former New Orleans Mayor Robert S. Maestri, who lives in the Hotel Roosevelt, said he had a business conference with Mrs. Rizan about four hours before her body was discovered.

Maesteri said he and Mrs. Rizan talked about some mortgage loans she wanted to sell. He said she left his suite following the conference and "that's all I know about it."

A coroner's staff report said the "deceased believed to have died elsewhere and body apparently dragged to where it was found."

Cotton Leads In N. H. GOP Senate Contest

Furcolo Sets Pace In Mass. Primary

[By The Associated Press]

Rep. Norris Cotton went into the lead last night in the first returns for the Republican nomination for a two-year Senate term in New Hampshire, one of nine states choosing candidates yesterday.

His two opponents were not far behind. In 110 of 297 precincts Cotton, a four-termer in the U.S. House, had 6,966, Sen. Robert W. Upton, interim appointee, 5,543, and Atty. Wesley Powell 4,295.

The three seek to serve out the remaining two years of the term of the late Sen. Charles W. Tobey.

In the same number of precincts on the Democratic side, state Rep. Stanley J. Betley led Mayor Laurence M. Pickett of Keene 4,153 to 2,631 for the two-year Senate term.

Dwinell Defeats Bussey

State Senate Pres. Lane Dwinell defeated Elmer E. Bussey, of Salem Depot, for the GOP nomination for governor.

Other early returns:

Massachusetts — Former Rep. Foster Furcolo, state convention choice, took a comfortable lead for the Democratic nomination for senator, 133 precincts giving him 5,000 to 1,638 for John I. Fitzgerald, and 1,765 for Joseph L. Murphy.

Furcolo, now state treasurer, was his party's state convention choice.

State Rep. Robert F. Murphy had a better than 2-1 lead for the Democratic nominations for governor, with 47,177 to 23,152 for Francis E. Kelly, Boston lawyer.

U.S. Sen. Saltonstall and Gov. Herter were unopposed for GOP renomination.

Proxmire Leads In Wisconsin

Wisconsin—The first 76 precincts gave William Proxmire, former newsman, 729 to 586 for James E. Doyle, co-chairman of the national Americans for Democratic Action, for the Democratic nomination for governor. Gov. Kohler was unopposed for GOP renomination.

Veteran Republican Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, 74, a critic of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and for some time at odds with the GOP state organization, took an early lead in his bid for renomination. McCarthy did not figure in the campaign, however.

Vermont—Lieut. Gov. Joseph B. Johnson won the Republican nomination for governor, defeating state Sen. Henry D. Vail about 2-1 on nearly complete returns.

Mrs. Consuelo Northrup Bailey, speaker of the Vermont House, had an apparently safe lead for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor over two opponents.

City Hall Safe Robbed

Eden Is Assured Italian Support For Treaty Plan

ROME, Sept. 14 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden won Italian support today for a seven-nation defensive alliance — patterned on the Brussels pact of 1948—to replace the European Defense Community.

Tomorrow he flies to Paris to woo French support—the key to success or failure.

General agreement already has been reported from West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, other partners in the EDC treaty which was killed Aug. 30 by the French National Assembly.

Eden Must Sell France

"The Eden plan"—as Italians have dubbed it—calls for less than the supranational organization and single-uniformed European army which U.S. diplomacy plugged for so long.

The purpose still would be to beef up the free world's defenses in Europe with West German manpower. Prime Minister Churchill's government hopes that British membership in the alliance will erase French fears that a resurgen Germany might become the dominant Continental power.

Eden's task tomorrow is to sell that viewpoint to French Premier Pierre Mendes-France. On Thursday, the North Atlantic council will hear his report in closed session at Paris.

Murphy Making Rounds

U.S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy also has been making a round of European capitals, sounding out national leaders in secret talks of what comes next.

He flew to Belgrade today from Bonn, where he held lengthy secret talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He told newsmen in President Marshal Tito's capital that his talks with Adenauer concerning "affairs of mutual interest" were satisfactory but confidential.

GOP Blames Its Defeat In Maine On Local Issues

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 14 (AP)—Democrats tagged national significance today to their first victory in 20 years in Maine but Republicans said the battle was fought over local issues and wasn't a test of the Eisenhower regime.

Not only did the Democrats win the governorship yesterday, their first major post since 1934, but they shaved the victory margins of Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and three Republican representatives.

Fred C. Scribner Jr., Maine's Republican National Committeeman, said it was the Republicans who elected Edmund S. Muskie as governor over Gov. Burton M. Cross (R). Many Republicans who in past years voted a straight ticket, split it this time. Other party members blamed Cross' defeat on intraparty strife and local issues.

Muskie, 40-year-old lawyer and his party's National Committeeman said:

"Inasmuch as our senatorial and congressional candidates campaigned wholly on national issues and Vice President Nixon entered the race with a plea for endorsement of the Eisenhower administration, the conclusion (of the election results) seems inescapable that there is considerable dissatisfaction with the national administration."

With a total vote of close to 249,000-a large turnout in the face of hurricane Edna's weekend wreckage—Muskie polled 54.5 per cent.

Sen. Smith got 58.4 per cent, a far cry from the 71.4 per cent of her 1948 victory.

Convict Confesses To 1940 Killing Of Penn State Coed

MCALESTER, Okla., Sept. 14 (AP)—A life-term convict confessed today he murdered a Pennsylvania coed 14 years ago to hide his criminal career of campus dope peddler.

Deputy Sheriff Abner Dear said he obtained the confession from Jack Ray, 34, after six months of painstaking detective work.

Ray's confession said he beat to death Rachel Taylor, 17, after she innocently came into possession of a letter linking Ray with a dope ring and illicit love at Penn State College, now Pennsylvania State University.

Miss Taylor's body, nearly nude and mutilated, was found near the Penn State campus March 28, 1940. Who killed her and why has been one of the eastern state's major crime mysteries of the last decade.

Ray is serving a life term at McAlester State Penitentiary for an Oklahoma killing committed six months before Miss Taylor was slain. He said in his 600-word confession he killed the coed because she threatened to take the incriminating letter to the college dean.

Pennsylvania authorities said they wanted time to check Ray's statement against known facts in the Taylor case.

Dear got his first tip six months ago from behind the prison walls, where Ray is serving a life sentence for a murder at Cordell, Okla.

"Ray made the mistake of telling about his crime years ago in Dallas," Dear said, but he refused to give any more details.

Ray's confession, reading like a crime novel, linked gambling interests at Dallas with big time dope pushing in the East and was climaxed by his vivid description of the girl's slaying. He then told how he stripped her body and finally found the incriminating letter hidden in her brassiere.

Back From 15-Cent Trip To Europe

Eugene Hart, 11, is greeted by his mother, Mrs. Hildegard Hart, on his return to New York yesterday from a 15-cent trip to Europe. Eugene spent the 15 cents for a subway ride from his Brooklyn home to Manhattan where—unnoticed—he boarded the liner United States. He was discovered the first day out by a stewardess during lifeboat drill and was kept aboard for the round trip. (Story at bottom of page)

Dulles To Report On Manila Pact Via Radio And TV

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles went over critical European problems with the French ambassador today and also set to work on a report to the American people on peace efforts in the Far East.

He will deliver his Far East report tomorrow night.

On his second day back in Washington after helping draft the Southeast Asia defense pact at Manila, Dulles met for 55 minutes with French Ambassador Henri Bonnet.

Afterward, the ambassador told newsmen they had what he called a "tour d' horizon—an exchange of views on many, many questions."

Bonnet said he sought the conference because he leaves tomorrow night for consultations at Paris with Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Manila Pact Dulles' Topic

A few minutes after Bonnet's visit, the State Department announced Dulles would make a 15-minute radio-television appearance tomorrow night.

His topic will be the Manila pact.

Arrangements included live telecast by DuMont at 7:45 p.m., EST, retelecast by CBS at 10:30 pm., radio rebroadcast by ABC, Mutual and NBC at 9:15 p.m., and by CBS sometime after that.

Bonnet told questioning reporters he talked with Dulles "about problems created by the French Parliament's rejection of EDC"—the European Defense Community which would have included Germans in a six-nation army.

Bonnet To Fly To Paris

Bonnet said he will fly to Paris from New York City tomorrow night and will return in ten or 15 days—"when I may have some news."

Dulles was not expected to range too far afield in his 15-minute address tomorrow night. He was expected to touch only on the highlights of the already well-publicized Pacific charter and Southeast Asia collective defense treaty which binds the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

Bandit In GI Fatigues Robs Bank Of $111,170

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 14 (AP)—A calm gunman dressed in GI fatigues robbed a Southwest Albuquerque bank of $111,170 today.

He forced six employes and a customer to lie on the floor and at gunpoint directed Manager A. R. Salazar of the Five Points Branch of the Bank of New Mexico to turn over the money.

Ed Dozier, vice president and cashier of the main bank, supplied the exact figure.

Police said the man apparently took off in a car parked outside the bank and as police checked numerous tips, all roads leading out of the city were blocked.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—A "very excited" duchess of Kent arrived late today aboard a Royal Canadian Air Force plane from Montreal.

Chairman Draws Arm But Gavel's Bang Never Came

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 14 (AP)—Chairman A. H. Lathrop of Enka, N. C., started to end a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Southern Traffic League, Inc., today with a bang of his gavel—but the bang never came.

As he drew back his arm, the head of the gavel flew off, went through a window of the second-floor room and landed in the middle of the street below.

Southeast Asia Pact Denounced By Soviet Union

MOSCOW, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Soviet Union tonight denounced the new Southeast Asia Treaty (SEATO) as being "directed against the interests of the security of Asia and the Far East."

A formal statement from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs accused the Western powers of taking steps both in Europe and Asia which "contribute toward sharpening the international situation and which create obstacles to the settlement of unsolved problms."

The statement compared SEATO and NATO, saying both are in "blatant opposition to the aims and principles of the United Nations."

The statement was distributed by Tass. It said:

"Like European security, the complete security of the peoples of Southeast Asia can be guaranteed only on the basis of the common effort of all states in this region, independent of their social structure and without dictation and interference from without."

Storm Forming In Gulf

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Weather Bureau reported another "weak cyclonic circulation" forming today in the southern part of the Gulf of Mexico as belated reports brought the death toll from a week of tropical storms to 15.

New U.N. Voting Plan Suggested By Study Group

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) raised new protests today against Russia having three votes in the United Nations, and recommended study of proposals for a new system of U. N. voting.

One of these proposals is to base voting strength on the population of member nations and the size of the contributions they make to the U. N.

Wiley is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He made his comments in connection with the release of a committee staff study on U. N. representation and voting.

Soviet States Admitted

Under the Yalta agreement, Wiley said, Soviet Russia "obtained the admission of Byelorussia and the Ukraine as full members of the United Nations."

Byelorussia and the Ukraine are constituent states of the Soviet Union, "somewhat like Texas and New York are constituent states of our own federal republic," Wiley said.

"If they deserve separate representation, then we should seek additional votes, for Texas, New York, Wisconsin and other states of the union."

Speaking Power Tripled

Wiley said the present system "not only gave the Soviet Union three times the voting power she deserves; what is even worse it tripled her speaking power in the General Assembly."

Wiley said he ordered his committee staff to study the voting record of the Assembly because the present U. N. organization gives "big states too much power" through the use of the veto by any of them in the Security Council.

Similarly, he said, "the little nations have too much power" under the present principle of "one-state-one-vote" in the General Assembly.

Boy Stowaway, Home From England, Stirs Up TV Storm

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy got back today from a 15-cent trip to England and promptly encountered stormier seas on television.

Eugene Hart, a dark haired 72-pounder, boarded the liner United States unnoticed in New York 11 days ago and made the round trip at no cost except for the subway fare from his Brooklyn home to Manhattan.

He still jingled two of the 17 cents he started out with.

Eugene was escorted before TV cameras of the NBC "Today" show and was asked by reporter Tom Naud why he had gone away.

"Grandmother threw a knife at me," the boy remarked casually. The statement later proved exaggerated.

Nobody was more startled than the boy's mother, Mrs. Hildegard Hart, who was standing beside him. Viewers saw her grab his arm and give him a shaking.

The mother, daughter of Mrs. Charles Deckert of Brooklyn, later told newsmen the knife was "only a little rubber one" and that if the grandmother threw it, it was done playfully.

Mrs. Hart said her mother was "awfully, awfully upset" by the television episode.

She and the boy live with the grandmother. Mrs. Hart, a receptionist for a New York advertising agency, is separated from her husband, Clyde F. Hart, a Beaumont, Tex., railroad telegrapher.

Eugene said a stewardess discovered him the first day out and that he told her he was on the voyage "by accident," that he was just inspecting the ship when he discovered it was moving.

But he told newsmen "there's not much to do in Brooklyn—the nearest park is more than a dozen blocks away."

After the stewardess spotted him he made the rest of the trip under the watchful eye of the ship's physician.

Administration Hikes Estimate To $4.7 Billion

Defense Spending Slash Announced As Revenues Drop

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration tonight announced a sharp new cut in defense spending, but said spending hikes elsewhere and sharply falling revenues might run the government $4,700,000,000 in the red during the current fiscal year.

The new deficit forecast for the fiscal year ending next June 30 was an increase of $1,800,000,000 over the red ink predicted by President Eisenhower in his budget message to Congress last January. And, reversing the downward deficit trend of the administration's first year in office, it was $1,700,000,000 higher than last year's $3,000,000,000 excess of spending over income.

The revised estimate of how much the government may go in debt this year was disclosed in the annual summer budget review, made public late today by the Budget Bureau.

Strongest Peacetime Force

It said the new defense spending level would support the most "powerful and efficient" fighting force the nation ever had in time of peace.

In all budget making, the Budget Bureau said, "the needs of the national defense continue to be the primary consideration. . ."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told a news conference on the revised budget that the new deficit forecast was an "interim" figure only, that "we shall work every day, every week and every month" to better before the fiscal year ends next June 30.

He emphasized that the deficit last June 30, at the end of fiscal 1954, was 800 million less than forecast in the previous summer revision, and said:

"We are going to try to do it again this year. We shall keep working continually during the rest of this fiscal year to better the estimates we are presenting today."

$42 Billion Defense Goal

Humphrey made the statement a day after arriving back in Washington from a weekend National Security Council meeting in Denver with President Eisenhower and other top officials. He returned to Washington from a trip to Canada to board the same plane that carried Secretary of Defense Wilson to Denver Sunday, and he flew back to Washington with Wilson. His statement aroused speculation that the flight conferences and the Security Council meeting had given Humphrey reason to believe Pentagon outlays could be cut back over the next 10 months more than foreshadowed in the new budget.

The new budget clipped three billion from outlays of $44,900,000,000 scheduled for major national security outlays in Eisenhower's January budget for fiscal 1955, making the new defense spending goal for the year $41,900,000,000.

That was $4,300,000,000 under defense expenditures of $46,200,000,000 last year and a decline in defense spending of $8,400,000,000 from the peacetime peak of $50,300,000,000 in fiscal 1953.

'Frog Men' Raid On Quemoy Fails

TAIPEH, Formosa, Wednesday, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Nationalists yesterday repulsed a light "frog men" raid on its island fortress of Quemoy and once more pounded red fortifications by sea and air.

While the pace in the "vest pocket" war along the Red China coast 110 miles from Formosa slackened somewhat on its 12th day, an army spokesman said it was possible this was only temporary.

Premier O.K. Yui in a report to the Nationalist Parliament declared "we should be prepared to turned from the defensive to the offensive and fight the enemy on the mainland itself."

Lt. Gen Chang Yi-ting, the army spokesman, told newsmen three "water ghosts"—the Chinese equivalent of the strong swimmer-raiders known as frogmen—tried to land from a boat on Quemoy early Monday.

They hoped to seize a Nationalist soldier for questioning. A sentry spotted the boat, opened fire, and it vanished.

A Defense ministry communique said Nationalist warplanes once more bombed Amoy, seven miles from Quemoy. Warships blasted Chingyu Island near Amoy.

Murphy Making Rounds

U.S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy also has been making a round of European capitals, sounding out national leaders in secret talks of what comes next.

He flew to Belgrade today from Bonn, where he held lengthy secret talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He told newsmen in President Marshal Tito's capital that his talks with Adenauer concerning "affairs of mutual interest" were satisfactory but confidential.

GOP Blames Its Defeat In Maine On Local Issues

PORTLAND, Maine, Sept. 14 (AP)—Democrats tagged national significance today to their first victory in 20 years in Maine but Republicans said the battle was fought over local issues and wasn't a test of the Eisenhower regime.

Not only did the Democrats win the governorship yesterday, their first major post since 1934, but they shaved the victory margins of Sen. Margaret Chase Smith and three Republican representatives.

Fred C. Scribner Jr., Maine's Republican National Committeeman, said it was the Republicans who elected Edmund S. Muskie as governor over Gov. Burton M. Cross (R). Many Republicans who in past years voted a straight ticket, split it this time. Other party members blamed Cross' defeat on intraparty strife and local issues.

Muskie, 40-year-old lawyer and his party's National Committeeman said:

"Inasmuch as our senatorial and congressional candidates campaigned wholly on national issues and Vice President Nixon entered the race with a plea for endorsement of the Eisenhower administration, the conclusion (of the election results) seems inescapable that there is considerable dissatisfaction with the national administration."

With a total vote of close to 249,000-a large turnout in the face of hurricane Edna's weekend wreckage—Muskie polled 54.5 per cent.

Sen. Smith got 58.4 per cent, a far cry from the 71.4 per cent of her 1948 victory.

Convict Confesses To 1940 Killing Of Penn State Coed

MCALESTER, Okla., Sept. 14 (AP)—A life-term convict confessed today he murdered a Pennsylvania coed 14 years ago to hide his criminal career of campus dope peddler.

Deputy Sheriff Abner Dear said he obtained the confession from Jack Ray, 34, after six months of painstaking detective work.

Ray's confession said he beat to death Rachel Taylor, 17, after she innocently came into possession of a letter linking Ray with a dope ring and illicit love at Penn State College, now Pennsylvania State University.

Miss Taylor's body, nearly nude and mutilated, was found near the Penn State campus March 28, 1940. Who killed her and why has been one of the eastern state's major crime mysteries of the last decade.

Ray is serving a life term at McAlester State Penitentiary for an Oklahoma killing committed six months before Miss Taylor was slain. He said in his 600-word confession he killed the coed because she threatened to take the incriminating letter to the college dean.

Pennsylvania authorities said they wanted time to check Ray's statement against known facts in the Taylor case.

Dear got his first tip six months ago from behind the prison walls, where Ray is serving a life sentence for a murder at Cordell, Okla.

"Ray made the mistake of telling about his crime years ago in Dallas," Dear said, but he refused to give any more details.

Ray's confession, reading like a crime novel, linked gambling interests at Dallas with big time dope pushing in the East and was climaxed by his vivid description of the girl's slaying. He then told how he stripped her body and finally found the incriminating letter hidden in her brassiere.

Body Of Wealthy Woman Found In Hotel Corridor

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14 (AP)—Police launched a full-scale investigation today into the mysterious circumstances surrounding the death of a wealthy New Orleans woman whose body was found in a corridor of a leading hotel.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Helen Rizan, 47, a wealthy real estate operator. Clothing on the woman's short, plump body was disheveled.

The Orleans Parish (county) coroner's office attributed the death to natural causes, but police homicide chief, Capt. William J. Dowie said "we want to find out what happened, how it happened and who saw it happen."

Former New Orleans Mayor Robert S. Maestri, who lives in the Hotel Roosevelt, said he had a business conference with Mrs. Rizan about four hours before her body was discovered.

Maesteri said he and Mrs. Rizan talked about some mortgage loans she wanted to sell. He said she left his suite following the conference and "that's all I know about it."

A coroner's staff report said the "deceased believed to have died elsewhere and body apparently dragged to where it was found."

Back From 15-Cent Trip To Europe

Eugene Hart, 11, is greeted by his mother, Mrs. Hildegard Hart, on his return to New York yesterday from a 15-cent trip to Europe. Eugene spent the 15 cents for a subway ride from his Brooklyn home to Manhattan where—unnoticed—he boarded the liner United States. He was discovered the first day out by a stewardess during lifeboat drill and was kept aboard for the round trip. (Story at bottom of page)

Dulles To Report On Manila Pact Via Radio And TV

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles went over critical European problems with the French ambassador today and also set to work on a report to the American people on peace efforts in the Far East.

He will deliver his Far East report tomorrow night.

On his second day back in Washington after helping draft the Southeast Asia defense pact at Manila, Dulles met for 55 minutes with French Ambassador Henri Bonnet.

Afterward, the ambassador told newsmen they had what he called a "tour d' horizon—an exchange of views on many, many questions."

Bonnet said he sought the conference because he leaves tomorrow night for consultations at Paris with Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

Manila Pact Dulles' Topic

A few minutes after Bonnet's visit, the State Department announced Dulles would make a 15-minute radio-television appearance tomorrow night.

His topic will be the Manila pact.

Arrangements included live telecast by DuMont at 7:45 p.m., EST, retelecast by CBS at 10:30 pm., radio rebroadcast by ABC, Mutual and NBC at 9:15 p.m., and by CBS sometime after that.

Bonnet told questioning reporters he talked with Dulles "about problems created by the French Parliament's rejection of EDC"—the European Defense Community which would have included Germans in a six-nation army.

Bonnet To Fly To Paris

Bonnet said he will fly to Paris from New York City tomorrow night and will return in ten or 15 days—"when I may have some news."

Dulles was not expected to range too far afield in his 15-minute address tomorrow night. He was expected to touch only on the highlights of the already well-publicized Pacific charter and Southeast Asia collective defense treaty which binds the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

Bandit In GI Fatigues Robs Bank Of $111,170

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 14 (AP)—A calm gunman dressed in GI fatigues robbed a Southwest Albuquerque bank of $111,170 today.

He forced six employes and a customer to lie on the floor and at gunpoint directed Manager A. R. Salazar of the Five Points Branch of the Bank of New Mexico to turn over the money.

Ed Dozier, vice president and cashier of the main bank, supplied the exact figure.

Police said the man apparently took off in a car parked outside the bank and as police checked numerous tips, all roads leading out of the city were blocked.

Duchess In New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—A "very excited" duchess of Kent arrived late today aboard a Royal Canadian Air Force plane from Montreal.

Chairman Draws Arm But Gavel's Bang Never Came

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 14 (AP)—Chairman A. H. Lathrop of Enka, N. C., started to end a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Southern Traffic League, Inc., today with a bang of his gavel—but the bang never came.

As he drew back his arm, the head of the gavel flew off, went through a window of the second-floor room and landed in the middle of the street below.

Southeast Asia Pact Denounced By Soviet Union

MOSCOW, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Soviet Union tonight denounced the new Southeast Asia Treaty (SEATO) as being "directed against the interests of the security of Asia and the Far East."

A formal statement from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs accused the Western powers of taking steps both in Europe and Asia which "contribute toward sharpening the international situation and which create obstacles to the settlement of unsolved problms."

The statement compared SEATO and NATO, saying both are in "blatant opposition to the aims and principles of the United Nations."

The statement was distributed by Tass. It said:

"Like European security, the complete security of the peoples of Southeast Asia can be guaranteed only on the basis of the common effort of all states in this region, independent of their social structure and without dictation and interference from without."

Storm Forming In Gulf

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Weather Bureau reported another "weak cyclonic circulation" forming today in the southern part of the Gulf of Mexico as belated reports brought the death toll from a week of tropical storms to 15.

New U.N. Voting Plan Suggested By Study Group

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) raised new protests today against Russia having three votes in the United Nations, and recommended study of proposals for a new system of U. N. voting.

One of these proposals is to base voting strength on the population of member nations and the size of the contributions they make to the U. N.

Wiley is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He made his comments in connection with the release of a committee staff study on U. N. representation and voting.

Soviet States Admitted

Under the Yalta agreement, Wiley said, Soviet Russia "obtained the admission of Byelorussia and the Ukraine as full members of the United Nations."

Byelorussia and the Ukraine are constituent states of the Soviet Union, "somewhat like Texas and New York are constituent states of our own federal republic," Wiley said.

"If they deserve separate representation, then we should seek additional votes, for Texas, New York, Wisconsin and other states of the union."

Speaking Power Tripled

Wiley said the present system "not only gave the Soviet Union three times the voting power she deserves; what is even worse it tripled her speaking power in the General Assembly."

Wiley said he ordered his committee staff to study the voting record of the Assembly because the present U. N. organization gives "big states too much power" through the use of the veto by any of them in the Security Council.

Similarly, he said, "the little nations have too much power" under the present principle of "one-state-one-vote" in the General Assembly.

Boy Stowaway, Home From England, Stirs Up TV Storm

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—An 11-year-old boy got back today from a 15-cent trip to England and promptly encountered stormier seas on television.

Eugene Hart, a dark haired 72-pounder, boarded the liner United States unnoticed in New York 11 days ago and made the round trip at no cost except for the subway fare from his Brooklyn home to Manhattan.

He still jingled two of the 17 cents he started out with.

Eugene was escorted before TV cameras of the NBC "Today" show and was asked by reporter Tom Naud why he had gone away.

"Grandmother threw a knife at me," the boy remarked casually. The statement later proved exaggerated.

Nobody was more startled than the boy's mother, Mrs. Hildegard Hart, who was standing beside him. Viewers saw her grab his arm and give him a shaking.

The mother, daughter of Mrs. Charles Deckert of Brooklyn, later told newsmen the knife was "only a little rubber one" and that if the grandmother threw it, it was done playfully.

Mrs. Hart said her mother was "awfully, awfully upset" by the television episode.

She and the boy live with the grandmother. Mrs. Hart, a receptionist for a New York advertising agency, is separated from her husband, Clyde F. Hart, a Beaumont, Tex., railroad telegrapher.

Eugene said a stewardess discovered him the first day out and that he told her he was on the voyage "by accident," that he was just inspecting the ship when he discovered it was moving.

But he told newsmen "there's not much to do in Brooklyn—the nearest park is more than a dozen blocks away."

After the stewardess spotted him he made the rest of the trip under the watchful eye of the ship's physician.

Administration Hikes Estimate To $4.7 Billion

Defense Spending Slash Announced As Revenues Drop

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration tonight announced a sharp new cut in defense spending, but said spending hikes elsewhere and sharply falling revenues might run the government $4,700,000,000 in the red during the current fiscal year.

The new deficit forecast for the fiscal year ending next June 30 was an increase of $1,800,000,000 over the red ink predicted by President Eisenhower in his budget message to Congress last January. And, reversing the downward deficit trend of the administration's first year in office, it was $1,700,000,000 higher than last year's $3,000,000,000 excess of spending over income.

The revised estimate of how much the government may go in debt this year was disclosed in the annual summer budget review, made public late today by the Budget Bureau.

Strongest Peacetime Force

It said the new defense spending level would support the most "powerful and efficient" fighting force the nation ever had in time of peace.

In all budget making, the Budget Bureau said, "the needs of the national defense continue to be the primary consideration. . ."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told a news conference on the revised budget that the new deficit forecast was an "interim" figure only, that "we shall work every day, every week and every month" to better before the fiscal year ends next June 30.

He emphasized that the deficit last June 30, at the end of fiscal 1954, was 800 million less than forecast in the previous summer revision, and said:

"We are going to try to do it again this year. We shall keep working continually during the rest of this fiscal year to better the estimates we are presenting today."

$42 Billion Defense Goal

Humphrey made the statement a day after arriving back in Washington from a weekend National Security Council meeting in Denver with President Eisenhower and other top officials. He returned to Washington from a trip to Canada to board the same plane that carried Secretary of Defense Wilson to Denver Sunday, and he flew back to Washington with Wilson. His statement aroused speculation that the flight conferences and the Security Council meeting had given Humphrey reason to believe Pentagon outlays could be cut back over the next 10 months more than foreshadowed in the new budget.

The new budget clipped three billion from outlays of $44,900,000,000 scheduled for major national security outlays in Eisenhower's January budget for fiscal 1955, making the new defense spending goal for the year $41,900,000,000.

That was $4,300,000,000 under defense expenditures of $46,200,000,000 last year and a decline in defense spending of $8,400,000,000 from the peacetime peak of $50,300,000,000 in fiscal 1953.

'Frog Men' Raid On Quemoy Fails

TAIPEH, Formosa, Wednesday, Sept. 15 (AP)—The Nationalists yesterday repulsed a light "frog men" raid on its island fortress of Quemoy and once more pounded red fortifications by sea and air.

While the pace in the "vest pocket" war along the Red China coast 110 miles from Formosa slackened somewhat on its 12th day, an army spokesman said it was possible this was only temporary.

Premier O.K. Yui in a report to the Nationalist Parliament declared "we should be prepared to turned from the defensive to the offensive and fight the enemy on the mainland itself."

Lt. Gen Chang Yi-ting, the army spokesman, told newsmen three "water ghosts"—the Chinese equivalent of the strong swimmer-raiders known as frogmen—tried to land from a boat on Quemoy early Monday.

They hoped to seize a Nationalist soldier for questioning. A sentry spotted the boat, opened fire, and it vanished.

A Defense ministry communique said Nationalist warplanes once more bombed Amoy, seven miles from Quemoy. Warships blasted Chingyu Island near Amoy.

Navy To Transfer 17 Warships To Pacific

Carrier Midway, 16 Destroyers Involved

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Navy will send the big aircraft carrier Midway and 16 destroyers from the Atlantic to the Pacific in the next four months as part of a long-range plan to equalize strength in the two oceans.

In confirming reports that the 45,000-ton carrier and two destroyer squadrons will be assigned to the Pacific, a Navy spokesman said the move has no direct connection with continuing alarms along the Asian mainland.

The U.S. 7th Fleet is pledged to defend Formosa from attack, and recently the Chinese communists have bombarded nearby Quemoy.

The spokesman said the transfers were dictated primarily by the Navy's desire to reduce the need for shifting units and the consequent dislocation of the family lives of crew members.

The Midway will be making its first tour of duty in the Pacific, relieving one of the smaller Essex class carriers now operating there and shortly due for overhaul. After serving with the fleet at sea for some months, the spokesman said, the Midway will return to the Pacific coast for large-scale modernization.

The two destroyer squadrons designated for transfer to the Pacific are the 28th now based at Norfolk, Va., and the 18th at Newport, R. I.

The Navy spokesman said that for some years five destroyer squadrons have been involved in fairly frequent transfers between the two big oceans. He recalled that Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, recently declared the Navy would rearrange ship assignment schedules so that personnel would know in advance that their ships would remain in one ocean or another for a longer period of time than has been possible since the outbreak of war in Korea.

During the Korean conflict the Atlantic fleet sent to the Pacific a battleship and a carrier, 16 destroyers and some auxiliary craft. The battleship and four destroyers have now been returned to the Atlantic on a permanent basis.

President Dedicates Labs To "Humanity"

BOULDER, Colo., Sept. 14 (AP)—Laboratories of science were termed "a new type of frontier" by President Eisenhower today as he dedicated two such buildings, costing seven million dollars, at the National Bureau of Standards in this university city.

The President made the dedication "to the welfare of humanity" as about 5,000 persons gathered in warm sunshine outside the laboratories, close to the front range of the Rocky Mountains.

It is estimated that a person perspires an average of one and a half pints every day.

Gina Says "Flat" Look "Horrible"

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—Gina Lollobrigida, 26, Italy's brunette reply to Marilyn Monroe, arrived from Rome today ready to do battle with any new "flat - chested look" in fashions.

Using her hands to emphasize her opinion, she told 100 photographers, newsreel men and reporters who crowded around her at Idlewild airport:

"If you take a dress and put the back to the front—that is the new look. What do you think of that? It is horrible."

Miss Lollobrigida, wearing a non-flat-chested pink garbardine suit, was accompanied by her husband, Dr. Mirko Skofic.

New Housing Windfall List Made Public

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP)—Albert Cole, federal housing administrator, today made public a new list of government-insured housing projects on which certain investors realized "windfalls" totalling nearly 14 million dollars.

On the list, which Cole presented to a Senate Banking Committee conducting hearings into FHA operations, was a group of five New Yorkers which he said netted a "windfall" of 3½ million dollars on an investment of $10,000.

The list also showed that three Jamaica, N. Y., men invested a total of $60 on two Bayside, N. Y., construction projects totalling $6,101,690, and realized a total "windfall" of $3,591,834.

Another project, at Columbus, Ohio, Cole said, involved seven persons who invested $4,000 and realized a "windfall" of more than one million dollars. The project was government insured for $7,772,046.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), presiding at the hearing, asked Cole if the $60 investment on the two Bayside projects was correct, and Cole replied "that's what the investigation shows."

"Well, that's the limit. That's the lowest investment we have seen yet," Capehart commented.

Defense Orders May Be Doubled This Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP) — The Defense Department expects its orders for weapons and other procurement in the current fiscal year to be about double the total for last year.

W. J. McNeil, assistant defense secretary and comptroller of the department, told a news conference he expects contracts placed for the fiscal year which began last July 1 to total between 16 and 19 billion dollars, compared with 9¼ billion for the previous fiscal year.

White Students Win Segregation Reinstatement

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 14 (AP) — White students striking in protest to Negroes attending their high school quietly returned to class today after the county board of education reinstated segregation.

"Everything is moving along very nicely," said Principal Robert J. Nickel after 334 of White Sulphur Springs High School's 418 students — 80 per cent — went back to the classroom at 1 p. m.

The school was closed this morning while 25 Negro students trooped in to pick up their books under the surveillance of Sheriff James Dean, his deputies and several State Police officers. There was no violence — no incident of any kind.

About 300 of the white students had paraded in the streets of this mountain resort town all day yesterday, carrying signs reading, "No Negroes Wanted in Our Schools."

At a mass meeting last night, some 600 parents protesting integration threatened to remove bodily any Negroes who attempted to attend the school today.

The Greenbrier County Board of Education acted after a 13-hour meeting in nearby Lewisburg, the county seat. A statement issued by school superintendent D. D. Harrah said:

"The board hereby directs all principals to transfer all tentative enrollments of Negro students to Bolling High School or to their nearest Negro elementary school, this policy effective immediately."

Higher Debt Ceiling Request Anticipated

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Treasury apparently will have to ask Congress again next spring for a higher debt ceiling.

This became evident today when the Budget Bureau made public revised budget estimates for the fiscal year ending next June 30. The revision of President Eisenhower's estimates of the government's finances in fiscal 1955, presented to Congress next January, upped the red ink forecast for the year from $2,900,000,000 to $4,700,000,000.

It also increased the estimated size of the public debt next June 30 from 273 billion dollars to 274½ billions.

This summer, Congress gave the Treasury permission to borrow, through next June 30, up to six billion dollars more than the present debt limit of 275 billions. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told a news conference today this would cover the Treasury's borrowing needs through next June 30, despite the increased deficit estimate.

But next July 1, the ceiling drops back to 275 billion dollars.

About 98 per cent of Ohio's 220,000 farms have electricity.

Automatic steering gear for ships was first installed in 1922.

Tax Return Errors Set At $57,185,440

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Taxpayers filing their returns for last year made errors amounting to $57,185,440—a fifth of it in the government's favor, Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews said today.

But, Andrews said, errors on returns filed this spring were fewer than a year before. He said that out of 33,800,000 returns on which the Revenue Service has run a mathematical check, 750,570 errors were found. A year before, 888,880 errors were found in the same number of returns.

German Sovereignty Proclamation Urged

BONN, Germany, Sept 14 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer urged today that West Germany be granted sovereignty with no strings attached through a proclamation from the Western Allies.

He made the recommendation in a report to a closed-door meeting of his Christian Democratic Union party's delegation in the Bonn Parliament.

A deputy who attended the meeting said Adenauer declared himself opposed to any attempt to make West Germany a free nation through the peace contract which was tied to the creation of the new dead European Defense Community pact.

BEJA, Portugal, Sept. 14 (AP)—Additional bodies found in the wreckage brought to 34 today the number of persons killed in yesterday's train wreck at Saboia. More than 30 were seriously injured.

Iran Red Spies Get U.S. Aid Data

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 14 (AP)—A Red spy ring that infiltrated the armed forces has given Russia detailed information on "every tank, gun, and uniform" Iran has been receiving from the United States, an authoritative source said today.

American circles here expressed shock at the extent of the espionage concerned with the money and material aid which Washington has been pouring into this hard pressed nation.

Brig. Gen. Abdollah Hedayat, war minister, said today 434 persons have been arrested in a purge which spread from the military to civilian bureaus and ministries yesterday. Hedayat told the Majlis, the lower house of Parliament, the spy ring had "long been negating the activities of the security forces," but now has been "completely uprooted from the army, police, and gendarmery (the militarized national police)."

Intelligence sources said the authorities have arrested the top military spies and now are turning to non-commissioned officers and the lower ranks of the gendarmery and the regular police.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 14 (AP)—U.S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy arrived by air today for talks on Yugoslav-American defense cooperation. He told newsmen he had held two "satisfactory but confidential" conferences with Western German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before his departure from Bonn.

The list also showed that three Jamaica, N. Y., men invested a total of $60 on two Bayside, N. Y., construction projects totalling $6,101,600, and realized a total "windfall" of $3,591,834.

Another project, at Columbus, Ohio, Cole said, involved seven persons who invested $4,000 and realized a "windfall" of more than one million dollars. The project was government insured for $7,772,046.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), presiding at the hearing, asked Cole if the $60 investment on the two Bayside projects was correct, and Cole replied "that's what the investigation shows."

"Well, that's the limit. That's the lowest investment we have seen yet," Capehart commented.

Defense Orders May Be Doubled This Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP) — The Defense Department expects its orders for weapons and other procurement in the current fiscal year to be about double the total for last year.

W. J. McNeil, assistant defense secretary and comptroller of the department, told a news conference he expects contracts placed for the fiscal year which began last July 1 to total between 16 and 19 billion dollars, compared with 9¼ billion for the previous fiscal year.

White Students Win Segregation Reinstatement

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 14 (AP) — White students striking in protest to Negroes attending their high school quietly returned to class today after the county board of education reinstated segregation.

"Everything is moving along very nicely," said Principal Robert J. Nickel after 334 of White Sulphur Springs High School's 418 students — 80 per cent — went back to the classroom at 1 p. m.

The school was closed this morning while 25 Negro students trooped in to pick up their books under the surveillance of Sheriff James Dean, his deputies and several State Police officers. There was no violence — no incident of any kind.

About 300 of the white students had paraded in the streets of this mountain resort town all day yesterday, carrying signs reading, "No Negroes Wanted in Our Schools."

At a mass meeting last night, some 600 parents protesting integration threatened to remove bodily any Negroes who attempted to attend the school today.

The Greenbrier County Board of Education acted after a 13-hour meeting in nearby Lewisburg, the county seat. A statement issued by school superintendent D. D. Harrah said:

"The board hereby directs all principals to transfer all tentative enrollments of Negro students to Bolling High School or to their nearest Negro elementary school, this policy effective immediately."

Higher Debt Ceiling Request Anticipated

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Treasury apparently will have to ask Congress again next spring for a higher debt ceiling.

This became evident today when the Budget Bureau made public revised budget estimates for the fiscal year ending next June 30. The revision of President Eisenhower's estimates of the government's finances in fiscal 1955, presented to Congress next January, upped the red ink forecast for the year from $2,900,000,000 to $4,700,000,000.

It also increased the estimated size of the public debt next June 30 from 273 billion dollars to 274½ billions.

This summer, Congress gave the Treasury permission to borrow, through next June 30, up to six billion dollars more than the present debt limit of 275 billions. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told a news conference today this would cover the Treasury's borrowing needs through next June 30, despite the increased deficit estimate.

But next July 1, the ceiling drops back to 275 billion dollars.

About 98 per cent of Ohio's 220,000 farms have electricity.

Automatic steering gear for ships was first installed in 1922.

Tax Return Errors Set At $57,185,440

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Taxpayers filing their returns for last year made errors amounting to $57,185,440—a fifth of it in the government's favor, Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews said today.

But, Andrews said, errors on returns filed this spring were fewer than a year before. He said that out of 33,800,000 returns on which the Revenue Service has run a mathematical check, 750,570 errors were found. A year before, 888,880 errors were found in the same number of returns.

German Sovereignty Proclamation Urged

BONN, Germany, Sept 14 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer urged today that West Germany be granted sovereignty with no strings attached through a proclamation from the Western Allies.

He made the recommendation in a report to a closed-door meeting of his Christian Democratic Union party's delegation in the Bonn Parliament.

A deputy who attended the meeting said Adenauer declared himself opposed to any attempt to make West Germany a free nation through the peace contract which was tied to the creation of the new dead European Defense Community pact.

Wreck Toll Reaches 34

BEJA, Portugal, Sept. 14 (AP)—Additional bodies found in the wreckage brought to 34 today the number of persons killed in yesterday's train wreck at Saboia. More than 30 were seriously injured.

Iran Red Spies Get U.S. Aid Data

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 14 (AP)—A Red spy ring that infiltrated the armed forces has given Russia detailed information on "every tank, gun, and uniform" Iran has been receiving from the United States, an authoritative source said today.

American circles here expressed shock at the extent of the espionage concerned with the money and material aid which Washington has been pouring into this hard pressed nation.

Brig. Gen. Abdollah Hedayat, war minister, said today 434 persons have been arrested in a purge which spread from the military to civilian bureaus and ministries yesterday. Hedayat told the Majlis, the lower house of Parliament, the spy ring had "long been negating the activities of the security forces," but now has been "completely uprooted from the army, police, and gendarmery (the militarized national police)."

Intelligence sources said the authorities have arrested the top military spies and now are turning to non-commissioned officers and the lower ranks of the gendarmery and the regular police.

Murphy In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 14 (AP)—U.S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy arrived by air today for talks on Yugoslav-American defense cooperation. He told newsmen he had held two "satisfactory but confidential" conferences with Western German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before his departure from Bonn.

'Five Syllable' Hank Ashurst Would Rather Be Senator Than President

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The man who in his 29 years in the U.S. Senate cultivated some of the floweriest language ever heard in that wordy old hothouse reached 80 yesterday, still hitting on all five syllables.

Henry Fountain Ashurst, Democratic senator from Arizona from 1912 to 1941, helped make some of this nation's toughest decisions.

He saw it go into World War I, debated the wisdom of joining the League of Nations, was chairman of the powerful Judiciary Committee during the fight over Franklin D. Roosevelt's plan to increase the membership of the Supreme Court, and finally bowed out as World War II was approaching.

What did he think now, looking back?

"I'd rather be a senator than anything else in the world," Ashurst said. "I'd rather be a senator than President. A President is a prisoner, but a senator—.

"To be conscious that you're taking a part in the grand drama of preserving America—that's enough for any man."

It was pleasant on the terrace overlooking the tennis courts at the Sheraton Park Hotel where he lives.

The old legislative warrior, straight and vigorous, looks far younger than his 80 years. And at no time does he appear more youthful than when he laughs. His laugh is not the snicker of so many octogenarians, but loud, frequent and so uproarious that passersby, startled, turn to see what the fun is about.

Ashurst still handles an occassional law case, and still makes an occasional speech. "My voice remains good," he said. "I can hold a crowd for 30 minutes or more without tiring. I have all my teeth."

Here he opened his mouth wide, and your reporter obligingly took inventory. Sure enough, he appeared to have a full quorum of molars.

All his life Ashurst has been interested in politics. "I remember the Garfield-Hancock presidential race well. I was six at the time." But his real start came at the age of 19 when he became turnkey in a Flagstaff, Ariz., jail. This gave him time to read Blackstone's Commentaries.

"Before the year was out," he once said, "I had a right to call myself 'five-syllable' Henry. At the end of the second year I could throw 56-pound words across the Grand Canyon. Of course, I went into politics."

The conversation drifted easily from point to point.

To the unusual stage through which this country is passing: "For the first time in its history," Hurst said, "the United States is frightened." It's easy to understand its fright—the atom bomb. But its fears, he said, make reasoning difficult. "It's hard," he said, "to reason with a frightened man."

To the Senate of old: Elihu Root, Hiram Johnson, Bill Borah, Henry Cabot Lodge. "Remarkable men. Oh, I often disagreed with them, but, really, remarkable men." He refused, though, to compare the past with the present. "The Senate," he said, pretty well reflects what the country wants."

To the final end of Henry Fountain Ashurst: "Here's another thing, death. There either is or there isn't a hereafter. If there is, I'll be there. If there isn't, I'll never know it.

"But if there is an eternity, I don't think God will say, 'Henry Fountain,'—that's my name—'Henry Fountain, you've cavorted and raised hell and broken my commandments'—no, that's not so, I never killed a man—'so you'll have to stay out.' No, I don't think he'd want to run a heaven that would keep Henry Fountain out."

And Henry Fountain Ashurst, amused at his own fantasy, laughed long and loud.

'Ghost' Stays On TV Screen

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 14 (AP)—Picture the plight of the Indianapolis police, confronted with an unwelcomely persistent, grandfather-like ghost which refuses to dematerialize from a television screen.

John and Virginia Mackey, both 33, the set owners, contend they know the face—that it's Mrs. Mackey's grandfather, George R. Shots, who died April 28 at the age of 74.

Mrs. Marie Johnson, 52, the mother of Mrs. Mackey, also identifies the face as that of her father. The Mackeys, Mrs. Johnson and other relatives say the moustached man is wearing the clothes in which Shots was buried.

The image first appeared during a network drama Friday and became more intense Saturday, regardless of where on the dial the set was tuned.

The Mackey's called for police. The set was torn down in the police property room. When it was reassembled, there—clear as before—was the face.

A parade of officers came to see it.

Local television engineers say images can be "burned" onto coated tubes by stepped-up electron beams, and they presume the face is that of an actor in the Friday night show.

Luftwaffe Mishandled, RAF Historians Say

LONDON, Sept. 14 (AP)—German aircraft designers were superior to the Allies during World War II, but the German high command mishandled the Luftwaffe, Royal Air Force historians said today.

Giving an official analysis of the air war, the British experts said the Germans' "great error" was being lulled into overconfidence by "early and easy successes."

Atom Radiation Makes Materials Stronger

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—The Magazine Architectural Forum says that atomic age radiation of building materials promises to bring a revolution in architecture and construction of homes and buildings.

Radiations show promise of making ordinary materials stronger, more fire-resistant and better, the magazine says in its September issue.

"News is now beginning to leak through the screen of industrial atomic secrecy," it says, "that massive does of gamma radiation (X-rays) have been harnessed to make an ordinarily soft sheet of plastic stronger than the same thickness of today's structural steel and so resistant to heat that it could be used in the after-burners of jet engines; i.e., so resistant to heat that in building it could be used naked without fireproofing. It can also be made transparent, translucent or opaque at will."

Church Closing In Spain Arouses Baptists In U. S.

RICHMOND Va., Sept. 14 (AP)—An official of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board said here today he will attempt to secure an appointment with the Spanish ambassador and Secretary of State Dulles to discuss the closing of a church in Spain.

Dr. George W. Sadler, board secretary for Africa, Europe and the Near East, said he will attempt to secure a meeting next week to discuss the closing of the Second Baptist Church in Madrid July 17.

Spanish police closed and sealed the church which had an all-Spanish congregation, on grounds that public proselytizing of Roman Catholics was being carried out. The Spanish bill of rights tolerates non-Catholic sects so long as no public manifestations are made.

Dr. Sadler said representatives of the board in Spain presented the matter to the American Embassy in Madrid July 23 and were told the embassy would take it up with the Spanish Foreign Office.

After several weeks, Dr. Sadler said, the embassy told the board that Sr. Kobbe y Chinchilla, spanish director of North American affairs in Spain's Foreign Ministry, said that, "Despite repeated warnings, the persons in control of this chapel have been engaging in proselytizing activities."

The communication from the embassy continued that, "They have allegedly attempted to attract people to showings of Protestant films; they have held unauthorized meetings; and they have reportedly tried to bring in children by offering them candy and sweetmeats. Sr. Kobbe recalled that in 1952, the then pastor of the chapel was fined 500 pesetas for the same kind of activities."

The embassy note concluded that "Under the circumstances, said Sr. Kobbe, it would not be possible to accede to our hope that the chapel would be reopened."

Spokesmen for the Foreign Mission Board replied to the note that almost anything they do in Spain can be interpreted as proselytizing.

Films were shown on two or three occasions, the spokesmen said, but always in the chapel with no external manifestations. All of the services have been held in the chapel where there is written authorization to have religious services, they added.

With regard to candy and sweetmeats, the spokesman said the Baptist people of the church can recall only one such incident. At one Christmas pageant, held inside the chapel, they said little bags of candy were given to the children who were present.

As to the fine in 1952, the spokesmen said the pastor of the church then recalls paying the 500 pesetas, though he still is not sure why he had to pay it and that he was not told why at the time.

H-Bomb Atoms In Air, Wines Answer Puzzles About Rain

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP) — H-bomb type atoms that fall from the skies are answering some questions about man's old friend or enemey—rain.

They indicate that raindrops of hurricanes or gentle drizzles are about three weeks old, on the average, when they fall. Moisture rising from oceans and rivers stays aloft that long before falling as rain.

Rain which falls into the oceans apparently doesn't mix much deeper than 50 yards down with the ocean water itself.

And rare old wines show that the H-bomb atom rain has been going on a steady pace for at least 10 years.

The studies were made with radioactive tritium, or triple-weight hydrogen atoms. Tritium is an ingredient of H-bombs. But tritium is also formed naturally high above the earth when cosmic rays strike atoms of the atmosphere. Tritium formed this way combines with oxygen to fall as radioactive water.

Dr. W. F. Libby, Institute for Nuclear Studies, University of Chicago, told the American Chemical Society yesterday of some findings based on measurements of this natural tritium.

On the average, about one tritium atom is produced every second for each square inch of the earth's surface, he says.

Since tritium atoms are radioactive, they decay or change into something else at a steady rate. Every 12½ years, half of any original amount of tritium has disappeared. This makes it possible to calculate something about the age of water in wells, volcanoes, rivers and oceans.

Rain falling over the land is richer in tritium than rain falling over the sea, he finds. This is because the moisture over continents spends a longer time in contact with the upper air, hence it acquires more tritium.

Dr. Libby also measured the tritium in vintage wines from New York State and Europe. The wine came from grapes nourished by radioactive rain which fell on vineyards 10 years or more ago. From the amount of tritium still remaining in the wines, he finds that the rains of 10 years ago contained as much tritium as the rains falling today.

Queen Mother To Sail To U. S. Aboard Liner She Launched In '38

LONDON, Sept. 14 (AP)—The transatlantic liner she launched in 1938 will carry Queen Mother Elizabeth to America this fall for her visit to New York, Washington and Ottawa, Canada.

Clarence House, her residence, said tonight she will sail Oct. 21 on the liner Queen Elizabeth, arriving in New York Oct. 26. On the return voyage she will sail aboard the Queen Mary, leaving New York Nov. 18.

The Queen Mother has accepted an invitation from President Eisenhower to stay at the White House from Nov. 4 to 6. She will go to Ottawa later.

Church Closing In Spain Arouses Baptists In U. S.

RICHMOND Va., Sept. 14 (AP)—An official of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board said here today he will attempt to secure an appointment with the Spanish ambassador and Secretary of State Dulles to discuss the closing of a church in Spain.

Dr. George W. Sadler, board secretary for Africa, Europe and the Near East, said he will attempt to secure a meeting next week to discuss the closing of the Second Baptist Church in Madrid July 17.

Spanish police closed and sealed the church which had an all-Spanish congregation, on grounds that public proselytizing of Roman Catholics was being carried out. The Spanish bill of rights tolerates non-Catholic sects so long as no public manifestations are made.

Dr. Sadler said representatives of the board in Spain presented the matter to the American Embassy in Madrid July 23 and were told the embassy would take it up with the Spanish Foreign Office.

After several weeks, Dr. Sadler said, the embassy told the board that Sr. Kobbe y Chinchilla, spanish director of North American affairs in Spain's Foreign Ministry, said that, "Despite repeated warnings, the persons in control of this chapel have been engaging in proselytizing activities."

The communication from the embassy continued that, "They have allegedly attempted to attract people to showings of Protestant films; they have held unauthorized meetings; and they have reportedly tried to bring in children by offering them candy and sweetmeats. Sr. Kobbe recalled that in 1952, the then pastor of the chapel was fined 500 pesetas for the same kind of activities."

The embassy note concluded that "Under the circumstances, said Sr. Kobbe, it would not be possible to accede to our hope that the chapel would be reopened."

Spokesmen for the Foreign Mission Board replied to the note that almost anything they do in Spain can be interpreted as proselytizing.

Films were shown on two or three occasions, the spokesmen said, but always in the chapel with no external manifestations. All of the services have been held in the chapel where there is written authorization to have religious services, they added.

With regard to candy and sweetmeats, the spokesman said the Baptist people of the church can recall only one such incident. At one Christmas pageant, held inside the chapel, they said little bags of candy were given to the children who were present.

As to the fine in 1952, the spokesmen said the pastor of the church then recalls paying the 500 pesetas, though he still is not sure why he had to pay it and that he was not told why at the time.

H-Bomb Atoms In Air, Wines Answer Puzzles About Rain

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP) — H-bomb type atoms that fall from the skies are answering some questions about man's old friend or enemey—rain.

They indicate that raindrops of hurricanes or gentle drizzles are about three weeks old, on the average, when they fall. Moisture rising from oceans and rivers stays aloft that long before falling as rain.

Rain which falls into the oceans apparently doesn't mix much deeper than 50 yards down with the ocean water itself.

And rare old wines show that the H-bomb atom rain has been going on a steady pace for at least 10 years.

The studies were made with radioactive tritium, or triple-weight hydrogen atoms. Tritium is an ingredient of H-bombs. But tritium is also formed naturally high above the earth when cosmic rays strike atoms of the atmosphere. Tritium formed this way combines with oxygen to fall as radioactive water.

Dr. W. F. Libby, Institute for Nuclear Studies, University of Chicago, told the American Chemical Society yesterday of some findings based on measurements of this natural tritium.

On the average, about one tritium atom is produced every second for each square inch of the earth's surface, he says.

Since tritium atoms are radioactive, they decay or change into something else at a steady rate. Every 12½ years, half of any original amount of tritium has disappeared. This makes it possible to calculate something about the age of water in wells, volcanoes, rivers and oceans.

Rain falling over the land is richer in tritium than rain falling over the sea, he finds. This is because the moisture over continents spends a longer time in contact with the upper air, hence it acquires more tritium.

Dr. Libby also measured the tritium in vintage wines from New York State and Europe. The wine came from grapes nourished by radioactive rain which fell on vineyards 10 years or more ago. From the amount of tritium still remaining in the wines, he finds that the rains of 10 years ago contained as much tritium as the rains falling today.

Co. Contest Scheduled For Oct. 9

A county-wide apple dessert contest will be held October 9, Miss Justine E. Miller, assistant home demonstration agent, announces. It will be in the extension office at 10 a. m.

Local clubs will hold their contests between September 20 and October 2, so their winners and runners-up may compete in the county contest. The county winners then will take part in the 1954 All-Eastern apple dessert contest, which is for 4-H, home economics classes, Future Homemakers of America and Girl Scouts, between 14 and 21 years of age.

Sponsored by the Women's Auxiliaries of the State Horticultural Societies, in conjunction with the apple growers' organizations, the contest is being held to increase interest in good cooking and recognition of its importance, to increase interest and skill among future homemakers in apple cookery, and to provide a wholesome activity, including travel and educational awards.

There are two requirements for the apple dessert, the base and principal ingredient must be apples; and it must have a crust of dough; "batter," as in cake, is barred.

In the local contest the winner and runner-up will receive first and second ribbons, and the winner will be entered in the county contest. The county winner will receive a cook book, first and second inscribed medals, and an expenses-paid trip to the state contest. The state winner and her leader will receive an expenses-paid trip to the All-Eastern contest and three days entertainment and engraved trophies. The All-Eastern contest will be held either in Washington or in New York City, to be decided later.

Co. Contest Scheduled For Oct. 9

A county-wide apple dessert contest will be held October 9, Miss Justine E. Miller, assistant home demonstration agent, announces. It will be in the extension office at 10 a. m.

Local clubs will hold their contests between September 20 and October 2, so their winners and runners-up may compete in the county contest. The county winners then will take part in the 1954 All-Eastern apple dessert contest, which is for 4-H, home economics classes, Future Homemakers of America and Girl Scouts, between 14 and 21 years of age.

Sponsored by the Women's Auxiliaries of the State Horticultural Societies, in conjunction with the apple growers' organizations, the contest is being held to increase interest in good cooking and recognition of its importance, to increase interest and skill among future homemakers in apple cookery, and to provide a wholesome activity, including travel and educational awards.

There are two requirements for the apple dessert, the base and principal ingredient must be apples; and it must have a crust of dough; "batter," as in cake, is barred.

In the local contest the winner and runner-up will receive first and second ribbons, and the winner will be entered in the county contest. The county winner will receive a cook book, first and second inscribed medals, and an expenses-paid trip to the state contest. The state winner and her leader will receive an expenses-paid trip to the All-Eastern contest and three days entertainment and engraved trophies. The All-Eastern contest will be held either in Washington or in New York City, to be decided later.

Girl Sees Again Through Cornea Of Dead Woman

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 14 (AP) — Thanks to an anonymous Racine woman who willed her eyes for a delicate eye operation, Shirley Burks no longer has to sit in a front row seat or rely on a classmate to read instructions written on the blackboard at Washington Park High School.

Now, Shirley has good eyesight for the first time in six years, although in only one of her eyes. And there's little doubt but that she's one of the happiest 19-year-old girls in town.

The surgery, first of its kind ever performed by a Racine ophthalmologist took place last June in St. Luke's Hospital. Last week Shirley returned to school.

When her eyesight was damaged in 1948 there seemed little prospect that she would ever be able to undergo the surgery required to remove the cornea and replace it with healthy tissue. The supply of corneas is limited and not many eye surgeons can perform the operation.

But what then seemed impossible was accomplished. A Racine woman, whose identity remains secret, had willed her eyes to the national "eye bank." When she died, her husband was contacted by Dr. E. S. Olson, pathologist at St. Luke's. Arrangements were made for Shirley to receive the corneal tissue. The corneal transplant was performed in one eye by Dr. Robert H. Lehner. It was such a success that a similar operation may be attempted on the other eye at some later date.

To this day, Shirley does not know the identity of her benefactor. It was kept secret at the request of the woman's husband.

The short woman who knows Fashion's best lines for her figure always looks smart.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Many short girls complain that "all the best-looking clothes" are styled for tall girls. And wouldn't you know it, the tall girls are envious of their diminutive sisters for just the opposite reason!

Tall or short, you've no real justification for complaint. Learn the best lines for your figure. I'll give you short gals a few fashion helps today; another day, I'll tell you the lines that put tall figures in proportion. (Send for my booklet, "What's Your Line?" as an immediate aid; see below.)

Sense For "Shorts"

First of all, find the right place to shop. Do a little sleuthing for the departments in stores and the specialty shops that cater to your figure type. Then your temptation to purchase styles that "belong" to another type will be conveniently thwarted.

In that "right" shop, find yourself a "right" saleswoman, one who appreciates clothes and your particular concern about clothes. While you're learning to make wiser decisions as to what lines are most becoming to you, she'll guide you.

If you are short and slight, your best lines differ somewhat from those best for the short woman whose figure is full. For the short, dainty figure: horizontal and modified vertical lines. For the short, full-figured woman: vertical and diagonal lines.

Specifically, these are good design details for the short-slight figure: Round and short "V" necks, small collars; soft, rounded shoulders; puffy or easy-fitted sleeves, full-length or short-short; short, vertical tucks in blouses, self belts, set-in or princess waistlines; bolero, peplum or short jackets; draped, medium-full, knife-pleated, or straight skirts; delicate trimmings (such as narrow ruffles, small buttons).

Short-Full Figure

Here are flattering fashion notes for the short woman with fuller contours: Moderate "V" necks and small, pointed collars; unexaggerated shoulders, set-in sleeves; blouses with centered or diagonal stitching and closings, surplices, narrow self-belts; soft "dressmaker" jackets, not longer than two inches below the hip bone; easy, straight skirts with center stitching or pleats; vertical trimmings (such as slit pockets, up-and-down buttons).

Your clothes will look as though they are designed for you alone if they possess the lines that complement your type of figure. You can't ignore fashion—nor should you. Rather, adapt the lines of current fashions to your silhouette.

"WHAT'S YOUR LINE?" — Horizontal, vertical and diagonal lines make a world of difference in what clothing will do for (or to) your figure! This "P.S." gives you complete information on handling lines to your own best advantage. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope for a copy of WHAT'S YOUR LINE?

Tomorrow: Firm muscles, good figure!

West Virginia Fails To Make First 20 In Pre-Season Poll

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—Declining to be swayed by the hackneyed advice to "always stick with a champion," participants in the annual Associated Press pre-season football poll have voted Notre Dame the No. 1 college team for 1954, and dropped Maryland, the 1953 king, to third place.

The Irish, almost perennial favorites, edged out Oklahoma for the top rating, 1,449 points to 1,431. The Oklahomans received 74 of the first place votes cast by the 171 sportswriters and sportscasters in the nationwide poll while Notre Dame was named No. 1 on 52 ballots.

Maryland, voted tops by 13 critics, received 910 points on the basis of 10 points for first place, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc., with Texas fourth with 834.

Others in the top 10 are Illinois, 811; Michigan State, 616; Georgia Tech, 558; UCLA 548; Wisconsin, 383, and Mississippi, 368.

Texas, Wisconsin and Mississippi are newcomers, replacing Rice, Iowa and West Virginia in the general reshuffling. Rice, No. 6 in the final 1953 poll, was shoved to 16th; Iowa, No. 9 at the close of last season, is in the 11th spot, and West Virginia, No. 10 last fall, is not included in the first 20.

The pre-season standings are due for a possible quick shuffle, with games matching several members of the top 10 on the early-season schedule. Notre Dame meets Texas Sept. 25, Maryland plays UCLA Oct. 1, and Oklahoma takes on Texas Oct. 9. The Sooners meet California, ranked No. 12, this Saturday.

Integration Moves Ahead Quietly In Most Places

Racial integration in public schools moved ahead peacefully in a city in "confederate" Arkansas Tuesday but segregation barriers went up again in a county in borderline West Virginia where striking students and protesting parents quickly overawed a school board.

Fayetteville, Ark., became the first sizable city in the old South to send whites and Negroes into the same classes and there were no incidents reported as six Negro girls and a boy moved into the sophomore and junior classes in high school.

Fayetteville was following the example set by little Charleston, Ark., which integrated 11 Negroes into its school system Aug. 23—and did it so quietly that outside newspapers didn't learn of it until Monday. "Things seem to be working out fine," H. M. Orsburn, president of the Charleston School Board, observed Tuesday.

But in West Virginia's Greenbrier County the barriers were up again after a five-day trial of integration undertaken by the local school board on advice of the state school superintendent, W. W. Trent.

At White Sulphur Springs, where white pupils struck and picketed yesterday, three of 25 Negroes took their books and belongings away from the school after the board had yielded to students and protesting parents and rescinded the integration order.

Meanwhile, the largest scale experiment in integration yet undertaken went forward with no reported troubles in Washington, D.C.

But with the U.S. Supreme Court still to hand down its operative decision to uphold the principle of integration it announced last spring these developments were minor, preliminary maneuverings as the bulk of the South held strictly to its segregated patterns.

In Mississippi there was growing determination to circumvent whatever final ruling the highest court may make. While the legislature prepared to act on a constitutional amendment that would permit private operation of schools with public funds, so-called "Citizens Councils" continued to be formed.

A possibility that Tennesse might emerge with some mixed pattern arose when it was disclosed at Nashville that the state might not be represented at the Supreme Court session at which plans to integrate schools will be considered. It was pointed out that local school boards in Tennessee are virtually self - governing and the state can't speak for all.

At Shreveport, La., 15 Negroes filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking admission to Louisiana's McNeese State College at Lake Charles.

Pool Attendance Drops Slightly

Attendance at the Constitution Park Pool dropped this summer from last year's total, according to Thomas J. Hopwood, pool manager.

This was due mainly to the cool weather.

Summer a year ago, too, was occasioned by hot and dry weather as the 11-month drought got under way.

Total number of times the pool was used by individuals this summer was 30,458 as compared to 33,074, a drop of 2,517.

In 1953, the number of children's paid tickets sold amounted 14,825, and this summer, 11,994.

Adults in 1953 were sold 15,426 admissions, and during this summer, 13,438.

The City Recreation Department used the pool in its learn-to-swim programs for both the playground children and adults.

This program showed marked increased participation with the over-all number jumping from 2,282 to 3,862.

The number of complimentary tickets issued to various groups increased from 541 to 1,164.

Driver Is Fined $25 In Hit-Skip Mishap

Robert Wilson Ware, 24, city, paid a fine of $25 and costs yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court after he pleaded guilty to leaving the scene after hitting an unattended vehicle.

Arrested early Monday following a hit-skip accident in South End, Ware was ordered to make restitution for damage done to the car of Harry Lloyd, 1211 Virginia Avenue. Police nabbed him on Baltimore Street.

Encampment Meets

Cumberland Encampment 23, IOOF, resumed meetings yesterday at 7:30 p. m. in Odd Fellows Temple, South Mechanic Street, after a summer recess.

Plans were made for the visitation of William G. Schmidt, Baltimore, grand instructor, who will visit area encampments in Cumberland on October 12.

Flynn To Attend Training Session

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn is going back to school.

Tomorrow, Chief Flynn will go to Annapolis to attend the interstate conference on stolen property matters.

This one-day event is sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, with D. K. Brown, agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the FBI, as director.

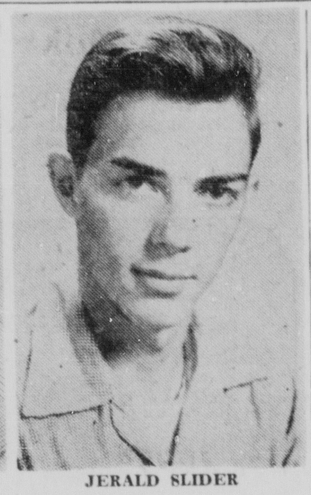
William V. Keegan, police and fire commissioner, announced yesterday that Flynn will also represent the City Police Department at the University of Maryland Institute of Maryland Law Enforcement Officers.

Keegan said Chief Flynn will attend the one-day a month sessions on his regular day off, but the city will pay his travel expenses to College Park.

Brown said the conference in Annapolis, will be attended by local, state, and county law enforcement officers, FBI personnel, representatives from banks, hotel associations, and business groups, and officials from other interested organizations from Maryland and Delaware.

New Amsterdam, now New York City, established the first night school in the United States in 1661.

MISS JUDITH SLIDER



JERALD SLIDER

Sister To Help 4-H Youth In Junior Broiler Contest

A 16-year-old Oldtown area girl will "pinch-hit for the Air Force in a family manner of speaking" in the Junior Broiler Production contests today at the College of Agriculture Extension Service, University of Maryland, for the state championship.

Miss Judith Slider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Slider, Upper Town Creek Road, will represent her brother who is serving at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

Airman Jerald "Jerry" Slider, 17-year-old 4-H'er, was awarded first prize in the Western Maryland competition last May 29 at Oakland with his White Rocks. Six birds from his flock were considered the best among seven contestants from 4-H and Future Farmers of America groups in Allegany and Garrett counties, and he received a ribbon and certificate attesting to the honor.

Second place went to Carroll Lee Paugh, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen S. Paugh, Oakland, who also will participate in the state event sponsored by the Maryland State Poultry Council and the Maryland State Fair Board. He displayed Cornish Rocks.

In the state competition, both youths will be required to exhibit their birds, frozen and dressed.

The regional contest, which began March 19, climaxed a ten-week growing period for 100 chicks. Forty per cent of the scoring was on live bird samples, 30 per cent on records and 30 per cent on the contestant's knowledge of broiler production.

"Jerry" did a good bit of work on his father's 180-acre farm" before graduating from Flintstone High School in June, his mother said. Two days after graduation, he was in service. Later he came home for a week to check his brood preparatory to the state contest.

But, according to "Judy", he had nothing to worry about. She is a junior at Flintstone High.

Some 162 youths were enrolled in the regional contests. The project was under the direction of Perry Twining, extension specialist in charge of 4-H Club poultry work.

It was designed to teach the economical production of quality poultry. Through the project young people are given an opportunity to gain experience in sound brooding practices which apply to brooding replacements and layers as well as broilers.

The state contest will be held in conjunction with Maryland Poultry Day. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will appear on the program.

Soldier Is Held

U. S. Army officials in Pusan have reported that Cpl. Edgar Meyers, RD 1, Ridgeley, is being held for investigation in the shooting of a Korean.

The announcement said the Korean was shot while fleeing with two cases of cigarets from an Army base.

County To Obtain Social Security Data

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday requested Gorman E. Getty, board attorney, to obtain information concerning the recent amendments to the Social Security Act which provides for coverage of public employes of governmental units.

Lemmert said that if the amendments, which are believed to relax some of the regulation for states, counties and municipalities are such that Allegany County employes can be covered it would be well to know what procedure to follow.

Getty looked up legislation passed by the Maryland General Assembly in 1951 which made Social Security coverage available to public employes of counties and municipalities. By federal regulation the coverage was made available only to those employes of towns and counties which did not also possess a pension plan. This county does have such a pension plan in effect.

In 1954 the Legislature passed an act designed to extend the coverage to employes of the state, counties and cities. The recent federal amendments relax the regulations to extend coverage to state, county and city employes who are also covered by a pension plan.

The state act provides for a referendum to be conducted by and under the supervision of the governor. The state has the option of treating the existing state retirement system as a single system and conduct the referendum among eligible employes who are members of the system or the state may treat each political subdivision individually and permit local referendums of eligible employes in each county or city.

Such referendums will be conducted by secret ballots and must be approved by a majority of eligible employes. The Social Security coverage would be in addition to retirement benefits now provided under the county's pension plan.

Getty will obtain copies of the new federal regulations and also contact Joseph O. McCusker, deputy state comptroller, to ascertain what steps the state has taken in connection with the Social Security program or if it proposes to do so.

Pool Attendance Drops Slightly

Attendance at the Constitution Park Pool dropped this summer from last year's total, according to Thomas J. Hopwood, pool manager.

This was due mainly to the cool weather.

Summer a year ago, too, was occasioned by hot and dry weather as the 11-month drought got under way.

Total number of times the pool was used by individuals this summer was 30,458 as compared to 33,074, a drop of 2,517.

In 1953, the number of children's paid tickets sold amounted 14,825, and this summer, 11,994.

Adults in 1953 were sold 15,426 admissions, and during this summer, 13,438.

The City Recreation Department used the pool in its learn-to-swim programs for both the playground children and adults.

This program showed marked increased participation with the over-all number jumping from 2,282 to 3,862.

The number of complimentary tickets issued to various groups increased from 541 to 1,164.

Driver Is Fined $25 In Hit-Skip Mishap

Robert Wilson Ware, 24, city, paid a fine of $25 and costs yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court after he pleaded guilty to leaving the scene after hitting an unattended vehicle.

Arrested early Monday following a hit-skip accident in South End, Ware was ordered to make restitution for damage done to the car of Harry Lloyd, 1211 Virginia Avenue. Police nabbed him on Baltimore Street.

Encampment Meets

Cumberland Encampment 23, IOOF, resumed meetings yesterday at 7:30 p. m. in Odd Fellows Temple, South Mechanic Street, after a summer recess.

Plans were made for the visitation of William G. Schmidt, Baltimore, grand instructor, who will visit area encampments in Cumberland on October 12.

Flynn To Attend Training Session

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn is going back to school.

Tomorrow, Chief Flynn will go to Annapolis to attend the interstate conference on stolen property matters.

This one-day event is sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, with D. K. Brown, agent in charge of the Baltimore office of the FBI, as director.

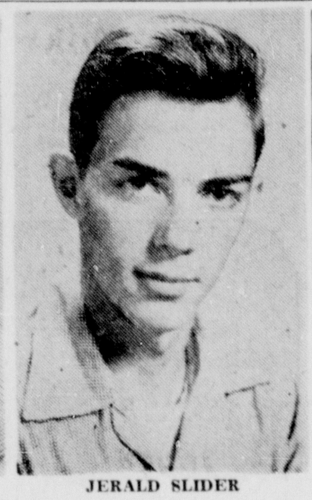
William V. Keegan, police and fire commissioner, announced yesterday that Flynn will also represent the City Police Department at the University of Maryland Institute of Maryland Law Enforcement Officers.

Keegan said Chief Flynn will attend the one-day a month sessions on his regular day off, but the city will pay his travel expenses to College Park.

Brown said the conference in Annapolis, will be attended by local, state, and county law enforcement officers, FBI personnel, representatives from banks, hotel associations, and business groups, and officials from other interested organizations from Maryland and Delaware.

New Amsterdam, now New York City, established the first night school in the United States in 1661.

MISS JUDITH SLIDER



JERALD SLIDER

Sister To Help 4-H Youth In Junior Broiler Contest

A 16-year-old Oldtown area girl will "pinch-hit for the Air Force in a family manner of speaking" in the Junior Broiler Production contests today at the College of Agriculture Extension Service, University of Maryland, for the state championship.

Miss Judith Slider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Slider, Upper Town Creek Road, will represent her brother who is serving at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

Airman Jerald "Jerry" Slider, 17-year-old 4-H'er, was awarded first prize in the Western Maryland competition last May 29 at Oakland with his White Rocks. Six birds from his flock were considered the best among seven contestants from 4-H and Future Farmers of America groups in Allegany and Garrett counties, and he received a ribbon and certificate attesting to the honor.

Second place went to Carroll Lee Paugh, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen S. Paugh, Oakland, who also will participate in the state event sponsored by the Maryland State Poultry Council and the Maryland State Fair Board. He displayed Cornish Rocks.

In the state competition, both youths will be required to exhibit their birds, frozen and dressed.

The regional contest, which began March 19, climaxed a ten-week growing period for 100 chicks. Forty per cent of the scoring was on live bird samples, 30 per cent on records and 30 per cent on the contestant's knowledge of broiler production.

"Jerry" did a good bit of work on his father's 180-acre farm" before graduating from Flintstone High School in June, his mother said. Two days after graduation, he was in service. Later he came home for a week to check his brood preparatory to the state contest.

But, according to "Judy", he had nothing to worry about. She is a junior at Flintstone High.

Some 162 youths were enrolled in the regional contests. The project was under the direction of Perry Twining, extension specialist in charge of 4-H Club poultry work.

It was designed to teach the economical production of quality poultry. Through the project young people are given an opportunity to gain experience in sound brooding practices which apply to brooding replacements and layers as well as broilers.

The state contest will be held in conjunction with Maryland Poultry Day. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson will appear on the program.

County To Obtain Social Security Data

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday requested Gorman E. Getty, board attorney, to obtain information concerning the recent amendments to the Social Security Act which provides for coverage of public employes of governmental units.

Lemmert said that if the amendments, which are believed to relax some of the regulation for states, counties and municipalities are such that Allegany County employes can be covered it would be well to know what procedure to follow.

Getty looked up legislation passed by the Maryland General Assembly in 1951 which made Social Security coverage available to public employes of counties and municipalities. By federal regulation the coverage was made available only to those employes of towns and counties which did not also possess a pension plan. This county does have such a pension plan in effect.

In 1954 the Legislature passed an act designed to extend the coverage to employes of the state, counties and cities. The recent federal amendments relax the regulations to extend coverage to state, county and city employes who are also covered by a pension plan.

The state act provides for a referendum to be conducted by and under the supervision of the governor. The state has the option of treating the existing state retirement system as a single system and conduct the referendum among eligible employes who are members of the system or the state may treat each political subdivision individually and permit local referendums of eligible employes in each county or city.

Such referendums will be conducted by secret ballots and must be approved by a majority of eligible employes. The Social Security coverage would be in addition to retirement benefits now provided under the county's pension plan.

Getty will obtain copies of the new federal regulations and also contact Joseph O. McCusker, deputy state comptroller, to ascertain what steps the state has taken in connection with the Social Security program or if it proposes to do so.

Mrs. Hicks Finishes Testimony In Probe Of Husband's Death

Widow Returns To Richmond, Va.

LA PLATA, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Dorothy Dillon Hicks headed back to Richmond, Va., today after completing more than 14 hours of testimony before a grand jury looking into the puzzling death of her paralyzed husband.

After an afternoon session concerning other matters than the Hicks case, the jury was excused until Oct. 4.

State's Atty. Robert T. Barbour said a report on the investigation would be made at that time or later.

The grand jurors returned seven indictments today, five involving local larceny cases, the other two not disclosed. But Barbour said the two "definitely were not connected" with the Hicks case.

The 25-year-old widow went before the Charles County jurors for an hour today. She left for Richmond this afternoon.

Her husband, 34-year-old Lewis Hicks, a paraplegic war veteran, was found dead in his specially equipped car the morning of March 28.

The car had apparently crashed into the cement foundations of Hicks' home at nearby Port Tobacco. Police at first thought his death was accidental when they found the throttle of the car had been taped open and other evidence that pointed to a slaying.

Mrs. Hicks told police she was in the car with Hicks at the time of the accident. She suffered only minor injuries.

Her appearance before the grand jury was obtained through a court order requiring her to be a material witness but granting her immunity from arrest during the period of her testimony. A five-day order was later extended by two days. It expired today.

Mrs. Hicks drove home from here today in the company of her brother, James W. Dillard, and his wife.

Following Mrs. Hicks into the grand jury room today was Sgt. G. E. Newcomer of the Maryland State Police.

He left the room after five minutes.

The young widow wore a different outfit each day she went before the jury. Her appearances have been characterized by exterior calm.

SKYSCRAPER BEAUTY—Lee Ann Meriwether, 19, admires the skyline of New York after arriving from Atlantic City, N. J., where her tall (5 feet, 8½ inches) beauty won her the Miss America title. She plans to use the $5,000 scholarship prize to continue her dramatic studies following a schedule of personal appearances.

Publisher Drops Horror Comics For Youngsters

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) today applauded an announcement by a New York publisher that he will discontinue all horror comic magazines for youngsters.

William Gaines, announcing his decision earlier in New York, said that "seems to be what the American parents want, and the American parents should be served."

Gaines reiterated his own belief that horror and crime comics have nothing to do with juvenile delinquency. But he said his firm, which he credited with introducing horror comics, would drop several magazines with a combined circulation of 800,000 and publish a "clear, clean line" of science, adventure, piracy and "lampoon" comics.

Undergraduates Pour Into College Park

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—The first of an expected 8,300 undergraduates poured into College Park today to register for the first term of the 1954-55 University of Maryland school year.

Seniors signed today, and others were to register tomorrow through Friday.

Sororities were active, rushing prospective members. Fraternities will not swing into rushing action until after classes begin.

There were important changes on the campus to greet returning upper classmen.

A new $700,000 Student Union building, equipped with a cafeteria, a 300-seat auditorium and reading rooms will open its doors next Monday.

A new indoor arena to seat 17,000 is near completion. It is expected to be finished in January.

Registrations are being conducted in the Armory building on the campus.

State Traffic Death Toll Under Last Year's

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP) — The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission reported today the State traffic death toll is 20 fewer than the 1953 total on Sept. 14.

There have been 344 deaths on Maryland highways so far this year—64 of them in Baltimore City. The Baltimore total last year at this time was 76.

Paul E. Burke, Commission director, said the improved safety record was due to a growing awareness among motorists of the need for cautious driving.

Dies In Salisbury

Bumper Harvest In State Forecast By Crop Experts

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Crop experts said today the harvest, now in full swing throughout Maryland and Delaware, should be a good one because of recent rainfalls.

The report, issued weekly by the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, covered the period ending last Saturday.

It did not take into consideration the heavy rainfall which came Friday night and early Saturday as "Hurricane Edna" passed by.

There was no exact estimate of harvest yields and, consequently, no attempt to figure the damage accomplished by the June and July dry spells.

But the crop reporters did note that more or less normal rainfall in August and early September had helped truck crops, particularly sweet corn.

Pastures have improved but are still short, since many farmers, desperate for forage because of the drought, turned herds loose for heavy grazing.

Most farmers must still feed grain at the winter rate, the report indicated.

High winds did considerable damage to corn last week on the Eastern Shore, particularly in Kent County.

From Kent southeastward where there was serious hail damage July 5, reporters found more smut than usual on corn.

The tobacco harvest was reported 70 per cent completed.

There was this summary of commercial vegetable crops:

Fall snap beans expected to be in heavy supply from western Wicomico County about Sept. 20. Fordhook lima harvest 90 per cent completed. Baby limas 70 per cent harvested.

Limited cantaloupe harvest remains in Delaware. Watermelon harvest continues in decreased volume. Many farmers are discouraged at low prices and are discing up melon fields and seeding small grains.

Tomato harvest virtually completed on the Eastern Shore, 85 per cent in Delaware and over two-thirds completed in Western Maryland.

Sweet corn harvest 95 per cent completed with quality greatly improved over earlier pickings, severely damaged by drought in much of the producing area.

The fall apple crop was reported in good color.

The peach harvest was reported completed as apple harvesting reached its fall peak. Grimes, Jonathan and Red Delicious varieties were harvested on the lower Eastern Shore.

Grimes Golden was the main variety picked in Western Maryland last week, with Red Delicious and Golden Delicious expected to begin moving to market tomorrow.

Thurmont Mayor Wins In Protested Election

THURMONT, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Elmer Koontz was reelected mayor of Thurmont yesterday in an election protested by his rival, Ralph H. Hammond.

Hammond, who polled 107 votes to Koontz' 153, said he was not permitted to observe the counting of the ballots but that privilege was extended to Koontz.

Koontz said today Hammond could have a recount without going

Demo Campaign Picks Up Steam

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—Maryland Democrats pushed off today on "Operation Comeback"—their drive to recapture the statehouse and a majority on the congressional delegation from the Republicans in November.

T. Barton Harrington and other members of a five-man steering committee met at Byrd-for-Governor headquarters for the first of what were described as daily strategy meetings.

Plotting Dr. H. C. Byrd's gubernatorial campaign with Harrington were George P. Mahoney, who waged a bitter primary fight against Byrd, E. Brooke Lee, and Clarence W. Miles. Former Gov. W. Preston Lane Jr., also a member of the committee, was not present for the Emerson Hotel session.

Republican headquarters, three blocks away in the Lord Baltimore Hotel, said the GOP drive headed by Gov. McKeldin will get into full swing next week.

Shortly after the session with his advisors, Byrd left to address officers attending a policemen's short course at College Park, site of the University of Maryland he headed as president until he began his primary campaign.

Byrd also was to attend tonight a Howard County "harmony" meeting of local candidates who were badly split between him and Mahoney in the primary.

A visitor to Byrd's nine-room headquarters layout at the Emerson today was James H. (Jack) Pollack, North Baltimore political leader who backed McKeldin against Lane's unsuccessful bid for re-election four years ago.

IKE VISITS SUGAR BEET FARM — President Eisenhower and Louie J. Ehlen, a sugar beet farmer, discuss the problems of raising a crop during the President's visit to the Ehlen farm near Brighton, Colo., yesterday. The President also dedicated two new laboratories at the National Bureau of Standards plant at Boulder, Colo., to "the welfare of humanity."

Woman Is Accused Of Bouncing Adopted Son's Head On Walk

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15 (AP) — A 37-year-old Baltimore mother was arraigned in Police Court today on charges she grabbed her adopted son by the ankles, bounced his head on the sidewalk several times, then threw him into a bush.

Magistrate Charlotte Main postponed a decision in the case until a more complete report is received on the injuries sustained by the boy, a nine-year-old.

A 14-year-old witness, Thomas Fair, testified he saw Mrs. Ethel M. Svec bounce the head of her adopted son, John, three times on the sidewalk before hurling him into a nearby bush.

The boy was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by police, summoned by young Fair. He was treated for contusions of the head and a possible skull fracture before being released today after overnight confinement.

Water Rate Investigation

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—The Washington County Board of Commissioners agreed today to ask the Maryland Public Service Commission to investigate water rates the city charges county customers it supplies.

Probe Of Vote-Buying Ends

CENTREVILLE, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—The Queen Anne's County Grand Jury today finished its investigation of vote-buying charges and announced it would report on its findings tomorrow at 11 a.m.

The jurors heard testimony from 65 witnesses. A total of 73 had been called, but some were dismissed and some summons were never served.

County officers failed to hand a subpoena to Joseph George, former state senator and once a member of the State Roads Commission. George has been out of the state for several weeks and has not yet returned.

The charges were touched off by Hyman Pressman, attorney representing George P. Mahoney.

Mrs. Hicks Finishes Testimony In Probe Of Husband's Death

Widow Returns To Richmond, Va.

LA PLATA, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Dorothy Dillon Hicks headed back to Richmond, Va., today after completing more than 14 hours of testimony before a grand jury looking into the puzzling death of her paralyzed husband.

After an afternoon session concerning other matters than the Hicks case, the jury was excused until Oct. 4.

State's Atty. Robert T. Barbour said a report on the investigation would be made at that time or later.

The grand jurors returned seven indictments today, five involving local larceny cases, the other two not disclosed. But Barbour said the two "definitely were not connected" with the Hicks case.

The 25-year-old widow went before the Charles County jurors for an hour today. She left for Richmond this afternoon.

Her husband, 34-year-old Lewis Hicks, a paraplegic war veteran, was found dead in his specially equipped car the morning of March 28.

The car had apparently crashed into the cement foundations of Hicks' home at nearby Port Tobacco. Police at first thought his death was accidental when they found the throttle of the car had been taped open and other evidence that pointed to a slaying.

Mrs. Hicks told police she was in the car with Hicks at the time of the accident. She suffered only minor injuries.

Her appearance before the grand jury was obtained through a court order requiring her to be a material witness but granting her immunity from arrest during the period of her testimony. A five-day order was later extended by two days. It expired today.

Mrs. Hicks drove home from here today in the company of her brother, James W. Dillard, and his wife.

Following Mrs. Hicks into the grand jury room today was Sgt. G. E. Newcomer of the Maryland State Police.

He left the room after five minutes.

The young widow wore a different outfit each day she went before the jury. Her appearances have been characterized by exterior calm.

SKYSCRAPER BEAUTY—Lee Ann Meriwether, 19, admires the skyline of New York after arriving from Atlantic City, N. J., where her tall (5 feet, 8½ inches) beauty won her the Miss America title. Publisher Drops Horror Comics For Youngsters

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 (AP)—Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) today applauded an announcement by a New York publisher that he will discontinue all horror comic magazines for youngsters.

William Gaines, announcing his decision earlier in New York, said that "seems to be what the American parents want, and the American parents should be served."

Gaines reiterated his own belief that horror and crime comics have nothing to do with juvenile delinquency. But he said his firm, which he credited with introducing horror comics, would drop several magazines with a combined circulation of 800,000 and publish a "clear, clean line" of science, adventure, piracy and "lampoon" comics.

Undergraduates Pour Into College Park

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—The first of an expected 8,300 undergraduates poured into College Park today to register for the first term of the 1954-55 University of Maryland school year.

Seniors signed today, and others were to register tomorrow through Friday.

Sororities were active, rushing prospective members. Fraternities will not swing into rushing action until after classes begin.

There were important changes on the campus to greet returning upper classmen.

A new $700,000 Student Union building, equipped with a cafeteria, a 300-seat auditorium and reading rooms will open its doors next Monday.

A new indoor arena to seat 17,000 is near completion. It is expected to be finished in January.

Registrations are being conducted in the Armory building on the campus.

State Traffic Death Toll Under Last Year's

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP) — The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission reported today the State traffic death toll is 20 fewer than the 1953 total on Sept. 14.

There have been 344 deaths on Maryland highways so far this year—64 of them in Baltimore City. The Baltimore total last year at this time was 76.

Paul E. Burke, Commission director, said the improved safety record was due to a growing awareness among motorists of the need for cautious driving.

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Mrs. Etha Messick Dayton, 64-year-old wife of Brady J. Dayton, administrator of Peninsula General Hospital, died today.

Demo Campaign Picks Up Steam

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—Maryland Democrats pushed off today on "Operation Comeback"—their drive to recapture the statehouse and a majority on the congressional delegation from the Republicans in November.

T. Barton Harrington and other members of a five-man steering committee met at Byrd-for-Governor headquarters for the first of what were described as daily strategy meetings.

Plotting Dr. H. C. Byrd's gubernatorial campaign with Harrington were George P. Mahoney, who waged a bitter primary fight against Byrd, E. Brooke Lee, and Clarence W. Miles. Former Gov. W. Preston Lane Jr., also a member of the committee, was not present for the Emerson Hotel session.

Republican headquarters, three blocks away in the Lord Baltimore Hotel, said the GOP drive headed by Gov. McKeldin will get into full swing next week.

Shortly after the session with his advisors, Byrd left to address officers attending a policemen's short course at College Park, site of the University of Maryland he headed as president until he began his primary campaign.

Byrd also was to attend tonight a Howard County "harmony" meeting of local candidates who were badly split between him and Mahoney in the primary.

A visitor to Byrd's nine-room headquarters layout at the Emerson today was James H. (Jack) Pollack, North Baltimore political leader who backed McKeldin against Lane's unsuccessful bid for re-election four years ago.

Bumper Harvest In State Forecast By Crop Experts

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Crop experts said today the harvest, now in full swing throughout Maryland and Delaware, should be a good one because of recent rainfalls.

The report, issued weekly by the Maryland-Delaware Crop Reporting Service, covered the period ending last Saturday.

It did not take into consideration the heavy rainfall which came Friday night and early Saturday as "Hurricane Edna" passed by.

There was no exact estimate of harvest yields and, consequently, no attempt to figure the damage accomplished by the June and July dry spells.

But the crop reporters did note that more or less normal rainfall in August and early September had helped truck crops, particularly sweet corn.

Pastures have improved but are still short, since many farmers, desperate for forage because of the drought, turned herds loose for heavy grazing.

Most farmers must still feed grain at the winter rate, the report indicated.

High winds did considerable damage to corn last week on the Eastern Shore, particularly in Kent County.

From Kent southeastward where there was serious hail damage July 5, reporters found more smut than usual on corn.

The tobacco harvest was reported 70 per cent completed.

There was this summary of commercial vegetable crops:

Fall snap beans expected to be in heavy supply from western Wicomico County about Sept. 20. Fordhook lima harvest 90 per cent completed. Baby limas 70 per cent harvested.

Limited cantaloupe harvest remains in Delaware. Watermelon harvest continues in decreased volume. Many farmers are discouraged at low prices and are discing up melon fields and seeding small grains.

Tomato harvest virtually completed on the Eastern Shore, 85 per cent in Delaware and over two-thirds completed in Western Maryland.

Sweet corn harvest 95 per cent completed with quality greatly improved over earlier pickings, severely damaged by drought in much of the producing area.

The fall apple crop was reported in good color.

The peach harvest was reported completed as apple harvesting reached its fall peak. Grimes, Jonathan and Red Delicious varieties were harvested on the lower Eastern Shore.

Grimes Golden was the main variety picked in Western Maryland last week, with Red Delicious and Golden Delicious expected to begin moving to market tomorrow.

Thurmont Mayor Wins In Protested Election

THURMONT, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Elmer Koontz was reelected mayor of Thurmont yesterday in an election protested by his rival, Ralph H. Hammond.

Hammond, who polled 107 votes to Koontz' 153, said he was not permitted to observe the counting of the ballots but that privilege was extended to Koontz.

Koontz said today Hammond could have a recount without going

Woman Is Accused Of Bouncing Adopted Son's Head On Walk

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15 (AP) — A 37-year-old Baltimore mother was arraigned in Police Court today on charges she grabbed her adopted son by the ankles, bounced his head on the sidewalk several times, then threw him into a bush.

Magistrate Charlotte Main postponed a decision in the case until a more complete report is received on the injuries sustained by the boy, a nine-year-old.

A 14-year-old witness, Thomas Fair, testified he saw Mrs. Ethel M. Svec bounce the head of her adopted son, John, three times on the sidewalk before hurling him into a nearby bush.

The boy was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by police, summoned by young Fair. He was treated for contusions of the head and a possible skull fracture before being released today after overnight confinement.

Probe Of Vote-Buying Ends

CENTREVILLE, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—The Queen Anne's County Grand Jury today finished its investigation of vote-buying charges and announced it would report on its findings tomorrow at 11 a.m.

The jurors heard testimony from 65 witnesses. A total of 73 had been called, but some were dismissed and some summons were never served.

County officers failed to hand a subpoena to Joseph George, former state senator and once a member of the State Roads Commission. George has been out of the state for several weeks and has not yet returned.

The charges were touched off by Hyman Pressman, attorney representing George P. Mahoney.

School Enrollment Shows Slight Increase In County

Figures compiled from reports of every public school in the county shows that so far 15,844 children have been enrolled, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel.

Higgins said that the second enrollment tabulation will be available Friday and by that time he expects that additional groups of children will have enrolled, especially in the first grade.

So far he said he had received phone calls from three persons inquiring about location of schools where to enroll their children. These are people who have moved into the community recently and who have not yet established a permanent residence.

Higgins said the first grade enrollment in eight schools is higher than the contemplated number based on the 1952 school census. They are John Humbird School, McCoole, Central Elementary at Lonaconing, Ellerslie, Corriganville, Oldtown, Flintstone and Barton. This indicates that there has been some shifting of population from communities to suburban areas. The total first grade enrollment in 1,535.

The largest enrollment is among second graders with 1,700 in the various schools. There is also heavy enrollment in grades 7, 8 and 9 with 1,339 in the Seventh, 1,304 in the Eighth and 1,341 in the Ninth.

There are 8,561 elementary pupils, 3,984 in junior high and 3,299 in senior high schools. The nine high schools in the county have a total of 986 members of the senior class.

By Friday the figures should number from 100 to 125 more students in the public schools than last year.

Mahoney On Byrd's Steering Committee

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—A 5-man steering committee to head H. C. Byrd's Democratic campaign for governor, named yesterday, includes George P. Mahoney, Baltimore County contractor who lost the nomination to Byrd.

The committee, in addition to Mahoney, will include T. Barton Harrington, newly-elected chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee; former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr.; E. Brooke Lee, Democratic chieftain who helped run Byrd's primary campaign, and Clarence W. Miles, president of the Maryland Bar Association and president of the Baltimore Orioles.

Options Sought For Widening Franklin St.

The city plans to start acquiring property options for widening of Franklin Street.

Two sites are involved, the Mayor and Council was told Monday as it approved the move looking toward start of work on the street which has long been a traffic bottleneck in North End.

The discussion arose when Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said he had requested, and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz had agreed, to remove the beacon light temporarily at the end of North Mechanic Street in an effort to allow passage of large tractor-trailer trucks and ease traffic pressure on an alley between Mechanic and Centre streets which leads into Franklin.

Buchholtz said, meanwhile, that plans for widening Franklin Street had been completed and he moved the project be started.

Norman Kline who operates a grocery store at 700 North Mechanic Street, said his building has been struck at least 100 times by large trucks attempting to make the turn there. A hole is completely through the structure on the Franklin Street side, he said, adding that just a short time ago another truck knocked a hole in the front. He also said the site is dangerous for crossing by children because of a "blind spot" for drivers.

Kline pointed to the industrialized nature of that area, and the fact that traffic from North End must use the "cow path" daily. He added hardly a day passes that he does not see an accident because of the narrow street; and continued that $18,000 or $20,000 should be sufficient to meet cost.

Keegan, on another matter, said property owners at the site of the Fort Cumberland Motor Company fire, Frederick Street, should keep sidewalks clear around the debris because of danger to pedestrians, particularly school children, who have to walk in the street.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long agreed with Keegan and said he had also received complaints.

Buchholtz said he recognized and wanted to protect children as much as anybody else but where damage such as this is involved, property owners hesitate to move anything because of insurance adjustments which must be made. In this instance, he added, four or five insurance companies are involved.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum noted the property owner had been notified to clear sidewalks.

First Wolf In 133 Years Bagged In Swiss Alps

POSCHIAVO, Switzerland, Sept. 14 (AP)—A wolf has been shot in the Swiss Alps for the first time in 133 years.

Batista Lardi, a chamois hunter, returned to Poschiavo recently with the body of a female wolf weighing 66 pounds and estimated to be 8 years old. Lardi reported he shot the wolf in the desolate mountain region above Poschiavo near the Swiss-Italian frontier.

The last wolf was shot in Switzerland in 1821, though there have been persistent reports of wolves being seen in remote areas in the past few years.

Frostburg Doctor To Head Byrd Campaign In County

Dr. W. O. McLane, Frostburg, has been named general chairman of the Byrd for Governor Campaign in Allegany County, the county Democratic State Central Committee announced yesterday.

Simultaneous with this announcement was the opening of Byrd campaign headquarters in the Algonquin Hotel yesterday morning.

Dr. McLane was general chairman of Dr. H. C. Byrd's successful primary campaign in this county. The Democratic nominee, for the first time in two elections, defeated George P. Mahoney.

Allegany County in the Lane-Mahoney gubernatorial primary in 1950 and in the Sasscer-Mahoney senatorial primary in 1952 went for the aggressive Baltimore contractor.

The State Central Committee also reported that the list of campaign committee members and workers is being compiled.

An organization meeting is scheduled to unite all factions of the party, the committee reported.

Richard J. Stakem, this city, opened up the offices this morning in Rooms 108 and 115 of the Algonquin Hotel. He will be headquarters manager.

He said office hours will be 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Special phones will be installed but until that work is completed in the next few days persons desiring to contact the headquarters should call through the hotel switchboard.

The South Liberty quarters used by the Byrd workers during the campaign were not available for use by the State Central Committee, as the room has been occupied since that time.

Mayor To Attend League Meeting

Mayor Roy W. Eves will attend an executive committee meeting of the Maryland Municipal League in College Park Saturday.

The mayor commented that the league is particularly interested in the outcome of the referendum issue on the crosstown expressway in Cumberland.

The league has supported home rule and this referendum stems from a provision in the statutory home rule amendment allowed Cumberland in the 1951 session of the General Assembly.

Bond Is Posted In Fatal Mishap

Donald Lee Festerman, 20, of RD 2, Frostburg, was released under $1,000 bond yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court in the traffic death of a pedestrian early Sunday on Route 36 at Pekin.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason ordered him to appear before the October term of Circuit Court on a charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle.

The State's Attorney office charged that Festerman "did in a grossly and negligent manner" kill Charles Junior Beeman, 52-year-old unemployed coal miner of Moscow.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya asked for a jury trial, and Festerman was not required to submit a plea.

Authorities indicated that "excessive speed" was involved in the fatal accident. Beeman reportedly walked into the path of Festerman's car.

Mahoney On Byrd's Steering Committee

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—A 5-man steering committee to head H. C. Byrd's Democratic campaign for governor, named yesterday, includes George P. Mahoney, Baltimore County contractor who lost the nomination to Byrd.

The committee, in addition to Mahoney, will include T. Barton Harrington, newly-elected chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee; former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr.; E. Brooke Lee, Democratic chieftain who helped run Byrd's primary campaign, and Clarence W. Miles, president of the Maryland Bar Association and president of the Baltimore Orioles.

Options Sought For Widening Franklin St.

The city plans to start acquiring property options for widening of Franklin Street.

Two sites are involved, the Mayor and Council was told Monday as it approved the move looking toward start of work on the street which has long been a traffic bottleneck in North End.

The discussion arose when Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said he had requested, and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz had agreed, to remove the beacon light temporarily at the end of North Mechanic Street in an effort to allow passage of large tractor-trailer trucks and ease traffic pressure on an alley between Mechanic and Centre streets which leads into Franklin.

Buchholtz said, meanwhile, that plans for widening Franklin Street had been completed and he moved the project be started.

Norman Kline who operates a grocery store at 700 North Mechanic Street, said his building has been struck at least 100 times by large trucks attempting to make the turn there. A hole is completely through the structure on the Franklin Street side, he said, adding that just a short time ago another truck knocked a hole in the front. He also said the site is dangerous for crossing by children because of a "blind spot" for drivers.

Kline pointed to the industrialized nature of that area, and the fact that traffic from North End must use the "cow path" daily. He added hardly a day passes that he does not see an accident because of the narrow street; and continued that $18,000 or $20,000 should be sufficient to meet cost.

Keegan, on another matter, said property owners at the site of the Fort Cumberland Motor Company fire, Frederick Street, should keep sidewalks clear around the debris because of danger to pedestrians, particularly school children, who have to walk in the street.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long agreed with Keegan and said he had also received complaints.

Buchholtz said he recognized and wanted to protect children as much as anybody else but where damage such as this is involved, property owners hesitate to move anything because of insurance adjustments which must be made. In this instance, he added, four or five insurance companies are involved.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum noted the property owner had been notified to clear sidewalks.

First Wolf In 133 Years Bagged In Swiss Alps

POSCHIAVO, Switzerland, Sept. 14 (AP)—A wolf has been shot in the Swiss Alps for the first time in 133 years.

Batista Lardi, a chamois hunter, returned to Poschiavo recently with the body of a female wolf weighing 66 pounds and estimated to be 8 years old. Lardi reported he shot the wolf in the desolate mountain region above Poschiavo near the Swiss-Italian frontier.

The last wolf was shot in Switzerland in 1821, though there have been persistent reports of wolves being seen in remote areas in the past few years.

Frostburg Doctor To Head Byrd Campaign In County

Dr. W. O. McLane, Frostburg, has been named general chairman of the Byrd for Governor Campaign in Allegany County, the county Democratic State Central Committee announced yesterday.

Simultaneous with this announcement was the opening of Byrd campaign headquarters in the Algonquin Hotel yesterday morning.

Dr. McLane was general chairman of Dr. H. C. Byrd's successful primary campaign in this county. The Democratic nominee, for the first time in two elections, defeated George P. Mahoney.

Allegany County in the Lane-Mahoney gubernatorial primary in 1950 and in the Sasscer-Mahoney senatorial primary in 1952 went for the aggressive Baltimore contractor.

The State Central Committee also reported that the list of campaign committee members and workers is being compiled.

An organization meeting is scheduled to unite all factions of the party, the committee reported.

Richard J. Stakem, this city, opened up the offices this morning in Rooms 108 and 115 of the Algonquin Hotel. He will be headquarters manager.

He said office hours will be 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Special phones will be installed but until that work is completed in the next few days persons desiring to contact the headquarters should call through the hotel switchboard.

The South Liberty quarters used by the Byrd workers during the campaign were not available for use by the State Central Committee, as the room has been occupied since that time.

Mayor To Attend League Meeting

Mayor Roy W. Eves will attend an executive committee meeting of the Maryland Municipal League in College Park Saturday.

The mayor commented that the league is particularly interested in the outcome of the referendum issue on the crosstown expressway in Cumberland.

The league has supported home rule and this referendum stems from a provision in the statutory home rule amendment allowed Cumberland in the 1951 session of the General Assembly.

Bond Is Posted In Fatal Mishap

Donald Lee Festerman, 20, of RD 2, Frostburg, was released under $1,000 bond yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court in the traffic death of a pedestrian early Sunday on Route 36 at Pekin.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason ordered him to appear before the October term of Circuit Court on a charge of manslaughter by motor vehicle.

The State's Attorney office charged that Festerman "did in a grossly and negligent manner" kill Charles Junior Beeman, 52-year-old unemployed coal miner of Moscow.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya asked for a jury trial, and Festerman was not required to submit a plea.

The price picture continues on an even keel, with fewer fluctuations perhaps than at any period in a decade. Wages continue the slight upward trend that has been the pattern for more than a year, but prices of commodities and manufactured goods no longer follow upward.

Predictions from Detroit are that the automobile industry as a whole will continue present prices, with neither reductions nor increases of consequence. Improvements in new models, which in some instances will add to manufacturing costs, will be largely absorbed by the manufacturers.

But the long-sustained upward trend of the stock market—with only occasional and short-lived declines—is regarded by many financial experts as an indication that when and if the present level of prices generally is abandoned, the new trend will be up, not down. A downward trend is not possible unless wages are lowered, they contend, and lower wages do not seem to be in the picture of the immediate future.

Coffee prices have sagged somewhat, but no significance is attached to this development. Coffee prices had doubled in a few months because of a crop shortage and Brazilian governmental action. The present adjustment of prices is regarded as a natural aftermath of the rapid increase in coffee quotations.

What most economists predict is continued price stability between now and January 1, with only slight and scattered exceptions to the general pattern.

These Days

Retaliation

Four ways are open to the United States:

1. To accept the initiative for war on the assumption that the country that strikes first will have the greatest advantage;

2. To wait until we are hit and then to retaliate in full force;

3. A continuation of conferences with the object of delaying a shooting war as long as possible in the hope that something will happen—anything will happen—which will so weaken the Soviet Universal State that the necessity for war will have passed its historic moment;

4. Total isolation without any attempt at meeting the pressing international problems.

Dean Acheson adds to these a fifth possibility, namely, the maintenance of a balance of power. These are his words:

"So it became increasingly plain as our third postwar debate on foreign policy in half a century went on that the United States was, and must remain, in and of the world, and that coexistence of the victors and the maintenance of peace demanded the re-creation of a balancing power to the power of the Soviet system . . ."

The historic error in the Acheson thesis is that he disregards the fact that the United States is the target for destruction by the Soviet Universal State. Great Britain can attempt to maintain the balance of power because it stands between the United States and Soviet Russia. As a matter of fact, Great Britain has accepted that role and thus has, in reality, become a neutral power which was fully evident at Geneva. Great Britain is assumed by Nationalist China to have prevented Formosa, the Republic of Korea and Japan from being invited to attend the Manila Conference where they rightly belonged.

The way is not open for the United States to attempt to maintain a balance of power because it is the United States which is the principal objective enemy of the Soviet world. In a word, Dean Acheson's concept fits the year 1947 but not 1954. In 1948, the Soviet Universal State was moving in the direction of consolidating its power in China and Germany and the United States was building a coalition in Western Europe which became NATO and sought to build a European Defense Community by treaty. The United States has been defeated in these efforts, principally by Great Britain and France and by its own military failure in Korea.

Let us now analyze the ways that are open to this country. To take the initiative for war is offensive to American public opinion and although the President can by-pass the constitutional authority of Congress, as President Truman did in the Korean War, it is doubtful whether President Eisenhower would do anything of the sort. Therefore, the method of retaliation is really the first one open to this country.

But the method of retaliation requires a fixed policy, a demarcation on a map of the American sphere of authority beyond which the Soviet Universal State may not move a toe without the peril of retaliation. The United States has no such fixed policy. Is it the river Elbe in Europe? Is it the 17th Parallel in Indochina? Is it the 38th Parallel in Korea? Is it 12 miles off the China Coast? Is it the line of islands running from Japan, through Formosa, the Pescadores, the Philippines, to Australia and New Zealand?

The original "containment policy" of Harry Truman was vitiated by the Korean and Indochina wars although Soviet Russia moved no further in Europe except by the process of infiltration. But to Soviet Russia, infiltration is a weapon of war. The Communist parties of France and Italy are Russian parties, directed by the Kremlin. Ruth Fischer, once one of the top leaders of the German Communist party, in her book, "Stalin and German Communism," establishes beyond doubt the breakdown of independent national Communist parties and their incorporation in the Russian state system as instruments of infiltration. Earl Browder was thrown out of the American Communist party because he insisted that it be an American, not a Russian, party.

The "containment policy" ignored infiltration as a method of war and therefore was inadequate. The "retaliation policy" comes closer to reality but can only be tested by use—and use of it would be a fighting war on a universal scale. Nevertheless, it would be a safer guide for the United States if it were clear that there is a point beyond which we shall retaliate.

The Hesitant Stag Line

Most Drastic Cuts In Budget History For Next Year Ordered By President

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — One of the toughest letters in Budget Bureau history has been sent to every member of the Eisenhower cabinet, ordering further cuts for the fiscal year 1955-56.

This column has been able to obtain a copy of the highly secret and important document, which as far as the American public is concerned means two things:

1. Eisenhower means business when he says he is determined to proceed with his attempt to balance the budget despite advice from some on his staff that it may lead to recession;

2 There will be less government spending and less easy money next year.

The sternly worded secret budget directive warns cabinet officers to virtually wipe out all civil construction projects, which will mean rough sledding for such proposals as new school buildings and even for Eisenhower's own highway project. It will also turn thumbs down on some of the proposed Western irrigation and flood control projects so hotly debated in the recent session of Congress.

The secret directive also demands that cabinet officers apply a heavy ax to loans, mortgages, and even to the guarantee or insurance of loans. This means curtailment of loans to such organizations as Rural Electrification, Veteran Housing and the Federal Housing Administration, which hitherto has run into several hundred million dollars each year.

The secret instruction also warns cabinet members to withdraw from all projects which can be taken over by private enterprise, which hits at the Tennessee Valley Authority, Bonneville Dam, and public power projects generally.

"Progressive" Budget Pruning

Cabinet members are also instructed to plan for "progressive reduction," and begin planning this year for more long-range cuts. Regarding next year's cuts, they must submit their ideas to the budget director by today.

Finally, they are instructed to begin holding out as much current money as possible from expenditure during the second half of the present fiscal year. This begins January 1, and will not affect any government spending during the present election campaign.

Because of the importance of the drastic budget order, this writer is publishing it in full, except for the name of the particular cabinet officer to whom this particular letter was sent. Also omitted is one paragraph pertaining to the amount of money this particular department was instructed to cut. To reveal the amount would reveal the identity of the department.

The order is in two forms—a letter to cabinet officers and a memo which is attached. The letter follows:

"Executive Office of the President
Bureau of the Budget
Washington 25

"My Dear (name of cabinet officer):

"The budget results for the fiscal year just ended show the progress made thus far in reaching the budgetary objectives of this administration — fiscal soundness, military and economic strength, and the increased welfare of the country.

"1. Expenditures, new obligational authority, and the budget deficit were reduced substantially below the levels of the fiscal year 1953 and below the levels planned for 1954 in the budget presented to Congress a few days before this administration took office.

"2. Tax reductions were put into effect which will return to the people in the first full year about $7.5 billion—which would have been taken by the government under the tax rates in existence when this administration took office.

Another Deficit Expected

"Despite these accomplishments, the administration's objective of a balanced budget at lower tax rates has not yet been attained. The fiscal year 1954 ended with a budgetary deficit, and another deficit is in prospect for 1955.

"Nevertheless, the progress made to date is encouraging. With your help it can and should be continued in the formulation of the 1956 budget—on which preliminary work is already under way. To this end, your personal direction and review of the preparation of your department's 1956 budget submission are requested. That submission should be made to the Bureau of the Budget by September 15.

"To assist you in the preparation of your fiscal year 1956 budget, the President has established the policies and assumptions set forth in the attachment. This letter and the attachment are for the guidance of your department in preparing its estimates for 1956 and are not to be released outside of the department.

"To aid you further in preparing your 1956 budget, the President has approved the ceiling set forth below as the maximum amount, consistent with the President's overall budgetary objectives, upon which your budgetary plans for 1956 may be based.

(Inserted is a paragraph on the new obligatory ceiling—a different paragraph to each cabinet officer and this paragraph, which would identify the name of the cabinet officer from which this came, is therefore omitted).

"Your budget for 1956 should cover the complete requirements of your department for the year. Estimates for suplemental appropriations for 1956 will be considered only when they are necessary because of subsequent congressional action or where the supplemental is needed because of developments which were neither foreseen nor foreseeable. The original budget submission should contain firm figures and should include all the explanations, schedules, and justifications which are required under the provisions of Budget Circular No. A-11.

"Sincerely yours,
"(s) ROWLAND R. HUGHES
"Director."

NOTE—Because of the length and importance of the secret budget letter, the remainder will be published tomorrow.

U. S. Not Likely To Get In Major War Over Formosa

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The American people are not expecting a war over Formosa or the Quemoy Islands—near the mainland of China—because they have never been told that an attack on Formosa is equivalent to an attack on the United States.

Somewhere in the records there's a definition of America's "defense perimeter" as being a line from Japan southward to the Philippines, without mention of Formosa. Dean Acheson, as secretary of state, described that line in a speech in January 1950. The Communists immediately assumed that he was excluding Korea, and they moved southward across the 38th Parallel in June of that year.

The present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, has said publicly, and so has President Eisenhower, that the U. S. Seventh Fleet would defend Formosa. But all this must nevertheless come as something of a shock to the American people who have not yet been fully advised of just what the relationship is between Formosa and the use of naval forces and air power of the United States.

No Allies For U. S.

The United States Government, under the present and preceding administrations, has taken the position that it is necessary to stop the advance of the Communists in the Far East. The Chinese Nationalist government which holds Formosa is the legally recognized Chinese government so far as the United States is concerned, and hence any military action taken in defense of Formosa is the direct result of a request made to Washington by the constituted government. Under international law such military intervention is justified because a sovereign government is thereby consenting to the entry of foreign forces to assist in maintaining its position.

But Great Britain and other countries which have recognized the Red China government at Peiping are committed to recognize Formosa as really a part of the territory of the Communists, even though the latter do not hold it. If America, therefore, engages in any military operations in defense of Formosa or the Quemoy Islands, there will be no allies as was the case when Britain and France and other governments joined with the United States in Korea. This was an operation under the auspices of the United Nations.

When the problem of assisting the French government in Indochina was under consideration last spring, the United States Government made it clear that it would not intervene except with the consent and active military cooperation of the various governments concerned, including Great Britain and some Southeast Asian governments. It was further stated that no U. S. military action would be undertaken except after the President had submitted the matter to Congress.

Policies Reaffirmed

Is it, therefore, contemplated now that military action will be taken by the United States forces in defense of Formosa or the Quemoy Islands or both without submitting the matter to Congress? Plainly, if Formosa is an integral part of the United States strategic area, there might be a different story to tell. But President Eisenhower at Denver says he is reaffirming certain policies in the Western Pacific and he adds:

"These are, of course, to defend the vital interests of the United States wherever they may arise, to make better partners of old friends, and to get new friends wherever we can. And, of course, where our vital interests demand it, to support them in their security and in their own interests."

Does this mean America will go to war over Formosa? If it does, the American people have not been told that fact explicitly.

Does it mean that American military forces will take such action as may lead toward a larger military involvement? If so, there is no hint that American public opinion is ready for such a crisis.

Unfortunately, the Communists know all this, too. So it's quite possible they may miscalculate and a major crisis may be in the offing, with another retreat possible when the chips are down and the issue arises as to whether to risk a major war in the Far East. Having drawn away from it in Korea and in Indochina, the likelihood is that America will not become involved in a major war over Formosa either.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Takes us backward a couple of dog licenses to read the attorney general is again investigating merger in the first degree.

Department of Justice states the over-age gangs of Wall Street are on the consolidatory prowl They are not eating their young. He's eating them. And the Wolfson is at the door.

Once again Washington stalls while banking hours flicker and flutter. Not since the twitching 20s has everything been at odlums and ends.

Choose any name off a glass door and multiply it by curiosity. Add several small companies and stir for two directors' meeting. Sweeten with proxies and serve under the table.

A merger milks the dormant potentials of industrial dynasties by boosting the take-home pay in armored cars. It regiments the veepees of two organizations in accrued echelon while firing one bookkeeper.

What justice ferrets loose is monopoly of catalogued accessories in the upper brackets. We prefer diffused activity between the bee-tree and the manufacturers of high button shoes. If we permit industrial cannibalism the small manufacturer would be absorbed like gravy on bread.

The attorney general approves of go-gettiveness and character building with capital gains. There is no objection to vertical merging between the manufacturers of bottomless rowboats and the organizers of flooded basements.

What it seeks to prevent is a monopoly of buggy whips and concentrations of imperative ingredients of essentials. No corporations controlling sponge rubber cornerstones can be permitted to monopolize the polka-dot output of captive mines.

The same cul-de-sac occurred in the twitching 20s when the graphs of the industrial fever charts threw a loop on the inevitable. The book of the month was no better by the week.

These symptoms of compounding the details are indications of the healthy acquisitiveness of the farmer who only wanted the land that adjoined his.

The grass is always greener in the other fellow's yard.

Measure Of Good

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz took an acquaintance on a tour of a Brooklyn jail the other day, stopped in front of a cell in which sat a young hoodlum, and loudly berated the prisoner.

The acquaintance winced when the judge, who is a kindly man with a priceless talent for dealing with the criminal aspects of today's youth, roared.

". . . And if I have to send you away again you won't get two weeks, I'll give you 20 years!"

For Leibowitz, born in Romania, brought here at 2, graduate of the Brooklyn school systems and of Cornell, world-famous criminal lawyer before he was elevated to the bench 14 years ago, this boy needed such a dire warning.

Each hood who has faced him—in increasing numbers in recent years — looks different to Judge Leibowitz. Some plainly must be taken home for dinner. Some obviously must be put away and the key melted.

A young tough, being sentenced by Leibowitz, once spit at him, called him names that even he, an old Brooklyn Dodger fan, had never heard before. The boy swore, "I'll be out in three months and I'm going to get you."

Today, some years later, the man is a decent member of society. His years in prison were, in his own words, his only salvation. So, too, was he helped by the counsel of the only constant visitor he had during his stretch — the man he promised to destroy, Judge Leibowitz.

"I would truly hesitate to attempt to calculate the measure of good which you have accomplished," J. Edgar Hoover wrote Leibowitz last year.

So would millions.

With a minimum of fanfare, certainly less than that attending the surge of the Indians and Giants toward their baseball pennants, we truly entered the atomic. age.

The school boy of the autumn of 2054 A.D. will recall, far better than we do today, that exactly a century before the almost incredible Eisenhower plan to share the atom was implemented. With great justification the first two beneficiaries of the plan (if beneficiary is quite the word) were Canada and Belgium. We would be a fifth rate power today if it were not for the uranium of Canada and the Belgian Congo which we were able to secure after the findings in 1939 by Hahn, Strassman and Meitner — and the subsequent work of Fermi, Szilard, Wigner and others — made it plain that possession of uranium could mean retention of freedom.

Canada's El Dorado mines and the Congo's fabulous Shinkolobwe mine made possible Oak Ridge, Tenn., Los Alamos, N.M., Hanford, Wash., and the historic "pile" in the squash courts at the University of Chicago — where it was first proved that a chain reaction could be sustained and controlled.

Our debt to Canada and Belgium will in time be remembered with our post-revolutionary war debt to France. Each bravely involved our independence.

Some random memories of a bygone summer:

The first real comprehension of what the devils of nature — in this case deceptively named Carol and Edna — can mean to a property owner . . . The controlled brimstone of the film "On the Waterfront," wonderfully snatched from Malcolm Johnson's Pulitzer prize-winning newspaper pieces. . .

The loving care which Stefan Lorant lavished on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln" (McGraw-Hill), a book every child should have. . . The thrill of seeing a kid win a swimming title. . . And the treasure of hearing a smaller one — the little girl — confide to a friend, "He danced with me two times. I don't know anything about him except that his last name is Ted."

Researchers Studying Blindness In Premature Babies

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Since 1942 there has been an alarming increase in blindness among our smaller premature infants. This distressing situation, due to retrolental fibroplasia, was noted initially in the larger medical centers of Boston, New York, and Chicago, where all premature babies were receiving recognized modern incubator treatment.

These new procedures were saving more lives and, with meticulous care, tiny babies who never would have survived were given an equal chance to live. But with the good came the bad and some parents wonder if the penalty for improving on nature is worth the gains made.

In RF, as the eye condition is known, vision is blocked by a membrane that forms behind the lens. But the condition is not always serious; sight returns in 75 per cent of the affected eyes. The remainder progress, usually to blindness.

Meanwhile, the cause of RF has escaped detection. We know for certain the parents are not to blame. Extensive research has demonstrated that the disorder is no more prevalent in the offspring of older parents than in children of younger couples. Blood incompatibility, such as the Rh factor, does not enter the picture. The same can be said of the medicines or the care received by the mother prior to confinement. Infections or other illnesses during pregnancy are unlikely causes.

RF is no more or less common in babies who are fed cow's milk rather than breast milk or in those who were given a transfusion. Vitamin deficiencies looked promising as causes when the number of cases in certain institutions was reduced after the administration of vitamins. But later studies failed to substantiate these findings and the theory fell by the wayside.

The use of oxygen is the current lead. The retina needs more oxygen than other organs of the body and usually becomes congested when it fails to receive its quota. But too little or too much may be a factor in the development of retrolental fibroplasia and as a result, when a "preemie" is placed in an incubator, a careful check of the oxygen concentration is made periodically.

The price picture continues on an even keel, with fewer fluctuations perhaps than at any period in a decade. Wages continue the slight upward trend that has been the pattern for more than a year, but prices of commodities and manufactured goods no longer follow upward.

Predictions from Detroit are that the automobile industry as a whole will continue present prices, with neither reductions nor increases of consequence. Improvements in new models, which in some instances will add to manufacturing costs, will be largely absorbed by the manufacturers.

But the long-sustained upward trend of the stock market—with only occasional and short-lived declines—is regarded by many financial experts as an indication that when and if the present level of prices generally is abandoned, the new trend will be up, not down. A downward trend is not possible unless wages are lowered, they contend, and lower wages do not seem to be in the picture of the immediate future.

Coffee prices have sagged somewhat, but no significance is attached to this development. Coffee prices had doubled in a few months because of a crop shortage and Brazilian governmental action. The present adjustment of prices is regarded as a natural aftermath of the rapid increase in coffee quotations.

What most economists predict is continued price stability between now and January 1, with only slight and scattered exceptions to the general pattern.

These Days

Retaliation

Four ways are open to the United States:

1. To accept the initiative for war on the assumption that the country that strikes first will have the greatest advantage;

2. To wait until we are hit and then to retaliate in full force;

3. A continuation of conferences with the object of delaying a shooting war as long as possible in the hope that something will happen—anything will happen—which will so weaken the Soviet Universal State that the necessity for war will have passed its historic moment;

4. Total isolation without any attempt at meeting the pressing international problems.

Dean Acheson adds to these a fifth possibility, namely, the maintenance of a balance of power. These are his words:

"So it became increasingly plain as our third post-war debate on foreign policy in half a century went on that the United States was, and must remain, in and of the world, and that coexistence of the victors and the maintenance of peace demanded the re-creation of a balancing power to the power of the Soviet system . . ."

The historic error in the Acheson thesis is that he disregards the fact that the United States is the target for destruction by the Soviet Universal State. Great Britain can attempt to maintain the balance of power because it stands between the United States and Soviet Russia. As a matter of fact, Great Britain has accepted that role and thus has, in reality, become a neutral power which was fully evident at Geneva. Great Britain is assumed by Nationalist China to have prevented Formosa, the Republic of Korea and Japan from being invited to attend the Manila Conference where they rightly belonged.

The way is not open for the United States to attempt to maintain a balance of power because it is the United States which is the principal objective enemy of the Soviet world. In a word, Dean Acheson's concept fits the year 1947 but not 1954. In 1948, the Soviet Universal State was moving in the direction of consolidating its power in China and Germany and the United States was building a coalition in Western Europe which became NATO and sought to build a European Defense Community by treaty. The United States has been defeated in these efforts, principally by Great Britain and France and by its own military failure in Korea.

Let us now analyze the ways that are open to this country. To take the initiative for war is offensive to American public opinion and although the President can by-pass the constitutional authority of Congress, as President Truman did in the Korean War, it is doubtful whether President Eisenhower would do anything of the sort. Therefore, the method of retaliation is really the first one open to this country.

But the method of retaliation requires a fixed policy, a demarcation on a map of the American sphere of authority beyond which the Soviet Universal State may not move a toe without the peril of retaliation. The United States has no such fixed policy. I. it the river Elbe in Europe? Is it the 17th Parallel in Indochina? Is it the 88th Parallel in Korea? Is it 12 miles off the China Coast? Is it the line of islands running from Japan, through Formosa, the Pescadores, the Philippines, to Australia and New Zealand?

The original "containment policy" of Harry Truman was vitiated by the Korean and Indochina wars although Soviet Russia moved no further in Europe except by the process of infiltration. But to Soviet Russia, infiltration is a weapon of war. The Communist parties of France and Italy are Russian parties, directed by the Kremlin. Ruth Fischer, once one of the top leaders of the German Communist party, in her book, "Stalin and German Communism," establishes beyond doubt the breakdown of independent national Communist parties and their incorporation in the Russian state system as instruments of infiltration. Earl Browder was thrown out of the American Communist party because he insisted that it be an American, not a Russian, party.

The "containment policy" ignored infiltration as a method of war and therefore was inadequate. The "retaliation policy" comes closer to reality but can only be tested by use—and use of it would be a fighting war on a universal scale. Nevertheless, it would be a safer guide for the United States if it were clear that there is a point beyond which we shall retaliate.

The Hesitant Stag Line

Most Drastic Cuts In Budget History For Next Year Ordered By President

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — One of the toughest letters in Budget Bureau history has been sent to every member of the Eisenhower cabinet, ordering further cuts for the fiscal year 1955-56.

This column has been able to obtain a copy of the highly secret and important document, which as far as the American public is concerned means two things:

1. Eisenhower means business when he says he is determined to proceed with his attempt to balance the budget despite advice from some on his staff that it may lead to recession;

2 There will be less government spending and less easy money next year.

The sternly worded secret budget directive warns cabinet officers to virtually wipe out all civil construction projects, which will mean rough sledding for such proposals as new school buildings and even for Eisenhower's own highway project. It will also turn thumbs down on some of the proposed Western irrigation and flood control projects so hotly debated in the recent session of Congress.

The secret directive also demands that cabinet officers apply a heavy ax to loans, mortgages, and even to the guarantee or insurance of loans. This means curtailment of loans to such organizations as Rural Electrification, Veteran Housing and the Federal Housing Administration, which hitherto has run into several hundred million dollars each year.

The secret instruction also warns cabinet members to withdraw from all projects which can be taken over by private enterprise, which hits at the Tennessee Valley Authority, Bonneville Dam, and public power projects generally.

"Progressive" Budget Pruning

Cabinet members are also instructed to plan for "progressive reduction," and begin planning this year for more long-range cuts. Regarding next year's cuts, they must submit their ideas to the budget director by today.

Finally, they are instructed to begin holding out as much current money as possible from expenditure during the second half of the present fiscal year. This begins January 1, and will not affect any government spending during the present election campaign.

Because of the importance of the drastic budget order, this writer is publishing it in full, except for the name of the particular cabinet officer to whom this particular letter was sent. Also omitted is one paragraph pertaining to the amount of money this particular department was instructed to cut. To reveal the amount would reveal the identity of the department.

The order is in two forms—a letter to cabinet officers and a memo which is attached. The letter follows:

"Executive Office of the President
Bureau of the Budget
Washington 25

"My Dear (name of cabinet officer):

"The budget results for the fiscal year just ended show the progress made thus far in reaching the budgetary objectives of this administration — fiscal soundness, military and economic strength, and the increased welfare of the country.

"1. Expenditures, new obligational authority, and the budget deficit were reduced substantially below the levels of the fiscal year 1953 and below the levels planned for 1954 in the budget presented to Congress a few days before this administration took office.

"2. Tax reductions were put into effect which will return to the people in the first full year about $7.5 billion—which would have been taken by the government under the tax rates in existence when this administration took office.

Another Deficit Expected

"Despite these accomplishments, the administration's objective of a balanced budget at lower tax rates has not yet been attained. The fiscal year 1954 ended with a budgetary deficit, and another deficit is in prospect for 1955.

"Nevertheless, the progress made to date is encouraging. With your help it can and should be continued in the formulation of the 1956 budget—on which preliminary work is already under way. To this end, your personal direction and review of the preparation of your department's 1956 budget submission are requested. That submission should be made to the Bureau of the Budget by September 15.

"To assist you in the preparation of your fiscal year 1956 budget, the President has established the policies and assumptions set forth in the attachment. This letter and the attachment are for the guidance of your department in preparing its estimates for 1956 and are not to be released outside of the department.

"To aid you further in preparing your 1956 budget, the President has approved the ceiling set forth below as the maximum amount, consistent with the President's overall budgetary objectives, upon which your budgetary plans for 1956 may be based.

(Inserted is a paragraph on the new obligatory ceiling—a different paragraph to each cabinet officer and this paragraph, which would identify the name of the cabinet officer from which this came, is therefore omitted).

"Your budget for 1956 should cover the complete requirements of your department for the year. Estimates for suplemental appropriations for 1956 will be considered only when they are necessary because of subsequent congressional action or where the supplemental is needed because of developments which were neither foreseen nor foreseeable. The original budget submission should contain firm figures and should include all the explanations, schedules, and justifications which are required under the provisions of Budget Circular No. A-11.

"Sincerely yours,
"Director."

NOTE—Because of the length and importance of the secret budget letter, the remainder will be published tomorrow.

U. S. Not Likely To Get In Major War Over Formosa

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The American people are not expecting a war over Formosa or the Quemoy Islands—near the mainland of China—because they have never been told that an attack on Formosa is equivalent to an attack on the United States.

Somewhere in the records there's a definition of America's "defense perimeter" as being a line from Japan southward to the Philippines, without mention of Formosa. Dean Acheson, as secretary of state, described that line in a speech in January 1950. The Communists immediately assumed that he was excluding Korea, and they moved southward across the 38th Parallel in June of that year.

The present secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, has said publicly, and so has President Eisenhower, that the U. S. Seventh Fleet would defend Formosa. But all this must nevertheless come as something of a shock to the American people who have not yet been fully advised of just what the relationship is between Formosa and the use of naval forces and air power of the United States.

No Allies For U. S.

The United States Government, under the present and preceding administrations, has taken the position that it is necessary to stop the advance of the Communists in the Far East. The Chinese Nationalist government which holds Formosa is the legally recognized Chinese government so far as the United States is concerned, and hence any military action taken in defense of Formosa is the direct result of a request made to Washington by the constituted government. Under international law such military intervention is justified because a sovereign government is thereby consenting to the entry of foreign forces to assist in maintaining its position.

But Great Britain and other countries which have recognized the Red China government at Peiping are committed to recognize Formosa as really a part of the territory of the Communists, even though the latter do not hold it. If America, therefore, engages in any military operations in defense of Formosa or the Quemoy Islands, there will be no allies as was the case when Britain and France and other governments joined with the United States in Korea. This was an operation under the auspices of the United Nations.

When the problem of assisting the French government in Indochina was under consideration last spring, the United States Government made it clear that it would not intervene except with the consent and active military cooperation of the various governments concerned, including Great Britain and some Southeast Asian governments. It was further stated that no U. S. military action would be undertaken except after the President had submitted the matter to Congress.

Policies Reaffirmed

Is it, therefore, contemplated now that military action will be taken by the United States forces in defense of Formosa or the Quemoy Islands or both without submitting the matter to Congress? Plainly, if Formosa is an integral part of the United States strategic area, there might be a different story to tell. But President Eisenhower at Denver says he is reaffirming certain policies in the Western Pacific and he adds:

"These are, of course, to defend the vital interests of the United States wherever they may arise, to make better partners of old friends, and to get new friends wherever we can. And, of course, where our vital interests demand it, to support them in their security and in their own interests."

Does this mean America will go to war over Formosa? If it does, the American people have not been told that fact explicitly.

Does it mean that American military forces will take such action as may lead toward a larger military involvement? If so, there is no hint that American public opinion is ready for such a crisis.

Unfortunately, the Communists know all this, too. So it's quite possible they may miscalculate and a major crisis may be in the offing, with another retreat possible when the chips are down and the issue arises as to whether to risk a major war in the Far East. Having drawn away from it in Korea and in Indochina, the likelihood is that America will not become involved in a major war over Formosa either.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Takes us backward a couple of dog licenses to read the attorney general is again investigating merger in the first degree.

Department of Justice states the over-age gangs of Wall Street are on the consolidatory prowl They are not eating their young. He's eating them. And the Wolfson is at the door.

Once again Washington stalls while banking hours flicker and flutter. Not since the twitching 20s has everything been at odlums and ends.

Choose any name off a glass door and multiply it by curiosity. Add several small companies and stir for two directors' meeting. Sweeten with proxies and serve under the table.

A merger milks the dormant potentials of industrial dynasties by boosting the take-home pay in armored cars. It regiments the veepees of two organizations in accrued echelon while firing one bookkeeper.

What justice ferrets loose is monopoly of catalogued accessories in the upper brackets. We prefer diffused activity between the bee-tree and the manufacturers of high button shoes. If we permit industrial cannibalism the small manufacturer would be absorbed like gravy on bread.

The attorney general approves of go-gettiveness and character building with capital gains. There is no objection to vertical merging between the manufacturers of bottomless rowboats and the organizers of flooded basements.

What it seeks to prevent is a monopoly of buggy whips and concentrations of imperative ingredients of essentials. No corporations controlling sponge rubber cornerstones can be permitted to monopolize the polka-dot output of captive mines.

The same cul-de-sac occurred in the twitching 20s when the graphs of the industrial fever charts threw a loop on the inevitable. The book of the month was no better by the week.

These symptoms of compounding the details are indications of the healthy acquisitiveness of the farmer who only wanted the land that adjoined his.

The grass is always greener in the other fellow's yard.

Measure Of Good

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK (INS) — Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz took an acquaintance on a tour of a Brooklyn jail the other day, stopped in front of a cell in which sat a young hoodlum, and loudly berated the prisoner.

The acquaintance winced when the judge, who is a kindly man with a priceless talent for dealing with the criminal aspects of today's youth, roared.

". . . And if I have to send you away again you won't get two weeks, I'll give you 20 years!"

For Leibowitz, born in Romania, brought here at 2, graduate of the Brooklyn school systems and of Cornell, world-famous criminal lawyer before he was elevated to the bench 14 years ago, this boy needed such a dire warning.

Each hood who has faced him—in increasing numbers in recent years — looks different to Judge Leibowitz. Some plainly must be taken home for dinner. Some obviously must be put away and the key melted.

A young tough, being sentenced by Leibowitz, once spit at him, called him names that even he, an old Brooklyn Dodger fan, had never heard before. The boy swore, "I'll be out in three months and I'm going to get you."

Today, some years later, the man is a decent member of society. His years in prison were, in his own words, his only salvation. So, too, was he helped by the counsel of the only constant visitor he had during his stretch — the man he promised to destroy, Judge Leibowitz.

"I would truly hesitate to attempt to calculate the measure of good which you have accomplished," J. Edgar Hoover wrote Leibowitz last year.

So would millions.

With a minimum of fanfare, certainly less than that attending the surge of the Indians and Giants toward their baseball pennants, we truly entered the atomic age.

The school boy of the autumn of 2054 A.D. will recall, far better than we do today, that exactly a century before the almost incredible Eisenhower plan to share the atom was implemented. With great justification the first two beneficiaries of the plan (if beneficiary is quite the word) were Canada and Belgium. We would be a fifth rate power today if it were not for the uranium of Canada and the Belgian Congo which we were able to secure after the findings in 1939 by Hahn, Strassman and Meitner — and the subsequent work of Fermi, Szilard, Wigner and others — made it plain that possession of uranium could mean retention of freedom.

Canada's El Dorado mines and the Congo's fabulous Shinkolobwe mine made possible Oak Ridge, Tenn., Los Alamos, N.M., Hanford, Wash., and the historic "pile" in the squash courts at the University of Chicago — where it was first proved that a chain reaction could be sustained and controlled.

Our debt to Canada and Belgium will in time be remembered with our post-revolutionary war debt to France. Each bravely involved our independence.

Some random memories of a bygone summer:

The first real comprehension of what the devils of nature — in this case deceptively named Carol and Edna — can mean to a property owner . . . The controlled brimstone of the film "On the Waterfront," wonderfully snatched from Malcolm Johnson's Pulitzer prize-winning newspaper pieces. . .

The loving care which Stefan Lorant lavished on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln" (McGraw-Hill), a book every child should have. . . The thrill of seeing a kid win a swimming title. . . And the treasure of hearing a smaller one — the little girl — confide to a friend, "He danced with me two times. I don't know anything about him except that his last name is Ted."

Researchers Studying Blindness In Premature Babies

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Since 1942 there has been an alarming increase in blindness among our smaller premature infants. This distressing situation, due to retrolental fibroplasia, was noted initially in the larger medical centers of Boston, New York, and Chicago, where all premature babies were receiving recognized modern incubator treatment.

These new procedures were saving more lives and, with meticulous care, tiny babies who never would have survived were given an equal chance to live. But with the good came the bad and some parents wonder if the penalty for improving on nature is worth the gains made.

Council Calls Public Meeting Tonight

FROSTBURG—The Mayor and City Commissioners will hold a special meeting this evening at 7:30 o'clock, to consider a petition presented Monday evening requesting the paving of Washington Street from Sleeman Street to Beall High School.

The petition was signed by Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Gattens, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blair.

The petitioners complained that the lack of hard-surfacing on the street resulted in inconvenience on account of the mud in wet weather and dust in dry weather. The petition provided that paving could be done with or without curbing.

The Mayor and City Commissioners passed an ordinance Monday evening providing for the paving of Mechanic Street from a point beginning at 60 West Mechanic Street and extending to Bowery Street.

An effort will be made to have work on both paving jobs started as early as possible providing an agreement is reached with the property owners to pay their share of the work. All street paving and repaving jobs are done at one third of the cost to the city and two thirds to the property owners on both sides of the street.

Local Telephone Office Announces Rate Increases

New schedules of telephone rates, effective with bills rendered on and after October 1 in Cumberland, Frostburg, and Mt. Savage have been announced by C. W. Haschert Jr., manager of the Cumberland branch of the C&P Telephone Company.

The average phone bill will increase about 30 cents a month, and phone users in the three communities will have unlimited calling with toll charges.

To meet expressed public demands, Haschert said, the following monthly rates for Cumberland will include unlimited calling to Frostburg beginning October 1 and to Mt. Savage beginning October 16, as well as Flintstone, Ridgeley and State Line telephones:

Cumberland	Residence	Business
Individual ..	$5.30	$10.00
Two-party ..	$4.55	$ 8.25
Four-party ..	$4.05	--
Rural	$4.30	$ 5.75

Individual ..	$6.05	$11.00
Two-party ..	$5.05	$ 9.00
Four-party ..	$4.30	--
Rural	--	--

In addition to widening the Cumberland local calling area to include Frostburg and Mt. Savage, a further advantage to many customers is the enlargement made by the company of the area in which basic rates apply. This will result in offsetting decreases in monthly charges in a number of cases.

Frostburg Rates	Residence	Business
Individual ...	$5.30	$10.00
Two-party ..	$4.55	$ 8.25
Four-party ..	$4.05	--
Rural	$4.30	$ 5.75

The following monthly rates for Mt. Savage, including calls to Cumberland and Frostburg telephones as well as Wellersburg will be effective Otcober 16:

	Residence	Business

Two-party ...	$4.55	$ 8.25
Four-party ..	$4.05	--
Rural	$4.30	$ 5.75

An upward adjustment has also been made in the monthly charge for business extension telephones.

Haschert emphasized that in the future, as in the past, efforts will be continued to improve the speed and quality of service. He pointed out that service has been extended to the Bittinger area; extensions of cable and wire are being made to Little Orleans in the Flintstone exchange and a major project is under way in Cumberland to change to dial operation.

Local Telephone Office Announces Rate Increases

New schedules of telephone rates, effective with bills rendered on and after October 1 in Cumberland, Frostburg, and Mt. Savage have been announced by C. W. Haschert Jr., manager of the Cumberland branch of the C&P Telephone Company.

The average phone bill will increase about 30 cents a month, and phone users in the three communities will have unlimited calling with toll charges.

To meet expressed public demands, Haschert said, the following monthly rates for Cumberland will include unlimited calling to Frostburg beginning October 1 and to Mt. Savage beginning October 16, as well as Flintstone, Ridgeley and State Line telephones:

Cumberland	Residence	Business
Individual ..	$5.30	$10.00
Two-party ..	$4.55	$ 8.25
Four-party ..	$4.05	--
Rural	$4.30	$ 5.75

LaVale and Cresaptown	Residence	Business
Individual ..	$6.05	$11.00
Two-party ..	$5.05	$ 9.00
Four-party ..	$4.30	--
Rural	--	--

In addition to widening the Cumberland local calling area to include Frostburg and Mt. Savage, a further advantage to many customers is the enlargement made by the company of the area in which basic rates apply. This will result in offsetting decreases in monthly charges in a number of cases.

Frostburg Rates	Residence	Business
Individual ...	$5.30	$10.00
Two-party ..	$4.55	$ 8.25
Four-party ..	$4.05	--
Rural	$4.30	$ 5.75

The following monthly rates for Mt. Savage, including calls to Cumberland and Frostburg telephones as well as Wellersburg will be effective Otcober 16:

	Residence	Business
Individual ..	$5.30	$10.00
Two-party ...	$4.55	$ 8.25
Four-party ..	$4.05	--
Rural	$4.30	$ 5.75

An upward adjustment has also been made in the monthly charge for business extension telephones.

Haschert emphasized that in the future, as in the past, efforts will be continued to improve the speed and quality of service. He pointed out that service has been extended to the Bittinger area; extensions of cable and wire are being made to Little Orleans in the Flintstone exchange and a major project is under way in Cumberland to change to dial operation.

Richards Quits Chisox To "Run Whole Show" For Orioles

Marty Marion Is New Pilot Of Pale Hose

Richards To Become General Manager, Also Boss Team On Field

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP) — Paul Richards quit as manager of the Chicago White Sox today to "run the whole show" for the Baltimore Orioles and was immediately replaced in the Sox job by Coach Marty Marion.

Marion, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns, will finish out the season and accept a one-year contract to manage the Sox in 1955, General Manager Frank Lane announced.

Richards said he has accepted terms to become "general manager" at Baltimore, although he fenced with reporters when asked if he would serve as field manager as well as general manager of the Orioles.

This was in contrast to a statement at Baltimore by Oriole President Clarence W. Miles that Richards already has signed a 3-year contract and definitely will direct the Orioles on the field, replacing current manager Jimmy Dykes.

"Just say that we agreed, it's all set," said Richards.

Will Sign Sept. 24

Richards indicated he would formally sign with Baltimore Sept. 24 when he meets Oriole officials in that city.

"What I do (at Baltimore) will be for the best interests of the club," Richards said when asked to clarify the Baltimore report his job was a combination of general manager and field manager.

Miles was quoted at Baltimore saying:

"Richards has signed a 3-year contract with the Orioles as general manager in charge of all player personnel and player transactions as well as in the capacity of field manager of the team.

"He will be relieved of the administrative functions usually undertaken by a general manager in order that his entire time, energy and talents may be concentrated on the task of rebuilding the Orioles and directing the club on the field."

Miles said it would be up to Richards, who had been given permission by the White Sox to negotiate with Baltimore on the job of general manager, to decide whether Dykes and General Manager Art Ehlers would remain with Baltimore in other capacities.

Marion, 37, was a Sox coach this year after his release as manager of the Browns when that club switched to Baltimore from St. Louis.

"Slats" To Sign For Year

Marion directed the Cardinals in 1951 to third place in the National League after a brilliant career with the club as shortstop. He led the Browns from mid-season of 1952 through 1953.

Marion was offered his choice of a straight salary or a contract pegged on attendance for 1955, Lane announced. Lane said that Marion requested only a one year contract. He is expected to sign soon.

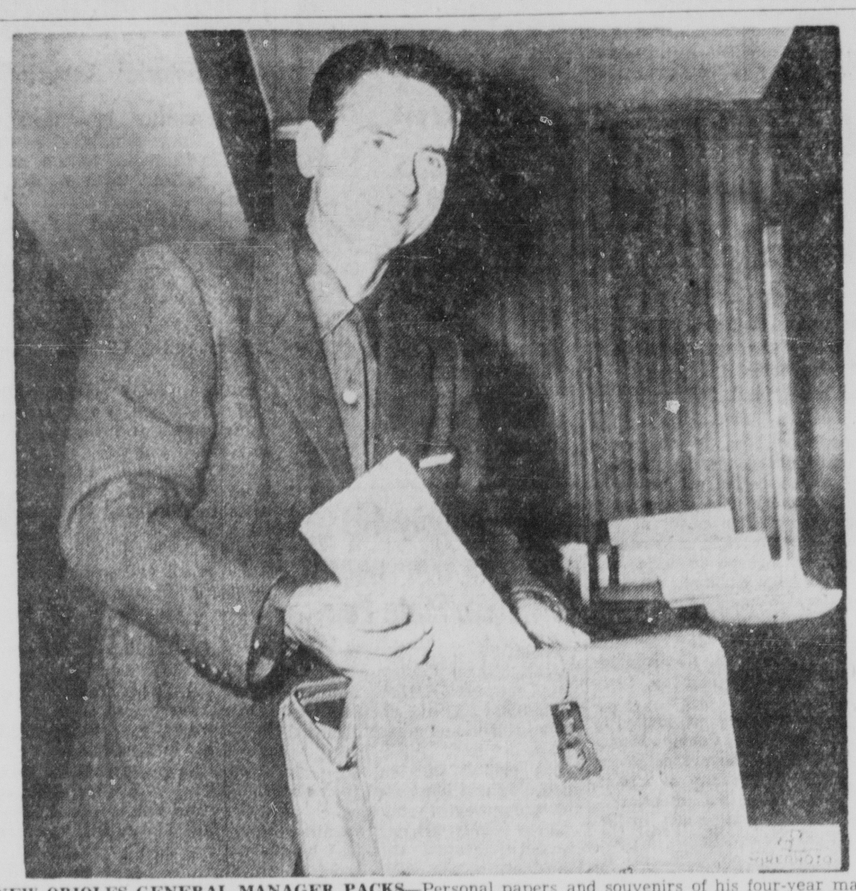
Richards, who came to the White Sox in 1951, was working on a two-year contract expiring at the end of this season. His 1951 Sox finished fourth. In 1952 and 1953 the Sox wound up third.

Richards said it wasn't a question of money which prompted him to take the Baltimore job. He said he turned down the offer of another two-year Sox contract only because of "the opportunities a position of general manager offers."

Made $10,000 Extra

Richards reportedly was working on a flat $25,000 annual salary, plus five cents for every admission over one million. That meant some $10,000 extra this year. The new Sox offer was believed to be the same base salary, but 5½ cents for every admission over 900,000 for the season. Richards' Baltimore contract is said to call for $50,000 for three years.

Comiskey said the matter of money never entered the discussions surrounding Richards' decision to move to Baltimore.



NEW ORIOLES GENERAL MANAGER PACKS—Personal papers and souvenirs of his four-year managership of the Chicago White Sox are packed by Paul Richards after he became general manager of the Baltimore Orioles yesterday. Richards was succeeded at Chicago by Marty Marion, once known as "Mr. Octopus" when he played shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The little 27-year-old belter has piled up 408 5-12 points in Ryder Cup competition over the season, leading Tommy Bolt with 373 2-3 and Cary Middlecoff with 338 3-4.

UCLA Is Rated As Best Team On West Coast

Bears And Trojans Could Upset Dope

This is the fifth in a series of sectional college football previews. Today: The Far West.

BY RONALD GOBEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14 (INS)—Four of the best Pacific Coast Conference football teams in the post-World War II era will make a bid this fall to restore much of the prestige shattered by repeated Rose Bowl losses to the big ten.

The four teams, each capable of winning the conference and each capable of national ranking, are UCLA, California, Southern California and Oregon. They are expected to finish in that order, but it could be just the other way around.

Defending champion UCLA has 22 lettermen, seven from the starting eleven that lost only to Stanford during the regular season last year. Coach Red Sanders has lost brilliant Paul Cameron in the key tailback spot, but Primo Villaneuva was second only to the All-American Cameron last year.

Paul Larson, an unorthodox but spectacular quarterback, is the key to a California offense that could take the Bears to the Rose Bowl even if UCLA repeats as PCC champion. UCLA is ineligible to return to the Pasadena classic next January.

Trojans Are Talented

Southern California is inexperienced but enormously talented. The Trojans have the fastest backfield in the conference, and a solid, rugged line. Coach Jess Hill is relying on sophomores like Jon Arnett who is pressing veteran Aramis Dondoy for left half back.

Oregon lost five conference games last year, but only UCLA beat the Ducks by more than one touchdown. The Webfeet have a great quarterback and leader in George Shaw. The big problem is a lack of reserves.

Even Stanford, riddled by graduation of Bobby Garrett and 15 other lettermen from last year's famed aerial circus, can't be counted out.

Washington will feature an attack built around southpaw passer Sandy Lederman. Washington State returns a good supply of lettermen—23—but is hampered by a lack of a good backfield. Oregon State will rely on untried sophomores, and Idaho figures to be the conference doormat once more.

Wyoming Rated Tops

In the Rocky Mountains region Wyoming University's Cowpokes stand out as the target for the other seven teams of the Skyline Conference.

The rest of the standings in the Skyline are expected to shape up with last year's loop champion, Utah University, Utah State, and the New Mexico Lobos fighting for second place. Denver University, Colorado A & M, Brigham Young and Montana U. probably will end up in the second division.

The Wyoming team, armed with backfield star Joe Mastrogiovanni and good depth in all positions, rates as best qualified to unseat the Utah Redskins. Coach Phil Dickens switched Mastrogiovanni, a Brooklyn native, from halfback to quarterback to take advantage of his passing arm.

Lynn Beightol To Miss Terps' First Contest

Knee Injury May Keep Him Idle Indefinitely

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Preparing Maryland for its opening football game Saturday at Kentucky "is the biggest problem I've ever had," Coach Jim Tatum said today.

What has Tatum "completely baffled" is the kind of game Kentucky is likely to play under its new coach, Blanton Collier.

Collier went to his first college football coaching from the professional Cleveland Browns to replace Paul Bryant. Tatum assumed Collier would give the Kentucky squad the Browns' style of play since "he came from a very successful club."

But Tatum scouts at Kentucky's end of last spring's practice reported the style "was absolutely the opposite of everything—offense and defense—done by Paul Brown. It was almost a photogrraph of a Bryant game last season."

Hard Game To Figure

Trying to guess now whether Collier will stick to the Bryant style or have put in his own since Sept. 1 makes Tatum call this "his hardest game to work" in eight seasons at Maryland.

"I don't know a thing to go on," he worried. "It's the most unprepared I've ever been. I never prepared for a game before that I didn't have a definite feeling the other team was going to use a certain offense or defense."

Adding to Tatum's concern is a report he said Bryant gave him last year after he quit. Bryant told Tatum he was leaving behind the best 75 football players he ever had.

This leads Tatum to suspect that perhaps Collier will go along the Bryant system and players "for his first season anyway because it was so successful last year." After losing its first two games in 1953, Kentucky won seven and tied the other.

Coach Tatum had plenty to worry about looking at his own squad, too. A knee injury has laid low Lynn Beightol, second string quarterback from Cumberland, and a twisted ankle makes a question mark out of Dick Bielski, first string fullback from Baltimore.

George Albrecht is Bielski's first replacement.

Lee Figures In Plans

Frank Tamburello, Baltimore sophomore, has moved up behind Charley Boxold at quarterback to replace Beightol whose inactivity may prove indefinite. Fred Lee, a newcomer after two years at Potomac State Junior College, has been pushed ahead to third string quarterback.

Also out of action with an injured knee is Ralph Hawkins, another sophomore quarterback from Washington. Before the injuries to Hawkins and Beightol, Coach Tatum said he had planned to move Hawkins and Lee to halfback to bolster that corps which he described as "awfully brittle."

Women Shufflers To Meet Tonight

Officers will be elected and plans formulated for the 1954-55 season at a meeting of the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Woodmen of the World Home.

Ten teams were in the league last season and several new clubs are reported seeking berths for the coming campaign.

Baltimore Fans To Honor Dykes

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—It will be "Jimmy Dykes Night" at Memorial Stadium tomorrow.

Friends of the Oriole manager will honor him with gifts and presumably nice words before the game with the Boston Red Sox.

Today, Dykes got official word that he was being replaced by Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox.

Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie Wins Point Tourney

Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie won the point tournament held yesterday by the Women's Golf Association at the Cumberland Country Club. The winner topped a field of 35 players with 31 points.

Richards Quits Chisox To "Run Whole Show" For Orioles

Marty Marion Is New Pilot Of Pale Hose

Richards To Become General Manager, Also Boss Team On Field

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP) — Paul Richards quit as manager of the Chicago White Sox today to "run the whole show" for the Baltimore Orioles and was immediately replaced in the Sox job by Coach Marty Marion.

Marion, former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns, will finish out the season and accept a one-year contract to manage the Sox in 1955, General Manager Frank Lane announced.

Richards said he has accepted terms to become "general manager" at Baltimore, although he fenced with reporters when asked if he would serve as field manager as well as general manager of the Orioles.

This was in contrast to a statement at Baltimore by Oriole President Clarence W. Miles that Richards already has signed a 3-year contract and definitely will direct the Orioles on the field, replacing current manager Jimmy Dykes.

"Just say that we agreed, it's all set," said Richards.

Will Sign Sept. 24

Richards indicated he would formally sign with Baltimore Sept. 24 when he meets Oriole officials in that city.

"What I do (at Baltimore) will be for the best interests of the club," Richards said when asked to clarify the Baltimore report his job was a combination of general manager and field manager.

Miles was quoted at Baltimore saying:

"Richards has signed a 3-year contract with the Orioles as general manager in charge of all player personnel and player transactions as well as in the capacity of field manager of the team.

"He will be relieved of the administrative functions usually undertaken by a general manager in order that his entire time, energy and talents may be concentrated on the task of rebuilding the Orioles and directing the club on the field."

Miles said it would be up to Richards, who had been given permission by the White Sox to negotiate with Baltimore on the job of general manager, to decide whether Dykes and General Manager Art Ehlers would remain with Baltimore in other capacities.

Marion, 37, was a Sox coach this year after his release as manager of the Browns when that club switched to Baltimore from St. Louis.

"Slats" To Sign For Year

Marion directed the Cardinals in 1951 to third place in the National League after a brilliant career with the club as shortstop. He led the Browns from mid-season of 1952 through 1953.

Marion was offered his choice of a straight salary or a contract pegged on attendance for 1955, Lane announced. Lane said that Marion requested only a one year contract. He is expected to sign soon.

Richards, who came to the White Sox in 1951, was working on a two-year contract expiring at the end of this season. His 1951 Sox finished fourth. In 1952 and 1953 the Sox wound up third.

Richards said it wasn't a question of money which prompted him to take the Baltimore job. He said he turned down the offer of another two-year Sox contract only because of "the opportunities a position of general manager offers."

Made $10,000 Extra

Richards reportedly was working on a flat $25,000 annual salary, plus five cents for every admission over one million. That meant some $10,000 extra this year. The new Sox offer was believed to be the same base salary, but 5½ cents for every admission over 900,000 for the season. Richards' Baltimore contract is said to call for $50,000 for three years.

Comiskey said the matter of money never entered the discussions surrounding Richards' decision to move to Baltimore.

NEW ORIOLES GENERAL MANAGER PACKS—Personal papers and souvenirs of his four-year managership of the Chicago White Sox are packed by Paul Richards after he became general manager of the Baltimore Orioles yesterday. Richards was succeeded at Chicago by Marty Marion, once known as "Mr. Octopus" when he played shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bob Toski Tops Money Winners

Earnings $65,240, Holds Ryder Lead

CHICAGO, Sept. 14 (AP) — Bob Toski, from Livingston, N. J., has cinched the 1954 PGA money-winning crown and also has moved into the Ryder Cup lead.

The official PGA statistics chart today showed Toski with earnings of $65,240 after a $50,000 boost by taking first money in the Tam O'Shanter "World" Championship last month.

The little 27-year-old belter has piled up 408 5-12 points in Ryder Cup competition over the season, leading Tommy Bolt with 373 2-3 and Cary Middlecoff with 338 3-4.

Doug Ford tops the Vardon Trophy leaders with an average of 70.23 strokes in 48 competitive rounds. Dutch Harrison is second with 70.32 in 63. Toski is not among the first six in this department, having a 70.90 average in 82 rounds.

Jack Burke Jr. is second to Toski on the money-winning list with $19,563. Less than $9,000 separates the second and 20th money-winners.

UCLA Is Rated As Best Team On West Coast

Bears And Trojans Could Upset Dope

This is the fifth in a series of sectional college football previews. Today: The Far West.

BY RONALD GOBEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14 (INS)—Four of the best Pacific Coast Conference football teams in the post-World War II era will make a bid this fall to restore much of the prestige shattered by repeated Rose Bowl losses to the big ten.

The four teams, each capable of winning the conference and each capable of national ranking, are UCLA, California, Southern California and Oregon. They are expected to finish in that order, but it could be just the other way around.

Defending champion UCLA has 22 lettermen, seven from the starting eleven that lost only to Stanford during the regular season last year. Coach Red Sanders has lost brilliant Paul Cameron in the key tailback spot, but Primo Villaneuva was second only to the All-American Cameron last year.

Paul Larson, an unorthodox but spectacular quarterback, is the key to a California offense that could take the Bears to the Rose Bowl even if UCLA repeats as PCC champion. UCLA is ineligible to return to the Pasadena classic next January.

Trojans Are Talented

Southern California is inexperienced but enormously talented. The Trojans have the fastest backfield in the conference, and a solid, rugged line. Coach Jess Hill is relying on sophomores like Jon Arnett who is pressing veteran Aramis Dondoy for left half back.

Oregon lost five conference games last year, but only UCLA beat the Ducks by more than one touchdown. The Webfeet have a great quarterback and leader in George Shaw. The big problem is a lack of reserves.

Even Stanford, riddled by graduation of Bobby Garrett and 15 other lettermen from last year's famed aerial circus, can't be counted out.

Washington will feature an attack built around southpaw passer Sandy Lederman. Washington State returns a good supply of lettermen—23—but is hampered by a lack of a good backfield. Oregon State will rely on untried sophomores, and Idaho figures to be the conference doormat once more.

Wyoming Rated Tops

In the Rocky Mountains region Wyoming University's Cowpokes stand out as the target for the other seven teams of the Skyline Conference.

The rest of the standings in the Skyline are expected to shape up with last year's loop champion, Utah University, Utah State, and the New Mexico Lobos fighting for second place. Denver University, Colorado A & M, Brigham Young and Montana U. probably will end up in the second division.

The Wyoming team, armed with backfield star Joe Mastrogiovanni and good depth in all positions, rates as best qualified to unseat the Utah Redskins. Coach Phil Dickens switched Mastrogiovanni, a Brooklyn native, from halfback to quarterback to take advantage of his passing arm.

Approximately one in every six United States business places is automotive.

Lynn Beightol To Miss Terps' First Contest

Knee Injury May Keep Him Idle Indefinitely

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Preparing Maryland for its opening football game Saturday at Kentucky "is the biggest problem I've ever had," Coach Jim Tatum said today.

What has Tatum "completely baffled" is the kind of game Kentucky is likely to play under its new coach, Blanton Collier.

Collier went to his first college football coaching from the professional Cleveland Browns to replace Paul Bryant. Tatum assumed Collier would give the Kentucky squad the Browns' style of play since "he came from a very successful club."

But Tatum scouts at Kentucky's end of last spring's practice reported the style "was absolutely the opposite of everything—offense and defense—done by Paul Brown. It was almost a photogrraph of a Bryant game last season."

Hard Game To Figure

Trying to guess now whether Collier will stick to the Bryant style or have put in his own since Sept. 1 makes Tatum call this "his hardest game to work" in eight seasons at Maryland.

"I don't know a thing to go on," he worried. "It's the most unprepared I've ever been. I never prepared for a game before that I didn't have a definite feeling the other team was going to use a certain offense or defense."

Adding to Tatum's concern is a report he said Bryant gave him last year after he quit. Bryant told Tatum he was leaving behind the best 75 football players he ever had.

This leads Tatum to suspect that perhaps Collier will go along the Bryant system and players "for his first season anyway because it was so successful last year." After losing its first two games in 1953, Kentucky won seven and tied the other.

Coach Tatum had plenty to worry about looking at his own squad, too. A knee injury has laid low Lynn Beightol, second string quarterback from Cumberland, and a twisted ankle makes a question mark out of Dick Bielski, first string fullback from Baltimore.

George Albrecht is Bielski's first replacement.

Lee Figures In Plans

Frank Tamburello, Baltimore sophomore, has moved up behind Charley Boxold at quarterback to replace Beightol whose inactivity may prove indefinite. Fred Lee, a newcomer after two years at Potomac State Junior College, has been pushed ahead to third string quarterback.

Also out of action with an injured knee is Ralph Hawkins, another sophomore quarterback from Washington. Before the injuries to Hawkins and Beightol, Coach Tatum said he had planned to move Hawkins and Lee to halfback to bolster that corps which he described as "awfully brittle."

Women Shufflers To Meet Tonight

Officers will be elected and plans formulated for the 1954-55 season at a meeting of the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Woodmen of the World Home.

Ten teams were in the league last season and several new clubs are reported seeking berths for the coming campaign.

Baltimore Fans To Honor Dykes

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP)—It will be "Jimmy Dykes Night" at Memorial Stadium tomorrow.

Friends of the Oriole manager will honor him with gifts and presumably nice words before the game with the Boston Red Sox.

Today, Dykes got official word that he was being replaced by Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox.

Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie Wins Point Tourney

Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie won the point tournament held yesterday by the Women's Golf Association at the Cumberland Country Club. The winner topped a field of 35 players with 31 points.

In the finals of the championship flight, consolation round, Mrs. Erich Gronbach won over Mrs. Howard B. Wood, 8 and 7.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14 (AP) — Cleveland sprinted to within two victories of the American League pennant tonight as the Indians piled up all their runs in the first inning to beat the Washington Nationals 4-2. Mike Garcia, yielding five hits, hurled his 18th victory.

With nine games left to play this season, the Tribe stayed 8½ games ahead of the New York Yankees, who won 11-0 today in Detroit.

It was Cleveland's 105th victory of the season, against 40 losses, improving on a Tribe record that was set in 1920 when Tris Speaker's world series winners finished the season with 98 wins.

The Tribe, which finished its season with an 18-4 record against the Nats, registered all its runs in the first inning off southpaw Chuck Stobbs.

Stobbs, who suffered his 11th loss against 9 victories, was relieved in the second by young Camilo Pascual, who pitched seven innings of hitless ball, save for a hit in the third. Pascual retired the last 17 batters in order and struck out eight in seven frames.

Hal Newhouser relieved Garcia in the eighth, after the Big Bear walked two men. Ray Narleski went to the Cleveland mound in the ninth. Neither reliefer gave up any hits.

Virginia Club Beats Amvets By Score 4-0

Danleiy Yields One Hit; Central Lunch Bows To Keyser, 7-2

Ridder Motors, Inc., of Keyser, and Michelbach Furniture Company, of Alexandria, Va., marched into the semi-finals of the Cumberland Recreation Department sponsored Western Maryland Softball Tournament last night by eliminating Central Quick Lunch and the Amvets, a pair of Cumberland teams, at Penn Avenue Field.

The Keyser negro aggregation whipped Central to the tune of 7-2 while Michelbach blanked the Amvets, 4-0.

Smith Masters Central

Ray Smith, Keyser twirler, limited Central Lunch to two hits in the opening game while Ridder's hammered Ed Decker and Jack Mayo for 15 safeties, including circuit belts by Junie Perry and Harry Coleman.

Central's hits were credited to Basilio and Goss and both were singles. Smith fanned six and issued seven bases on balls.

Junie Perry and Ray Smith sparked Ridder's attack with three hits each. Perry blasted a homer and two singles and Ray Smith rapped a two-bagger and two one-base wallops. "Sonny" Smith garnered a triple and single while Ted Taylor and Frank Thompson had two singles each.

E. Price turned in several nice catches in centerfield for Keyser while Ronnie Cage, Central's centerfielder, cut down three runners with perfect throws to the plate.

Ridder's won its first round game from the Cumberland B.P.O. Elks last week by the score of 2-1.

Michelbach, winner over Perabee Lounge by the score of 12-1 in the opening round, marked up its second win in the tourney by shutting out the Amvets of the City League.

Danleiy Hurls 1-Hitter

Danleiy, Alexandria righthander, had a no-hitter going until the 6th with two away when Bob McGreevy beat out a roller to short and took second on the infielder's wild throw. It was scored as a hit and error and cheated Danleiy of a no-hit performance. The Virginian struck out the first five batters to face him and had a total of eight strikeouts for the game. He issued two bases on balls.

Michelbach scored two runs in the second and added two more tallies in the sixth.

Weinacht and Speight shared four of the winners' seven hits obtained off Glenn Kauffman.

Robinson, Cerv Star As Yanks Crush Detroit

Knock In All Runs, Morgan Winner, 11-0

DETROIT, Sept. 14 (AP)—The still proud New York Yankees, refusing to quit, crushed the Detroit Tigers 11-0 today as Ed Robinson and Bob Cerv knocked in all the runs with a display of brute, old-time Yankee power.

Thus, the magic number for the league leading Cleveland Indians remained at three, pending the Tribe's night game with the Washington Senators.

Robinson knocked in six runs with a single, double and home run while Cerv accounted for five with a pair of home runs, one a tremendous 390-foot drive into the upper centerfield bleachers.

It seemed as though the Yanks were still in the thick of the pennant battle instead of eight full games behind the Indians. They rolled up 15 hits and clipped off three crisp double plays to back up Tom Morgan's shutout pitching.

Only a year ago today the Yankees whipped Cleveland to clinch their fifth straight pennant. Perhaps some of the New Yorkers remembered that as they tore into four Tiger pitchers.

At any rate, they made Morgan's 11th victory, and fifth over the Tigers a simple matter. Yogi Berra and Gil McDougald each chipped in with three hits as the New Yorkers won their 95th game of the season—good but not good enough.

Cerv started the rout in the fourth inning when he hit a three-run homer into the left field seats. The ball cleared the 365-foot mark. It was his fourth of the season.

The hefty Yankee leftfielder followed with his fifth home run in the fifth inning. He drove the ball into the eighth row of the bleachers. Not very many players have hit base balls into that sector.

Then Robinson completed the Yankee surge when he lashed a three-run homer in the sixth inning. It was a solid blow into the upper right field seats.

Al Aber started for the Tigers but was batted out in the fourth inning when the Yankees flurried for five straight hits. Following Aber to the mound were Ray Herbert, Dick Marlowe, and Frank Lary. It was Aber's 11th setback against five wins.

About the only thing left for Casey Stengel's crew is to shoot for the mark of most victories by a second place club. Detroit set that mark when it won 100 games in 1915 when it finished second to Boston, which won 101.

Indians Near Pennant, Beat Senators, 4-2

CLEVELAND, Sept. 14 (AP) — Cleveland sprinted to within two victories of the American League pennant tonight as the Indians piled up all their runs in the first inning to beat the Washington Nationals 4-2. Mike Garcia, yielding five hits, hurled his 18th victory.

With nine games left to play this season, the Tribe stayed 8½ games ahead of the New York Yankees, who won 11-0 today in Detroit.

It was Cleveland's 105th victory of the season, against 40 losses, improving on a Tribe record that was set in 1920 when Tris Speaker's world series winners finished the season with 98 wins.

The Tribe, which finished its season with an 18-4 record against the Nats, registered all its runs in the first inning off southpaw Chuck Stobbs.

Stobbs, who suffered his 11th loss against 9 victories, was relieved in the second by young Camilo Pascual, who pitched seven innings of hitless ball, save for a hit in the third. Pascual retired the last 17 batters in order and struck out eight in seven frames.

Hal Newhouser relieved Garcia in the eighth, after the Big Bear walked two men. Ray Narleski went to the Cleveland mound in the ninth. Neither reliefer gave up any hits.

Danleiy Yields One Hit; Central Lunch Bows To Keyser, 7-2

Ridder Motors, Inc., of Keyser, and Michelbach Furniture Company, of Alexandria, Va., marched into the semi-finals of the Cumberland Recreation Department sponsored Western Maryland Softball Tournament last night by eliminating Central Quick Lunch and the Amvets, a pair of Cumberland teams, at Penn Avenue Field.

The Keyser negro aggregation whipped Central to the tune of 7-2 while Michelbach blanked the Amvets, 4-0.

Smith Masters Central

Ray Smith, Keyser twirler, limited Central Lunch to two hits in the opening game while Ridder's hammered Ed Decker and Jack Mayo for 15 safeties, including circuit belts by Junie Perry and Harry Coleman.

Central's hits were credited to Basilio and Goss and both were singles. Smith fanned six and issued seven bases on balls.

Junie Perry and Ray Smith sparked Ridder's attack with three hits each. Perry blasted a homer and two singles and Ray Smith rapped a two-bagger and two one-base wallops. "Sonny" Smith garnered a triple and single while Ted Taylor and Frank Thompson had two singles each.

E. Price turned in several nice catches in centerfield for Keyser while Ronnie Cage, Central's centerfielder, cut down three runners with perfect throws to the plate.

Ridder's won its first round game from the Cumberland B.P.O. Elks last week by the score of 2-1.

Michelbach, winner over Perabee Lounge by the score of 12-1 in the opening round, marked up its second win in the tourney by shutting out the Amvets of the City League.

Danleiy Hurls 1-Hitter

Danleiy, Alexandria righthander, had a no-hitter going until the 6th with two away when Bob McGreevy beat out a roller to short and took second on the infielder's wild throw. It was scored as a hit and error and cheated Danleiy of a no-hit performance. The Virginian struck out the first five batters to face him and had a total of eight strikeouts for the game. He issued two bases on balls.

Michelbach scored two runs in the second and added two more tallies in the sixth.

Weinacht and Speight shared four of the winners' seven hits obtained off Glenn Kauffman.

Jimmy Collins featured afield for the Amvets with two nice running catches, the last one coming in the 7th with two runners on the paths and two away.

Ace Marksman Will Appear At Ridgeley

Ken Beegle To Give Exhibition Sunday

"Folks who like to shoot also like to watch the other fellow shoot," says Ken Beegle, internationally famous marksman, who will give a demonstration of his shooting ability on Sunday at 3 p. m. at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

Beegle and his wife, Blanche, make up one of Remington Arms Company's shooting exhibition teams. During the war they toured the country, appearing before millions of G.I.'s at many army camps and naval bases. That their instructions were worthwhile is attested by the fact that they are the recipients of numerous letters from overseas combat soldiers who give the teachings of the Beegles credit for saving their lives.

Stresses Proper Timing

"Every one who shoots is curious about how the other fellow does it and likes to try anything new in the shooting line," says Beegle. "Many of the fellows who watch me shoot go home with the 'If he can do it, so can I' idea and start in practicing some of my shots. And they can 'do it,' too, if only they will not become too easily discouraged and will keep on practicing until they develop the proper timing. Proper timing is the essence of all shooting at moving targets."

Beegle's exhibition is replete with thrilling feats of marksmanship which seem almost impossible to the average sportsman. He uses 14 different types of guns and is equally proficient with rifle, shotgun and pistol. His lecture on proper and safe gun handling, which runs throughout his exhibition, is one which every father should have his young son hear.

Mrs. Beegle assists her husband in all of his exhibitions.

Shoot Starts At Noon

Tony Francis, chairman of the trapshooting committee of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, announces that a registered shoot will precede the exhibition by the Beegles. The program of two events, 50 16-yard targets and 50 handicap, is scheduled to get under way at noon.

The public is invited to attend.

NOTED SHOOTER HERE SUNDAY — Ken Beegle, internationally famous marksman, accompanied by his wife, Blanche, will demonstrate their shooting ability in an exhibition Sunday at the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club at 3 p. m. Beegle uses 14 different types of guns and is equally proficient with rifle, shotgun and pistol. The exhibition will be preceded by a registered trapshoot, commencing at noon.

Upsets Mark Women's Amateur Golf Meet

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14 (AP)—Two young ladies from Illinois with different victory formulas—co-ed Virginia Dennehy of Lake Forest and Mrs. Marjorie Lindsay McMillen of Decatur—sprang major upsets today and turned the 54th Women's National Amateur Golf championship into a wide open free-for-all.

Miss Dennehy, a freckled, 20-year-old Northwestern University sophomore, staged a rousing last minute rally to eliminate Frances (Bunty) Stephens, the British Women's champion, one up in a third round match.

Two down with three to play, Miss Dennehy won the last three holes, sinking a 12-foot putt on the 18th where the tall girl from Lancashire missed a heart-breaker from 42 inches.

Mrs. McMillen, a strong contender for this title for the last several years, threw a string of birdies at Mrs. Grace DeMoss Smith, U. S. Curtis Cup star from Coral Gables, Fla., to win easily, 7 and 6.

Otherwise things went along rather placidly at the cozy, 6,034-yard Allegheny Country Club in suburban Sewickley.

The defending champion, Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., swept through two matches to catch up with the field. She first crushed Mrs. Sam Damon of Honolulu, 7 and 5, and then had to go all out to beat a stubborn Dane, Copenhagen-born Greta Leone of Chicago, 2 and 1.

When Miss Leone won the third hole, Miss Faulk had gone 27 straight holes without losing one.

Surviving with her were two former champions, Grace Lenczyk (1948) and Dorothy Kirby (1951), five teammates of the United States Curtis Cup team, four members of Great Britain's Curtis Cup squad, two sharpshooting Argentine matrons and champions from Mexico and Canada.

Miss Kirby won a 4 and 3 victory over Mrs. W. G. Boggs of Sewickley and set up a fourth round match with 19-year-old Mickey Wright of LaJolla, Calif., low amateur in the Women's Open, winner over Mrs. Ellwood Webster of Ardmore, Pa., 8 and 7.

Miss Lenczyk, whose brother was a semi-finalist in the men's National Amateur recently, turned back Betty Garber of Layhill, Md., 6 and 5. She gets the winner of the third round match between Miss Faulk and Greta Leone of Chicago.

Other U. S. Curtis Cuppers to triumph were Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., who downed Mrs. Edward McAuliffe of Newton Center Mass., 3 and 1; Pat Lesser of Seattle, 5 and 3 winner over Eileen Stulb of Augusta, Ga.; little Barbara Romack, who defeated Mrs. Nancy Martin of Garrison, Md., 6 and 5; and Stocky Ziske of Waterford, Wis., an easy 8 and 7 victor over Mrs. John Burress of Pittsburgh.

(Second round)

Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., defeated Mrs. J. Davidge Warfield, Sewickley, Pa., 6 and 4.

Mrs. Maxon Berger, Buffalo, N. Y., defeated Mrs. Maurice Glick, Pikesville, Md., 2 and 1.

Mrs. A. H. Allen, Arlington, Va., defeated Mrs. Walter Acuff, Jr., Dala, Pa., 1 up, 20 holes.

Grace Lenczyk, Newington, Conn., defeated Betty Garber, Layhill, Md., 6 and 5.

Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, defeated Mrs. J. Walker Hoopes, Wilmington, Del., 5 and 4.

Mrs. A. H. Allen, Arlington, Va., defeated Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., 5 and 3.

Shepherd To Host Fairmont Saturday

Rocky Defends His Title 4th Time Tonight

One Of 39 Writers Picks Ez To Win Go At Yankee Stadium

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—Rocky Marciano whipped Ezzard Charles before and he's 5-1 to do it again tomorrow night at Yankee Stadium in the fourth defense of his world heavyweight title.

The continuation of their rousing June 17 battle is scheduled for 10:30 p.m. (EDT) with no home television. There will be a closed circuit theater-TV showing in 50 cities. A radio network (CBS) will carry the bout coast to coast.

Although Charles lasted the 15-round route in their first meeting, it is the consensus that he will be knocked out this time. Only one writer of 39 polled picked Charles to win back the title he lost to Jersey Joe Walcott in 1951.

The pick here is Marciano by a knockout in about eight rounds and maybe quicker if Charles comes out swinging.

May Attract 46,000

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, still talked about a crowd of 46,000 and $525,000, just a bit under the $543,092 gross for the first fight. Norris said $300,000 was "in" when business opened this morning and he predicted an advance of from $375,000 to $400,000 before activities are transferred to the ball park.

The National League pennant race and Hurricane Edna stole the play from the fight over the weekend but the promoters hope fans coming in for the Milwaukee-New York series also will take in the fight.

Charles, making an unprecedented third bid to become the first ex-heavy champ to win back the title, thrilled the fans three months ago with his game conduct under heavy fire. Although Rocky raised egg-sized lumps on his face, the Cincinnati Negro refused to go down.

Rocky Is 5-1 Choice

The customers know Charles can take a tremendous punch but they apparently aren't convinced he has much of a chance to win. When they met in June, Marciano was a 3½-1 favorite. Now it's 5-1 or even higher in some circles. The betting is 12-5 Charles won't last the limit and even money the fight won't go 10 rounds. The price against Charles knocking out Marciano is a staggering 6-1.

Most fight managers and trainers think Charles should shoot the works in an early bid to flatten the champ or cut him up. He sliced a gash over Rocky's left eye in the fourth round of the first fight but wasn't able to follow up his advantage although he led on all score cards at the end of eight rounds.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14 (INS)—"Helen of Troy" parted Sam Bischoff and Warner Brothers. Sam thought he was going to produce it but another version was used.

Now Sam has a new contract with the up and coming Allied Artists to make two pictures a year. The First is "Phenix City Story" (not to be confused with Phoenix, Arizona).

This is the true story of the lawless, corrupt town in Alabama which made national headlines after several murders went unprosecuted.

Glenn Ford, Edward G. Robinson and George Raft are in the cast, and Crane Wilbur (I suppose this is his story) will direct.

After seeing Eva Bartok, onetime girlfriend of the Marquis de Milford-Haven, on TV in London I'm wondering if she will look better in the picture she starts next month for N. Peter Rathvon.

Peter will film "Embassy Baby," with Miss Bartok in the lead, speaking both English and German. Stuart Schulberg, son of Ben Schulberg, will produce, and John Brahm will be at the directional helm.

Miss Bartok played in "Saint Joan" on TV, a play which I have seen many times but never as badly done as she did it.

Dan Dailey went on the Paramount lot to visit Bob Hope in "The Eddie Foy Story," but after Dapper Dan got a look at Milly Vitale ("Mrs. Foy") he forgot all about Hope.

Seems Dan speaks Italian quite fluently as he spent two years in Italy during the war, and the first thing you know he and the Italian lovely were rattling along in a private conversation that excluded everyone else.

My personal spy on the set reports that one of the things they talked about was setting up a date for Dan to take Milly to the premiere of "Sabrina." Now what's Gwenn O'Connor going to do about this?

There was some talk six months ago about starring Cesare Siepi in a film. The handsome Metropolitan star photographs like a million but he just couldn't learn English.

In a letter I'm told that Cesare has made his motion picture in Italy. While he was singing "Don Giovanni" at the Salzburg music festival he made his film. Interesting that Elizabeth Bergner's husband, Paul Czinner, produced Siepi's initial film.

Cesare makes his San Francisco opera debut before returning to the Metropolitan.

I wonder sometimes if Columbia wishes it had been looking out the window the day it bought condemned man Caryl Chessman's book, "Cell 245, Death Row." For one thing the script can't end as long as California's most notorious prisoner continues to keep himself out of the gas chamber.

He has been "reprieved" at the last minute four or five times—and he acts as his own attorney.

I can tell you, however, that if the Chessman story is filmed the actor who'll most likely play the role is William Campbell.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The newest twosome in town is pretty Jarma Lewis and Herman Hoffman, one of Dore Schary's assistants.

Joni James, she with the gorgeous singing voice, is spending two days having tests made by MGM.

Jane Withers has bought herself a new and larger house because her three children are growing so fast she needs more room.

Dagmar is coming back. Where has she been? She and her husband, Danny Dayton, are shopping for a house to live here.

Audrey Hepburn is well enough to go hiking in Switzerland, which proves that she's getting well fast.

Roxanne, the beautiful blonde girl featured on TV's "Beat The Clock," and who smiles at you from cigaret ads, caught the attention of Billy Wilder. Result—she'll play Elaine in "Seven Year Itch." She'll follow the company here from New York when Marilyn Monroe, Tom Ewell,and the rest of them return from the big town location.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Horrible Job

A man from the Voice of America named Dan Scherer popped into the Artist and Writers Restaurant the other day to down a few drinks and rest a bit from his job which is an odd and rather horrible one.

It is his unenviable task to listen to news commentators in the hope of getting meat for a weekly digest of opinion which is beamed abroad. Poor guy listens to total of 28 news commentators — all shades of news commentators from Fulton Lewis Jr. to J. Fred Muggs. He can't work in all 28 every day, of course, but he does manage about a dozen commentators a day, a fearful thing.

Out of all that crazy mixed up opinion, how, I wondered, does one arrive at a balanced diet to beam at the rest of the world? Well, said Mr. Scherer, believe it or not, the 28 experts, who may be miles apart on the question of, say, Senator McCarthy, are pretty much in agreement on the sort of story the Voice likes to air. The Voice doesn't like to spread around our domestic squabbles, naturally, and on other things there is singular uniformity.

Take a big story like the Supreme Court decision barring segregation. Everyone agreed it was a good thing. Scherer has become a world authority on what any commentator will say about any given issue. Claims he can predict to a heartbeat the degree of indignation any one guy will get worked up over any particular problem from Formosa to tax reform.

The mechanics of listening to all this profound thought are somewhat complicated. Sometimes two commentators, both wildly indignant about different things, are on the air at the same time. Scherer absorbs one dose of indignation straight and gets the other dose of indignation by transcription the next day. Transcribed indignation, he says, doesn't differ much from the live stuff except that it's a day late which takes some of the zip off it.

When Scherer has absorbed every ounce of opinion he can hold on his stomach at once, he turns his wife over to the loudspeaker and she listens. Her listening, though, has been temporarily discommoded by the arrival of a baby. The baby has contributed nothing to the household yet and has not even learned to shut up at 7 p. m. for Fulton Lewis Jr. followed by Quincy Howe on another network.

Naturally, Scherer has developed of the opinion-makers some opinions of his own. Of Quincy Howe, for instance: "Moderate, if not academic in everything — appearance, writing and delivery."

Then there are the more flamboyant types like John Vandercook and George Hamilton Combs. Scherer was especially delighted by a phrase used by Combs to characterize Clement Atlee and his Labor party group who visited Peiping. He called it "the British road company of 'Alice in Wonderland.'"

"For the pure joy of hearing a man deliver what he's written," Scherer will take Eric Sevareid who, he says, "has an astute sense of humor that you wouldn't expect from his bearing and who is sometimes called a writer's writer."

Howard K. Smith has a great sense of humor, too, thinks Scherer. Most commentator humor, though, is a little too specialized for the worldwide audience.

Besides Sevareid, Scherer's other great favorite is Henry J. Taylor, whose views are far to the right of Sevareid's, because, he says, Taylor is "completely vigorous."

"Taylor's heart and soul are bound up in this country," says Scherer, "but not to the point of chauvinism. Even the title of his show — 'Your Land and Mine' — indicates it. You have to make it clear overseas that he's not talking to them but addressing his remarks to Americans. Taylor gives engineers a fit—the way he punches words."

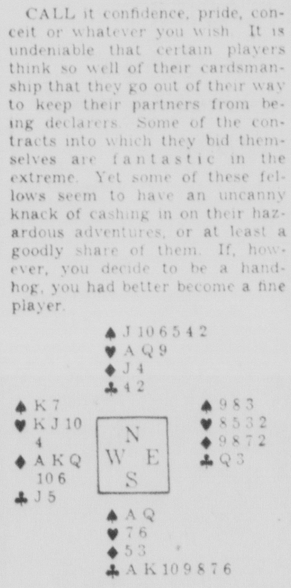
Daily Bridge Lesson

by Barclay

PRIDE CAN BE JUSTIFIED

CALL it confidence, pride, conceit or whatever you wish. It is undeniable that certain players think so well of their cardsmanship that they go out of their way to keep their partners from being declarers. Some of the contracts into which they bid themselves are fantastic in the extreme. Yet some of these fellows seem to have an uncanny knack of cashing in on their hazardous adventures, or at least a goodly share of them. If, however, you decide to be a handhog, you had better become a fine player.



(Dealer, West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♦	Pass	Pass	5 ♣
Dbl.

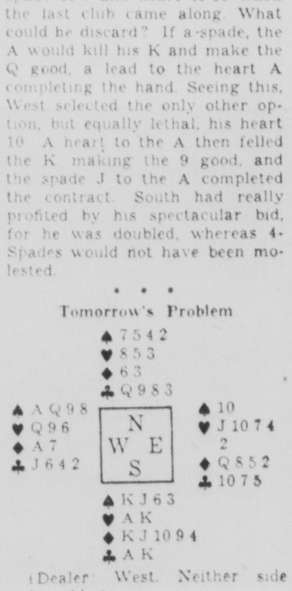
A sounder bidder in the South would have called only 4-Clubs. As it happened, North then would have bid 4-Spades, a contract he could make without going through any special contortions, as he should lose only two tricks in diamonds and one in trumps. But South put heavy weight on himself with the call he made, which West was happy to double, though he had no tricks in sight on the trump suit.

Since West was vulnerable, South built a plan based on every important card being in that hand. The diamond K and Q scored and the switch to the heart J was won by the Q. Then came the great string of clubs, with the first two rounds eliminating the defenders' trumps. The discards from dummy were made so that it retained the spade J-10 and heart A-9 when the last trump was led.

West meanwhile had discarded in the best way, clinging to the spade K-7 and heart K-10 when the last club came along. What could he discard? If a spade, the A would kill his K and make the Q good, a lead to the heart A completing the hand. Seeing this, West selected the only other option, but equally lethal, his heart 10. A heart to the A then felled the K, making the 9 good, and the spade J to the A completed the contract. South had really profited by his spectacular bid, for he was doubled, whereas 4-Spades would not have been molested.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer, West. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should South act with his big hand if West opens with 1-Spade? How if West opens with 1-Club?

Daily Bridge Lesson

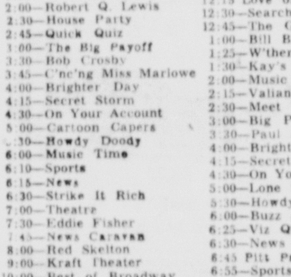
PRIDE CAN BE JUSTIFIED

CALL it confidence, pride, conceit or whatever you wish. It is undeniable that certain players think so well of their cardsmanship that they go out of their way to keep their partners from being declarers. Some of the contracts into which they bid themselves are fantastic in the extreme. Yet some of these fellows seem to have an uncanny knack of cashing in on their hazardous adventures, or at least a goodly share of them. If, however, you decide to be a handhog, you had better become a fine player.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♦	Pass	Pass	5 ♣
Dbl.

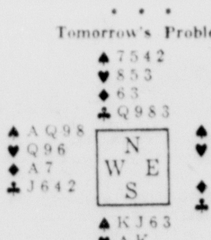
A sounder bidder in the South would have called only 4-Clubs. As it happened, North then would have bid 4-Spades, a contract he could make without going through any special contortions, as he should lose only two tricks in diamonds and one in trumps. But South put heavy weight on himself with the call he made, which West was happy to double, though he had no tricks in sight in the trump suit.

Since West was vulnerable, South built a plan based on every important card being in that hand. The diamond K and Q scored and the switch to the heart J was won by the Q. Then came the great string of clubs, with the first two rounds eliminating the defenders' trumps. The discards from dummy were made so that it retained the spade J-10 and heart A-9 when the last trump was led.

West meanwhile had discarded in the best way, clinging to the spade K-7 and heart K-10 when the last club came along. What could he discard? If a spade, the A would kill his K and make the Q good, a lead to the heart A completing the hand. Seeing this, West selected the only other option, but equally lethal, his heart 10. A heart to the A then felled the K, making the 9 good, and the spade J to the A completed the contract. South had really profited by his spectacular bid, for he was doubled, whereas 4-Spades would not have been molested.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should South act with his big hand if West opens with 1-Spade? How if West opens with 1-Club?

Sir Gordon Richards And Never Say Die Invited To Laurel

LAUREL, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Sir Gordon Richards, England's greatest jockey, and Never Say Die, an American horse that won two of Britain's biggest races this year, were invited today by Laurel to come to their International on Nov. 3.

Richards, who retired last month with a modern record of 4,870 winners, was asked to be honorary steward.

Robert Sterling Clark of Upperville, Va., was invited to race his Never Say Die in the $65,000 mile and a half turf event. Never Say Die won the St. Leger race at Doncaster, England, Saturday and had been first in the Epsom Derby in June.

Clark was uncertain Saturday about the future of Never Say Die. "I don't know if I shall retire Never Say Die to stud this year or run him as a 4-year-old," he said.

Sir Gordon Richards And Never Say Die Invited To Laurel

LAUREL, Md., Sept. 14 (AP)—Sir Gordon Richards, England's greatest jockey, and Never Say Die, an American horse that won two of Britain's biggest races this year, were invited today by Laurel to come to their International on Nov. 3.

Richards, who retired last month with a modern record of 4,870 winners, was asked to be honorary steward.

Robert Sterling Clark of Upperville, Va., was invited to race his Never Say Die in the $65,000 mile and a half turf event. Never Say Die won the St. Leger race at Doncaster, England, Saturday and had been first in the Epsom Derby in June.

Clark was uncertain Saturday about the future of Never Say Die. "I don't know if I shall retire Never Say Die to stud this year or run him as a 4-year-old," he said.

Officials Study Combining Books Of Registration

Hagerstown System Is Outlined Here

City and county officials last night heard a first-hand report on how to combine election and registration records of a city and a county, to eliminate confusion among the voters, increase general interest in voting and to operate the system on a more economical basis.

Mrs. Harold E. Myers, Hagerstown, clerk to the Washington County Board of Election Supervisors, outlined in considerable detail how Hagerstown and Washington County officials in 1951 combined their energy and resources to set up a simplified system of voting records and registration books.

It was pointed out that the neighboring county had the same problems which exist here. The county is set up in election districts and precincts. The city of Hagerstown, like Cumberland, was set up in wards and precincts.

Would End Confusion

Many people registered for state and county elections and then found they could not vote in city elections. Many registered on the city books and then found they could not vote in state and county elections.

Mrs. Myers said the Board of Election Supervisors, sparked by the mayor of Hagerstown, began the task of combining records, so that one registration office now serves both city and county, and one set of election records is all that is needed.

In outlining the details, Mrs. Myers said the task was not as involved as it might at first seem. Some realignment of precincts and districts was necessary, but was accomplished with a minimum of confusion.

As a result, Mrs. Myers said, the last election there was held with practically no confusion, and everyone who wanted to vote was on the books.

She suggested that Cumberland and Allegany County follow a similar pattern and declared, "after all, we are spending the taxpayers' money and should save where we can, but much more important is the inconvenience to the individual citizen which can be eliminated by combining voting records.

Mrs. Myers said the changeover would cost about $1,200 but would save the city up to $3,000 per year.

Committee Named

City and county officials discussed the problem in relation to Cumberland and Allegany County at some length, and there was general agreement that the idea should be pursued to its fullest.

Mayor Roy W. Eves and County Board President William H. Lemmert, agreed that a committee should be set up to study the problem, work out a plan and make a finished recommendation.

They named William A. Wilson, president of the Board of Election Supervisors, as chairman; Wallace Ullery, city clerk; city and county engineering department representatives and representatives of the Board of Assessments, along with City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan and County Attorney Gorman Getty. This group will study the geographical problems involved, the possible legal problems, and the mechanics of the combination. Then they will make a report and a recommendation.

It was agreed that one registration for all elections would be desirable. It was also agreed that if it is feasible, something should be done immediately, so that necessary legislation can be introduced at the 1955 session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Mayor Eves asked that a report be made at a joint meeting of city and county officials on or before December 1.

Voting Machines Urged

Mrs. Myers also outlined the advantages of voting machines, and said that, while they are expensive, they eventually pay for themselves in money saved for conducting elections and in time.

Hagerstown, she said, rents machines for city elections from the county at $20 per machine for the primary and general elections. Hagerstown has 17 precincts and Washington County as 64 precincts. Registration there is about 18,000 in Hagerstown and 36,803 in the county.

She also stated that her city and county have made great savings on elections by using schoolhouses and other public buildings, and no longer rent private dwellings, as was once the practice. Voters in Washington County, including Hagerstown, always go to the same polling places, which also helps to eliminate confusion, she noted.

Mrs. Myers, who was accompanied here by her husband, said the combined records and the voting machines have been accepted very favorably by everyone, "except a few politicians," and that the initial cost is a sound investment.

Present at the meeting were County Commissioner James Orr; City Commissioners William H. Buchholtz, William V. Keegan, William J. Edwards and John J. Long; Matthew Mullaney, William McDermott, Irvin Neat and John Robb of the election board and registration office; Lester Bolinger of the city engineer's office, Finan, Ullery, Lemmert, Eves, Getty, and Mr. and Mrs. Myers.

Those present all expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Myers for coming here to help with the problem.

ROBERT WEISMAN, 'HAM'

Boy, 11, Is Cumberland's Youngest 'Ham' Operator

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

About two years ago, ten-year-old Robert Weisman, 516 Washington Street, became interested in radio and purchased the necessary equipment to build a crystal set, which has always been a challenge to a youth.

Today, at the age of 11, he is a full-fledged novice amateur radio operator, or "ham," and holds a license from Federal Communications Commission officials in Washington.

His call letters are WN3ZQG and he contacts other area 'hams' from his station located in the attic of the home of his mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Weisman.

Bobby, who attends Allegany High School, is the youngest member of the Mountain Amateur Radio Club, with clubrooms in the home of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, and is also one of the youngest novice 'hams' in the Tri-State district.

Since receiving his FCC license on August 26 of this year, Bobby has officially contacted another 'ham' in Frederick and anticipates getting in touch with other area operators.

Spent Year Studying

The young radio enthusiast took an examination for his license from a member of the Radio Club who has a general class license. This examination consisted of a written test as well as a knowledge of code.

Bobby remarked that he took his time in learning radio procedure and during the course of his year's work got invaluable aid and pertinent information from older members of the Radio Club who were most helpful in explaining various phases of radio to him.

He says that if an interested youth buckles down he can acquire a novice license in about three months. Bobby's novice license is good for one year.

And if he wants it, he is eligible for a general class license, which is good for a five-year period and may be renewed any number of times.

He aims to try for the general class license when his present permit expires.

Two years ago he decided to get necessary material to build a crystal set and gave himself some basic training in radio. Later he bought additional equipment and constructed a one-tube set.

He then built a short wave unit and finally with the purchase of two kits, constructed his present receiver and transmitter set which is now in the attic of his home.

Club Anxious To Help

Bobby encourages other boys his age to become interested in radio and said that by learning to build a crystal set, which is a fundamental of radio, a boy can later realize the more complicated aspects.

And he figures he doesn't have too much money tied up in his useful and interesting hobby. Why is it useful?

Well, Bobby remarked that in case of an emergency this country will rely immensely on ham operators in the event normal communications of the United States are curtailed.

The Radio Club is willing to help all interested persons, especially high school students, to learn the various phases of radio, and is willing to help teaching them code, theory and get them started toward a ham's license.

Meanwhile Bobby will be busy at his station contacting other operators to further his communications experience.

Rollins Urges Law To Protect Md. Policemen

Attorney General Edward D. E. Rollins, currently stumping Western Maryland on a pre-election campaign tour, said yesterday there ought to be a law "specifically designed to protect our policemen."

Rollins, who spent yesterday visiting various Garrett County communities, pointed out that between January 1951 and May 1954, some 431 officers were assaulted while in the performance of their duties.

"In the last two years," Rollins recalled, "two policemen have been killed while in the performance of their duties. For the most part, the men who were found guilty of assaulting an officer were fined anywhere from five dollars to one hundred dollars. In many instances, they were given 10 to 30 days in jail, and in one or two cases from 10 to 20 years.

"Since the police officer stands between the peaceful and law-abiding citizens and those predators who prowl both day and night, seeking booty with utter disregard of law and other people's rights, it seems to me that there should be a special law, carefully thought out for the protection of our policemen and to see to it that when they are assaulted while in performance of their duties, the persons who commit the assaults should be promptly and adequately punished.

"I believe that this type of legislation and similar legislation in other fields of government will destroy many evils presently existing and enhance good government throughout the state."

Rollins will be in Hagerstown today and in Frederick tomorrow. Appointed to office by Governor McKeldin in 1952, he is seeking election to succeed himself.

Falls At Home

John Tressler, 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tressler, 925 Grand Avenue, yesterday morning fell at home and bumped his lip and was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for observation.

OVERSEAS BOUND — Second Lt. Charles R. Sitter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sitter, 400 Piedmont Avenue, has arrived at Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he will serve until he is reassigned to overseas duty with the Marine Corps in January. Lt. Sitter graduated August 21 from Officers Basic School at Quantico, Va., and was honor man in his 145-man training company.

The Weather

Yesterday was another ideal day for those people who like the fall season of the year. However, the evenings have been cooling off quite a bit and the mercury dipped to a low of 49 degrees yesterday. The official high for the day was 82 and at 7:45 p. m. yesterday the temperature was 70 degrees and humidity at 6 p. m. was 56 per cent. Forecast for today calls for rather cloudy skies and cooler temperatures, with a chance of scattered light rain.

State Advocates Local Option In Desegregation

County Differences Cited By Official

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP) — The state attorney general's office said today local option by county officials should determine when Negro and white children may go to Maryland public schools together.

W. Giles Parker, assistant attorney general, disclosed the official state attitude in outlining a speech he is scheduled to deliver tomorrow night to parents protesting biracial education.

The group, whose stated purpose is "to formalize the organization of the Maryland P-TA council for separate schools," had asked the state for its official views on the subject.

Parker said he had agreed to explain the state's stand on integration.

That stand also will be made known to the Supreme Court of the United States, which has asked 16 Southern states for suggestions on how and when integration should become effective, Parker said.

Should Decide When

Baltimore City officials approved immediate integration in time for the school term which began last week. The city had about 79,000 white students and 46,000 Negroes last year.

Parker said the attorney general's office feels county boards of education also should be allowed to determine when all schools should be opened to Negroes and whites.

"We feel there should be a variation in local procedure," he said, "because of the variation of local circumstances. There is as much difference between Garrett and Calvert county, for instance, as there is between Maine and Mississippi."

In some counties integration presents fewer problems than in others, he said, adding that the relative sizes of Negro and white populations often might determine how and when a particular county might best end its two-race system of education.

Questions Raised

Parker said this is essentially what Maryland will tell the Supreme Court in a brief to be filed next month.

Last spring the court, in declaring separate schools for Negroes and whites violate the constitution, asked the attorney generals of affected states for suggestions on how to implement its ruling.

Maryland's official views, said Parker, resulted from a study made after the high court in effect asked the affected states these questions:

1. Should the states "forthwith desegregate" or should there be "reasonable lengths of times" before desegregation becomes effective in the various localities, depending on local circumstances?

2. Should the Supreme Court itself or the district federal courts issue the order detailing when and how to eliminate segregation?

Parker said he also would recall in his speech tomorrow night Atty. Gen. Edward D. E. Rollins' statement of last spring, emphasizing the state would have no part of any "attempt to circumvent" the Supreme Court ruling.

Rollins told the Board of Education that with its help he hoped "to come up with a plan that will prove workable in Maryland and may be of help to the court and our sister states."

The board at that time adopted a resolution saying it felt sure local school officials would "settle this problem without resorting to chicanery or devious methods."

Huge Derrick Goes Up

American Bridge Company construction workers are assembling one leg of a stiff-leg derrick to be used to erect the new steel bridge span on the West Side across the Potomac River. The tied-arch bridge designed by the Maryland State Roads Commission will have two arches, each 156 feet long and tied together on the center pier of the industrial dam recently constructed in the river between Cumberland and Ridgeley. Two of the workers can be seen on the boom of a motor crane as they help assemble the derrick, which will be approximately 40 feet high on the Maryland abutment of the span. The $315,000 contract to build the bridge, which will replace the Blue Bridge, was let to the American Bridge Company by the State Roads Commission.

Park To Have 'Face-Lifting'

Grove 4 of Constitution Park is having its face lifted and park employes are facilitating the work with the use of a brand-new Tiger tractor which was put into operation for the first time yesterday.

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, last night said the results of the use of the little implement measured up to and beyond expectations.

Park employes yesterday put down ground limestone and will later plant grass seed in order that erosion of that section of the park will be checked.

Residents are reminded that the Grove will be closed until some time next summer, although cars will be permitted to travel as far as the deer pen.

Golden said it is hoped that a good sod will be developed in furthering the beauty of the park, as well as checking on erosion.

The small tractor, which is only 65 inches long and 39 inches wide, has a steering column 36 inches from the ground and it weighs only 593 pounds.

Attachments include a cutter bar, small bulldozer - snowplow combination, rotary hoe used to loosen the soil, and a lime spreader.

Soil Conservation Group Installs New Records System, To Conduct Inspection

A new records and reports system which will be used by soil conservation offices was installed at a meeting of members of the Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties soil conservationists yesterday in the local offices on Washington Street.

The new reports will show a breakdown of time for soil conservation workers with daily reports being made. Time will be divided into such categories as work with agencies, farm planning and conservation tours. These daily reports will be consolidated into monthly reports to the state offices in College Park.

The new system also will follow the progress of new farmer members of the cooperative. The new member is first placed in an initial category, then in the advanced stage, and finally becomes a basic member.

Yesterday's meeting was conducted by John W. Barnard, state conservationist from College Park, aided by James Turnbull, state engineer, also from College Park, and Hugh Hancock, area conservationist, Hagerstown.

Hancock has charge of an area comprising the seven western counties of the state, including Allegany, Garrett and Washington.

Attending yesterday's session were Hancock's chief clerk from the area office in Hagerstown, Estella B. Williams, also James Smith, agricultural engineer, Paul A. Anderson, work unit conservationist, and Mrs. James H. Smith, clerk, all from Hagerstown.

William W. Nace, work unit conservationist, and Harry L. Porter, both from Oakland, and Martin Gordon and Stuart Delbrook, conservation aids from Allegany County, Kenneth M. Stone, soil scientist of Allegany County, also were in attendance.

Today, George E. Wheeler, agricultural engineer of Charles County, will join Hancock and Turnbull to inspect the field work of Allegany County's soil conservation program from a standpoint of certifying certain practices for Agricultural Conservation Program payments. The annual inspection of the local office also will be conducted.

Kickoff Dinner Held By Largest Unit Of Chest

Advance Gifts Group Goal Set At $60,000

The first large phase of the 1954-55 Cumberland Community Chest officially got under way yesterday evening, when the advance gifts committee held its "kickoff" dinner at Ali Ghan Country Club.

The committee, which solicits gifts from corporations and individuals who are in a position to make substantial contributions to the Chest fund, last night accepted its goal of $60,000. The goal for the entire campaign is $100,999.23.

Joseph K. Trenton, a member of the committee, gave the invocation and greetings and introductions were offered by Lynn C. Lashley, who along with Edgar D. Vandegrift, is co-chairman of the advance gifts committee.

Work Is Outlined

William R. Carscaden, general chairman, then outlined the work of the advance gifts unit, reviewing the results of last year's campaign.

Lashley stressed the importance to the some 25 committee members who were at last night's banquet of attending the first advance gift report luncheon, set for Monday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Vandegrift said the Red Feather agencies have a bigger job than ever before this year, commenting that they have conducted nine consecutive successful campaigns. He said he hoped this year would mark a tenth consecutive over-subscription.

A highlight of the evening was the appearance of Arthur Williamson, last year's Red Feather Kid, 12-year-old member of the Boy Scouts, who addressed the group and appealed to them on behalf of the youth of Cumberland to do a good job this year.

Williamson tied a square knot in a strand of rope, which he learned to do in the Boy Scouts, one of the Chest's nine agencies, and said he wanted the advance gifts committee to be "square with the Community Chest agencies."

The Red Feather Kid for this year's campaign will be selected Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the City Hall.

Officials Study Combining Books Of Registration

Hagerstown System Is Outlined Here

City and county officials last night heard a first-hand report on how to combine election and registration records of a city and a county, to eliminate confusion among the voters, increase general interest in voting and to operate the system on a more economical basis.

Mrs. Harold E. Myers, Hagerstown, clerk to the Washington County Board of Election Supervisors, outlined in considerable detail how Hagerstown and Washington County officials in 1951 combined their energy and resources to set up a simplified system of voting records and registration books.

It was pointed out that the neighboring county had the same problems which exist here. The county is set up in election districts and precincts. The city of Hagerstown, like Cumberland, was set up in wards and precincts.

Would End Confusion

Many people registered for state and county elections and then found they could not vote in city elections. Many registered on the city books and then found they could not vote in state and county elections.

Mrs. Myers said the Board of Election Supervisors, sparked by the mayor of Hagerstown, began the task of combining records, so that one registration office now serves both city and county, and one set of election records is all that is needed.

In outlining the details, Mrs. Myers said the task was not as involved as it might at first seem. Some realignment of precincts and districts was necessary, but was accomplished with a minimum of confusion.

As a result, Mrs. Myers said, the last election there was held with practically no confusion, and everyone who wanted to vote was on the books.

She suggested that Cumberland and Allegany County follow a similar pattern and declared, "after all, we are spending the taxpayers' money and should save where we can, but much more important is the inconvenience to the individual citizen which can be eliminated by combining voting records.

Mrs. Myers said the changeover would cost about $1,200 but would save the city up to $3,000 per year.

Committee Named

City and county officials discussed the problem in relation to Cumberland and Allegany County at some length, and there was general agreement that the idea should be pursued to its fullest.

Mayor Roy W. Eves and County Board President William H. Lemmert, agreed that a committee should be set up to study the problem, work out a plan and make a finished recommendation.

They named William A. Wilson, president of the Board of Election Supervisors, as chairman; Wallace Ullery, city clerk; city and county engineering department representatives and representatives of the Board of Assessments, along with City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan and County Attorney Gorman Getty. This group will study the geographical problems involved, the possible legal problems, and the mechanics of the combination. Then they will make a report and a recommendation.

It was agreed that one registration for all elections would be desirable. It was also agreed that if it is feasible, something should be done immediately, so that necessary legislation can be introduced at the 1955 session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Mayor Eves asked that a report be made at a joint meeting of city and county officials on or before December 1.

Voting Machines Urged

Mrs. Myers also outlined the advantages of voting machines, and said that, while they are expensive, they eventually pay for themselves in money saved for conducting elections and in time.

Hagerstown, she said, rents machines for city elections from the county at $20 per machine for the primary and general elections. Hagerstown has 17 precincts and Washington County as 64 precincts. Registration there is about 18,000 in Hagerstown and 36,803 in the county.

She also stated that her city and county have made great savings on elections by using schoolhouses and other public buildings, and no longer rent private dwellings, as was once the practice. Voters in Washington County, including Hagerstown, always go to the same polling places, which also helps to eliminate confusion, she noted.

Mrs. Myers, who was accompanied here by her husband, said the combined records and the voting machines have been accepted very favorably by everyone, "except a few politicians," and that the initial cost is a sound investment.

Present at the meeting were County Commissioner James Orr; City Commissioners William H. Buchholtz, William V. Keegan, William J. Edwards and John J. Long; Matthew Mullaney, William McDermott, Irvin Neat and John Robb of the election board and registration office; Lester Bolinger of the city engineer's office, Finan, Ullery, Lemmert, Eves, Getty, and Mr. and Mrs. Myers.

Those present all expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Myers for coming here to help with the problem.

ROBERT WEISMAN, 'HAM'

Boy, 11, Is Cumberland's Youngest 'Ham' Operator

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

About two years ago, ten-year-old Robert Weisman, 516 Washington Street, became interested in radio and purchased the necessary equipment to build a crystal set, which has always been a challenge to a youth.

Today, at the age of 11, he is a full-fledged novice amateur radio operator, or "ham," and holds a license from Federal Communications Commission officials in Washington.

His call letters are WN3ZQG and he contacts other area 'hams' from his station located in the attic of the home of his mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. S. G. Weisman.

Bobby, who attends Allegany High School, is the youngest member of the Mountain Amateur Radio Club, with clubrooms in the home of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, and is also one of the youngest novice 'hams' in the Tri-State district.

Since receiving his FCC license on August 26 of this year, Bobby has officially contacted another 'ham' in Frederick and anticipates getting in touch with other area operators.

Spent Year Studying

The young radio enthusiast took an examination for his license from a member of the Radio Club who has a general class license. This examination consisted of a written test as well as a knowledge of code.

Bobby remarked that he took his time in learning radio procedure and during the course of his year's work got invaluable aid and pertinent information from older members of the Radio Club who were most helpful in explaining various phases of radio to him.

He says that if an interested youth buckles down he can acquire a novice license in about three months. Bobby's novice license is good for one year.

And if he wants it, he is eligible for a general class license, which is good for a five-year period and may be renewed any number of times.

He aims to try for the general class license when his present permit expires.

Two years ago he decided to get necessary material to build a crystal set and gave himself some basic training in radio. Later he bought additional equipment and constructed a one-tube set.

He then built a short wave unit and finally with the purchase of two kits, constructed his present receiver and transmitter set which is now in the attic of his home.

Club Anxious To Help

Bobby encourages other boys his age to become interested in radio and said that by learning to build a crystal set, which is a fundamental of radio, a boy can later realize the more complicated aspects.

And he figures he doesn't have too much money tied up in his useful and interesting hobby. Why is it useful?

Well, Bobby remarked that in case of an emergency this country will rely immensely on ham operators in the event normal communications of the United States are curtailed.

The Radio Club is willing to help all interested persons, especially high school students, to learn the various phases of radio, and is willing to help teaching them code, theory and get them started toward a ham's license.

Meanwhile Bobby will be busy at his station contacting other operators to further his communications experience.

Rollins Urges Law To Protect Md. Policemen

Attorney General Edward D. E. Rollins, currently stumping Western Maryland on a pre-election campaign tour, said yesterday there ought to be a law "specifically designed to protect our policemen."

Rollins, who spent yesterday visiting various Garrett County communities, pointed out that between January 1951 and May 1954, some 431 officers were assaulted while in the performance of their duties.

"In the last two years," Rollins recalled, "two policemen have been killed while in the performance of their duties. For the most part, the men who were found guilty of assaulting an officer were fined anywhere from five dollars to one hundred dollars. In many instances, they were given 10 to 30 days in jail, and in one or two cases from 10 to 20 years.

"Since the police officer stands between the peaceful and law-abiding citizens and those predators who prowl both day and night, seeking booty with utter disregard of law and other people's rights, it seems to me that there should be a special law, carefully thought out for the protection of our policemen and to see to it that when they are assaulted while in performance of their duties, the persons who commit the assaults should be promptly and adequately punished.

"I believe that this type of legislation and similar legislation in other fields of government will destroy many evils presently existing and enhance good government throughout the state."

Rollins will be in Hagerstown today and in Frederick tomorrow. Appointed to office by Governor McKeldin in 1952, he is seeking election to succeed himself.

Falls At Home

John Tressler, 11-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tressler, 925 Grand Avenue, yesterday morning fell at home and bumped his lip and was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for observation.

OVERSEAS BOUND — Second Lt. Charles R. Sitter, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sitter, 400 Piedmont Avenue, has arrived at Camp Pendleton, Calif., where he will serve until he is reassigned to overseas duty with the Marine Corps in January. Lt. Sitter graduated August 21 from Officers Basic School at Quantico, Va., and was honor man in his 145-man training company.

State Advocates Local Option In Desegregation

County Differences Cited By Official

BALTIMORE, Sept. 14 (AP) — The state attorney general's office said today local option by county officials should determine when Negro and white children may go to Maryland public schools together.

W. Giles Parker, assistant attorney general, disclosed the official state attitude in outlining a speech he is scheduled to deliver tomorrow night to parents protesting biracial education.

The group, whose stated purpose is "to formalize the organization of the Maryland P-TA council for separate schools," had asked the state for its official views on the subject.

Parker said he had agreed to explain the state's stand on integration.

That stand also will be made known to the Supreme Court of the United States, which has asked 16 Southern states for suggestions on how and when integration should become effective, Parker said.

Should Decide When

Baltimore City officials approved immediate integration in time for the school term which began last week. The city had about 79,000 white students and 46,000 Negroes last year.

Parker said the attorney general's office feels county boards of education also should be allowed to determine when all schools should be opened to Negroes and whites.

Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, last night said the results of the use of the little implement measured up to and beyond expectations.

Park employes yesterday put down ground limestone and will later plant grass seed in order that erosion of that section of the park will be checked.

Residents are reminded that the Grove will be closed until some time next summer, although cars will be permitted to travel as far as the deer pen.

Golden said it is hoped that a good sod will be developed in furthering the beauty of the park, as well as checking on erosion.

The small tractor, which is only 65 inches long and 39 inches wide, has a steering column 36 inches from the ground and it weighs only 593 pounds.

Attachments include a cutter bar, small bulldozer - snowplow combination, rotary hoe used to loosen the soil, and a lime spreader.

Kickoff Dinner Held By Largest Unit Of Chest

Advance Gifts Group Goal Set At $60,000

The first large phase of the 1954-55 Cumberland Community Chest officially got under way yesterday evening, when the advance gifts committee held its "kickoff" dinner at Ali Ghan Country Club.

The committee, which solicits gifts from corporations and individuals who are in a position to make substantial contributions to the Chest fund, last night accepted its goal of $60,000. The goal for the entire campaign is $100,999.23.

Joseph K. Trenton, a member of the committee, gave the invocation and greetings and introductions were offered by Lynn C. Lashley, who along with Edgar D. Vandegrift, is co-chairman of the advance gifts committee.

Work Is Outlined

William R. Carscaden, general chairman, then outlined the work of the advance gifts unit, reviewing the results of last year's campaign.

Lashley stressed the importance to the some 25 committee members who were at last night's banquet of attending the first advance gift report luncheon, set for Monday at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA.

Vandegrift said the Red Feather agencies have a bigger job than ever before this year, commenting that they have conducted nine consecutive successful campaigns. He said he hoped this year would mark a tenth consecutive oversubscription.

A highlight of the evening was the appearance of Arthur Williamson, last year's Red Feather Kid, 12-year-old member of the Boy Scouts, who addressed the group and appealed to them on behalf of the youth of Cumberland to do a good job this year.

Williamson tied a square knot in a strand of rope, which he learned to do in the Boy Scouts, one of the Chest's nine agencies, and said he wanted the advance gifts committee to be "square with the Community Chest agencies."

The Red Feather Kid for this year's campaign will be selected Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the City Hall.

Soil Conservation Group Installs New Records System, To Conduct Inspection

A new records and reports system which will be used by soil conservation offices was installed at a meeting of members of the Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties soil conservationists yesterday in the local offices on Washington Street.

The new reports will show a breakdown of time for soil conservation workers with daily reports being made. Time will be divided into such categories as work with agencies, farm planning and conservation tours. These daily reports will be consolidated into monthly reports to the state offices in College Park.

The new system also will follow the progress of new farmer members of the cooperative. The new member is first placed in an initial category, then in the advanced stage, and finally becomes a basic member.

Yesterday's meeting was conducted by John W. Barnard, state conservationist from College Park, aided by James Turnbull, state engineer, also from College Park, and Hugh Hancock, area conservationist, Hagerstown.

Hancock has charge of an area comprising the seven western counties of the state, including Allegany, Garrett and Washington.

Attending yesterday's session were Hancock's chief clerk from the area office in Hagerstown, Estella B. Williams, also James Smith, agricultural engineer, Paul A. Anderson, work unit conservationist, and Mrs. James H. Smith, clerk, all from Hagerstown.

William W. Nace, work unit conservationist, and Harry L. Porter, both from Oakland, and Martin Gordon and Stuart Delbrook, conservation aids from Allegany County, Kenneth M. Stone, soil scientist of Allegany County, also were in attendance.

Today, George E. Wheeler, agricultural engineer of Charles County, will join Hancock and Turnbull to inspect the field work of Allegany County's soil conservation program from a standpoint of certifying certain practices for Agricultural Conservation Program payments. The annual inspection of the local office also will be conducted.
